Japan Turns On British in Trade Battle

Fight-to-Finish for South American Field Is Near.

Nipponese Declare New Tariffs Are Menace to Country.

(Copyright, 1933, by the United Press.)

Tokyo, Japan, Aug. 18 (U.P.).—Japan rapidly is preparing an aggressive trade war against Great Britain in retaliation for the action of the British government in barring certain Japanese commodities from British markets, the United Press was informed by leading industrialists today.

A spokesman for a group of Osaka exporters, in western Japan, center of manufacturing and industry in the empire, said one aspect of the campaign would be an effort to eliminate British products from markets in Central and South America, which the British have been seeking to build up recently.

Will Avoid U. S. Clash.

The exporter added that "every effort will be made not to come into competition with goods from the United States in those markets."

An official of the commercial affairs bureau in the foreign office here said Britain's action in denouncing the Indo-Japanese trade agreement, effective in October, and in raising high tariff barriers against Japanese goods were construed as a serious threat to Japan's economic existence.

Efforts are being made, the official said, to settle the growing Anglo-Japanese differences by new and amicable agreements, but it was admitted the Japanese saw little hope for such trade accords. The trade war, they felt, is inevitable.

Fight to Finish Planned.

The industrialists in Osaka, Japan's largest city, were more outspoken in their denunciation of England's trade tactics. They declared that England has shown she is out to bar Japan from British-controlled markets and that in retaliation a trade "fight to the finish" can be their only answer.

The powerful Mitsui interests—one of the greatest commercial groups in the world—already have completed plans to send a delegation of trade experts to Central and South America to survey the markets there, size up demands for goods they may produce, and seek to supply those demands with goods "made in Japan."

Furthermore, the government is contemplating a request for several millions of yen to be included in the new budget for "production of foreign trade."

20 Senators Urging Republican Job Ban

Note to Roosevelt Asks Deserving Democrats Receive Posts.

No more jobs for Republicans is the gist of a letter to President Roosevelt that was being circulated among Senate Democrats yesterday.

Twenty signatures of Democratic senators, most of them from Southern States, already have been obtained, but the reputed signers, when queried, denied having had anything to do with the letter or its composition.

The letter was said to protest appointment of Republicans to Federal jobs in Washington and to ask the practice be discontinued in favor of deserving Democrats from the senators' home States.

Accused Barber Freed; 7-Day Violation Charged

The first alleged violation of the seven-day barber law was tried yesterday in Police Court, with the defendant, Alfonso Perruso, of 805 North Capitol street, being adjudged not guilty.

Perruso was charged by competitors with having operated his shop for seven consecutive days, a violation of the act passed by Congress December 22, 1932. Evidence introduced was conflicting, and on motion of the defense's attorney, Harry T. Whelan, Judge Hitt adjudged the defendant not guilty.

Coast Guard Hurries To Disabled Lake Ship

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Aug. 18 (AP).—The Coast Guard cutter Seminole was sent this afternoon to the aid of the steamer Alex B. Uhrig, which was flying distress signals a quarter of a mile off shore, 8 miles west of Crisp Point, on the south shore of Lake Superior.

The Uhrig had a line fouled in the propeller. She carries a crew of about 25 men.

Cherry Pie Puts Couple Together Again—in Jail

Chicago, Aug. 18 (AP).—"Four and twenty blackbirds baked in a pie."

Joseph Johnson got an idea from the old nursery rhyme. To his wife, Dorothy, in jail for possessing narcotics, Johnson brought a cherry pie. Inside, officers found a quantity of narcotics. So the cherry pie brought Mr. and Mrs. Johnson together today—in the custody of Federal narcotic authorities.

Who Has the Dam Plans? 205 Dams Wait Dam Plans

Oklahoma City, Aug. 18 (AP).—Who has the flood-control plans?

Oklahoma spent $50,000 several years ago to make a survey, and now, because the plans are lost, a proposal to build 205 reservoirs on the upper reaches of the Canadian, Red and Arkansas Rivers may go by the board.

Federal authorities must have the survey figures before they can consider the relief program.

Nats Beat Sox; Set '33 Record At 10 Straight

Bluege's Hit With Three on in 10th Wins, 6 to 4; Yanks 8-3 Victors.

By Shirley L. Povich.
(Sports Editor The Post).

Comiskey Park, Chicago, Ill., Aug. 18.—Refueling with a 6-to-4 victory over the White Sox, the Nats today extended to ten their nonstop winning streak and exceeded by a game the season's previous longest consecutive victory string, owned by the Yankees.

Today's stunt required ten innings and was crowned with success when the transplanted Chicago boy, Ossie Bluege, whose hitting for the Nats on the road is becoming legendary, delivered a solid single into center field at a time when all the bases were teeming with occupants.

Miller Again Pounded.

The Nats' net gain, however, was nothing, for the Yankees down in St. Louis were routing the Browns, fearfully and retaining their 7½ game disadvantage in second place, but at that rate, with both the Nats and the Yanks winning for the rest of the season, it has been ascertained that Washington will win the pennant by a comfortable margin.

There was no rest for the weary among the White Sox pitching staff and the Nats found themselves again faced by the deep lined physiognomy and ancient left arm of Walter Miller, the guy they batted out of the box in one inning yesterday. He came back for more today, and got it—in the third inning when the Nats scored four runs.

But that four-run lead wasn't sufficient for Al Thomas and for the first time during the series, the Nats were forced to use a relief pitcher, Jack Russell, who held the Sox at bay with the aid of sensational support by his infield, until Bluege delivered the shot that won the ball game in the tenth.

Manush Continues.

The Nats were outhit today, 10 to 9 and at one point, with the score tied at 4-4, the Sox had 10 hits to the Nats' six, but again today Joe Cronin's lads were bunching their blows for maximum results. Mixed up among the nine hits was a single by Heinie Manush in the third inning that extended to 25 his consecutive hitting streak that is now one short of his streak that found a graveyard here last June.

After giving Thomas that 4-0 lead in the third, the Nats were a help-

Policemen Beaten By Irate Husband

Two Attempting to Check Wife-Mate Quarrel Are Sent to Hospital.

Two policemen who broke in on a family quarrel early today were severely beaten and taken to Walter Reid Hospital.

Answering a radio call at 819 Delafield place northwest, Privates V. Masterstropelo and J. W. Grahm said they found Thomas Grayson Carter, 22, threatening to kill his wife.

As the policemen entered, Carter grabbed a chair and went into action. Hurling himself upon the two, he inflicted painful injuries before he was subdued.

Masterstropelo was treated for lacerations on his face and a wrist fracture, and Grahm for severe bruises and internal injuries. Taken to the hospital with them, Carter was treated for a bleeding nose and abrasions. Carter was charged with drunkeness and disorderly conduct and two charges of assault.

Nazi Who Attacked U. S. Doctor Jailed

Phillips Asks Report on Assault Because of Failure to Salute.

Berlin, Aug. 18 (AP).—The storm trooper, who struck Dr. Daniel Mulvihill, of Brooklyn, N. Y., because he failed to salute parading Nazis Tuesday night, already has been seized by the secret police and turned over to the regular police authorities, it was learned today.

"This constitutes the quickest action we have yet secured in cases involving Americans," said George S. Messersmith, United States consul general.

Acting Secretary of State Phillips requested the American Consul General at Berlin yesterday to make a full report on the assault made upon Dr. Daniel Mulvihill. Phillips said the consul general is under instructions to take prompt action in all cases where American citizens suffer any indignities.

Dr. Mulvihill is a member of the faculty of Long Island College of Medicine in Brooklyn and is studying in a Berlin hospital.

Detroit Bank Leniency Hit By Couzens

Charges U. S. Policy of Waiting for Prosperity Caused Losses.

Asserts Trust Company Made Charity Fund Lose $200,000.

Detroit, Aug. 18 (AP).—United States Senator James Couzens charged before the jury investigating bank closings here today that the suspensions were preceded by an "orgy of consolidation based on fictitious values" and asserted the banks would have closed long before they did but for the Government attitude of "waiting for prosperity to come around the corner."

Speaking bluntly and with emphatic poundings on the witness table, the white-haired senior senator from Michigan said the Government preferred to wait for prosperity rather than "enforce the law and close the banks."

Deposits in Insolvency.

He charged that the Union Guardian Trust Co., of Detroit, accepted deposits for 20 days after its officials knew it was insolvent; that the closed First National Bank-Detroit stands to lose a large part of $22,190,000 in loans made to directors and employes through "poor judgment of Federal bank examiners;" that the trust company "jockeyed" the Children's Fund of Michigan—a $10,000,000 beneficence which he founded—out of $200,000; demanded an investigation of the trust company with a view to criminal prosecution, and declared that Wilson W. Mills, former chairman of the First National board, "wrecked" the plans of Henry Ford to establish two new banks here.

U. S. Decides to Wait.

"Public officials, from the President down, were holding out that hope to the people," he said. "Washington did not approve of the condition of the banks. But the bad loans already had been made. The Comptroller of the Currency criticized the First National Bank-Detroit management, but if the comptroller had taken action to eliminate these matters the bank would have had to close, because its capital was seriously affected.

"All during the depression the administration was in the hands of the Republicans. All during that time it was under control of my good friend Mr. Mellon (Andrew Mellon, former Secretary of the Treasury, with whom Couzens frequently was at odds) and Ogden L. Mills. They were dictating the policy of the Treasury Departmnt. All the time they were violating the law in respect to their attitude toward National banks."

Home Is Stormed In Strike Rioting

Wilmington, Del., Aug. 18 (AP).—A free-for-all between workers and pickets at the Amalgamated Leather Co.'s plant, where a strike is in progress, late today ended only after three men were injured and several houses damaged.

Riot police halted the demonstration and arrested one man, Daniel Nestro, 27, a picket.

Two workers, Clarence Grinish and Davis Welsh, pursued by scores of men, took refuge in the home of James Davis. The strike sympathizers ripped off shutters and tore up bricks from the pavements which they hurled through windows, police said. Two adjoining houses were damaged.

Welles Coming Back to Capital

Caffery to Succeed Him in Cuba; Will Resume Old State Post.

(Associated Press.)

Highly successful in efforts toward setting up a new regime in Cuba, Ambassador Sumner Welles will be recalled from his Havana post shortly to resume his position of Assistant Secretary of State in Charge of All Latin-American Affairs.

Jefferson Caffery, now Assistant Secretary of State, will be named the new ambassador to Cuba.

This was stated authoritatively yesterday after diplomatic officials, in a telephone conference with Welles in Havana, arranged to send American economic and financial experts to Cuba to hasten economic rehabilitation of the republic.

U. S. Warship Quits Havana

Roosevelt and Welles Are Lauded by Cespedes for Attitude.

Havana, Aug. 18 (U.P.).—The last vestige of the United States' show of naval strength during the recent revolution in Cuba was withdrawn today when the destroyer Taylor departed from Havana's harbor.

The departure came coincidentally with the payment of high tribute to President Roosevelt and the Washington administration by Provisional President Carlos Manuel de Cespedes.

"We feel high appreciation for President Roosevelt," Dr. de Cespedes said, "and for his attitude toward Cubans.

"We also appreciate his sending Ambassador Welles to this country. He is not only a fine diplomat, but a statesman. He has the confidence and admiration of the people of Cuba, who are grateful to your Government for the way in which the sovereignty and independence of Cuba have been respected. I am sure it will always be."

The strike situation of port workers remained unchanged during the day, as negotiations for a settlement proceeded.

Members of the Army and ABC, strong Nationalistic organization, initiated an inquiry into the alleged tortures upon prisoners at Atares Fortress during the Machada regime.

Nudism Debate Ends in Draw

Fiery Dr. Capron Wins Early Rounds With Hefty Swings at Modern Clothes, but Rev. Coates Finishes Strong.

Two women debaters last night exchanged ideas, insinuations and a few dirty looks over the subject of going nude or keeping on your clothes—and the result was a dogfall.

The speakers were the Rev. Jane B. Coates, director general of the American Order of the White Cross and foe of nudism in any degree, and Dr. Alice Capron, Australian health authority. And the way they went at it, they left the audience at the Washington Auditorium fully convinced that the ladies can take it as well as hand it out.

From the beginning moments, when admirers of both heaped bouquets of flowers before their leaders, it was evident the going was going to be long and rough. And it was, for the ladies ranged the scale of objects, tangible and otherwise, and dwelt in their discourses on things from heaven to darkest Abyssinia and angels and barefoot boys.

Dr. Capron, looking very brown from plenty of practice of her belief, began by letting it be known she did not believe in mixed nudism, but the boys to themselves and the girls a good way off.

She brought some of her listeners to their feet when, at the beginning of her talk, she exclaimed, "I'm a red-hot biological revolutionist!" and whipped off a yellow jacket and her tiny white turban, and followed up with "Whew, it's hot!"

The Rev. Coates retorted by declaring that her opponent had stated before the debate that all that separated men and women nudists at a camp she conducted in Maryland recently was a tree.

"How big a tree?" the Rev. Coates said she asked. "And she told me it was just about so high," she added, pointing to her knee. "In fact, it was just a bush!"

This brought forth a great demonstration from the clothes advocaters and sighs from the others. When Dr. Capron had her next say she explained that the tree wasn't a bush, but a large fallen tree, and that besides the men and women were a hand-picked group.

In conclusion, both of the ladies included a few personal references to one another, and before the debate went a great deal further Linn A. E. Gale, of the Open Forum, sponsor of the debate, pounded a heavy gavel and closed the show.

Canadian Envoy Here Goes to Ottawa Parley

Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 18 (AP).—W. D. Herridge, Canadian Minister to the United States, has returned here for conferences with Government officials over the week-end. He will return to Washington early next week.

Steel Code Agreement Near After Long Night Session; Leaders Backing Roosevelt

President to Ease Cut In Navy Workers' Pay

Roosevelt Feels Present Slash Too Sharp to Be Fair.

The President thinks navy yard workers were dealt too sharp a pay cut under the Navy Department's five-day week order, and plans an early adjustment.

His plan for ameliorating the slash by giving full credit for hours actually worked was discussed at the White House yesterday with Secretary of the Navy Swanson.

It was learned a formula is being worked out under which the Navy's 46,000 field workers will lose only four hours pay through the short week arrangement. They now lose eight hours' pay.

The President is in favor of a short work week in Navy Yards but feels that the present system of docking a full day's salary for a Saturday off is unfair, as Saturday, by law, is a half-day in the government.

Together with Secretary Swanson yesterday he tried to work out a simple method of procedure that would remedy much of the injustice. On the basis of the proposed formula, workers would get an 8⅓ per cent pay cut, instead of a 16⅔ per cent slash, if the five-day week is continued.

N. P. Alifas, president of District 44, International Associaton of Machinists, and Luther C. Steward, president of the National Federation of Federal Employes, have complained bitterly of the way the five-day week is working out, particularly as it affects 4,000 Washington workers.

Mr. Steward sent a letter to the White House last night charging the practice is in specific violation of the spirit and principles of the NRA. Mr. Alifas recently outlined to the President his objections to an eight-hour pay cut in return for a four-hour reduction in working time.

Mr. Steward in his letter to the President charged that not only in the Navy Department, but in the War Department, Justice Department, Commerce Department and elsewhere, large groups of employes are being furloughed on Saturdays and a full day's pay is being deducted. He suggested Monday instead of Saturday as the day off.

"We respectfully request that you direct the various administrative officers of the Government to bring their general policies into harmony with the NRA program," he wrote Mr. Roosevelt. "Specifically we urge that you request administrative officers not to impose furloughs on Saturdays."

Garment Strike End by Monday Seems Certain

60,000 to Be Affected by Compromise by NRA Mediator.

New York, Aug. 18 (AP).—Early settlement of the strike of 60,000 garment workers seemed assured today as a result of the mediation efforts of former Police Commissioner Grover A. Whalen, NRA chief in New York.

The National Association of Dress Manufacturers, recognizing the principle of collective bargaining paved the way for return of the strikers in New York, New Jersey, Connecticut and eastern Pennsylvania by Monday.

Several hundred workers gathered in Union Square in protest against any temporary settlement of the strike. Irving Potash, secretary to the Needle Trades Industrial Union, asserted that every issue affecting the workers' demands should be settled, regardless of the NRA code, and advised the strikers not to return to work until their wage demands were settled.

Mr. Whalen, appearing before 400 of the manufacturers, pleaded for ratification of the four-point program—the tentative basis for settlement of the strike.

Collective bargaining, he told the manufacturers, was a part of the guarantee of the national industrial recovery act. By recognizing the International Union, he said, the manufacturers and jobbers would acquire a strong weapon to be used against Communist workers, who cause trouble in the industry.

"You have done a fine, a patriotic job and I congratulate you and we'll all go back to work Monday," Whalen told the manufacturers after the ratifying vote was taken.

One of the important points in the agreement is a compromise, fixing a 35-hour week. David Dubinsky, head of the workers' union, accepted this plan after fighting a futile battle for a 30-hour week.

F. D. Roosevelt, Jr., Tries Bull Fighting

Seville, Spain, Aug. 18 (AP).—Franklin D. Roosevelt, jr., son of the American President, visited a bull farm near here today, where he tried his hand at capework with a small bull.

Young Roosevelt, A. J. Drexel Paul, jr., of Philadelphia, and United States Consul Richard Ford were guests at the bull farm of Romuldo Arias de la Reina, where the bullfighters, Laine and Lafarque, gave exhibitions with young bulls. They demonstrated the technique to the President's son.

Franklin was dressed in an Andalusian costume, with a wide hat and cap, loaned by his host. This was his birthday, and at luncheon celebration Senor Arias toasted the President of the United States in Manzanilla wine, the classic Andalusian manner. Later gypsy singers and dancers entertained the party.

Weather Bureau Warns Of Gulf Disturbances

(Associated Press.)

The Weather Bureau last night issued the following storm warning: "Advisory 10 p. m.: Storm warnings ordered Cedar Keys to Punta Rassa. Tropical disturbance central tonight about 150 miles west of Key West, moving northward, will cause increasing northeast and east winds tonight, becoming strong on Saturday. Disturbance is of slight intensity and at present there is no danger of hurricane winds. Another disturbance of slight intensity about 300 miles southwest of Puerto Rico, apparently moving west-northwestward. Another tropical disturbance attended by gales central, about latitude 20, longitude 58, moving west by north."

Pinchot Eases Strike by Truce

Federal Probe Ordered as Governor's Plea Wins Miners' Support.

Mahanoy City, Pa., Aug. 18 (AP).—Gov. Gifford Pinchot brought about a truce today in Pennsylvania's troubled anthracite fields.

Unemployed miners, demanding a share of work in districts where a number of collieries are shut down, voted at a mass meeting to suspend all picketing until Monday.

The action was taken after a telegram from the governor was read to workers, who came into Mahanoy City in a motorcade. From his mountain estate in Milford the governor, who played a leading role in halting the recent strike in the soft-coal fields, asked the men to return to their homes.

Earlier in the day, in response to an appeal from the governor, the Federal Labor Board in Washington announced it will send a representative into the anthracite district to investigate.

The truce climaxed a week of unrest. Demonstrations and parades were held in several mining centers. Mines were picketed. The miners, who yesterday asked the United Mine Workers of America to call a general strike in the anthracite regions, appealed to fellow workers to quit.

NRA Slogan Sought To Brand Slackers

Quincy, Mass., Aug. 18 (AP).—Delcevare King, Quincy banker, who started the slogan "Scofflaw" against foes of prohibition, today announced he is seeking a rallying cry for the forces of NRA.

Back in 1924, Banker King became convinced there were unbelievers in the ranks and he offered a prize for the term which should to the greatest extent cast contempt, humiliation and other degrees of disfavor upon persons who continued to drink intoxicants. At the conclusion of a Nation-wide campaign, "Scofflaw" was accepted.

Banker King, a "colonel in Quincy's NRA organization," is offering $10 for a slogan for the national recovery campaign.

Flags and Gavel Gone, Court Has Hard Time

Quincy, Mass., Aug. 18 (AP).—Law and order got off to a bad start today in Quincy District Court and was trailing badly at the close. Court Officer Amos Loring had to use his jack knife to rap the session to order as court opened because some one had stolen his gavel.

Later it became apparent that Chapter 20, Section 1, of the State's general laws, which specifically states the United States Flag shall be displayed at all times in all courts, was being flouted. The court's flags will be returned Monday—by the cleaners.

Labor Official

E. F. McGrady Named Aid to Miss Perkins

NRA Special Adviser to Be Assistant Secretary of Labor.

(Associated Press.)

Edward F. McGrady, who had a leading part in the successful negotiations ending the recent bituminous coal strike, was appointed Assistant Secretary of Labor yesterday by President Roosevelt.

He has been legislative representative of the American Federation of Labor. More recently he was identified with the National Recovery Administration as a special adviser to Hugh S. Johnson, NRA chief.

Mr. McGrady, who lives at Boston, has frequently been mentioned in the past for the Labor post. He will succeed Robe Carl White.

17 Notables Save Selves in Ship Fire

Cannes, France, Aug. 18 (AP).—Raymond Patenotre, American-born undersecretary of the National Economy, his wife and 15 guests were forced to swim for their lives when fire today destroyed his 10-ton speedboat at anchor in the harbor here.

One of the guests, Lady Mendl, unable to swim, was rescued by friends who conveyed her 150 yards to shore. She is the former Elsie de Wolfe, of New York, and wife of Sir Charles Mendl, press attache of the British Embassy.

The fire started in the engine room of the craft. When it threatened to reach the gasoline tanks, guests and crew leaped into the sea. Soon afterward the boat, Petit Nicois, burned through and sank. It had been anchored near the Ile St. Honoret.

Gandhi Is Offered Liberty on Terms

Poona, India, Aug. 18 (AP).—The British government today offered the Mahatma Gandhi his liberty, on condition he quit civil disobedience, as he began the third day of a fast unto death.

Gandhi began the fast because the government prevented him from carrying on his campaign against untouchability in the manner in which he desired while a prisoner in Yeroda jail. Certain privileges were offered him to carry on the work in behalf of the untouchables, India's lowest class, but these did not satisfy Gandhi.

He began to show signs of weakness today from his fast and the government announced he would be set free if he would abandon all civil disobedience against British rule.

Chicago Board May Lift Daily Fluctuations Peg

Chicago, Aug. 18 (AP).—Peter B. Carey, president of the Chicago Board of Trade, said tonight officials of the grain market were contemplating removal of the restrictions on day fluctuations in prices and that definite action on the matter probably will be taken before next Monday.

Postmen to Go for Walk In Atlantic City Parade

(Associated Press.)

That old story about the postman going for a walk on his holiday is soon going to be news.

On Labor Day the National Association of Letter Carriers will parade the Atlantic City boardwalk, and Postmaster General Farley will review them.

Oil and Coal Agreements Hoped for Today by Roosevelt.

Sinclair Blocks Petroleum Pact

Chief Executive May Head Price-Fixing Organization.

(Associated Press.)

A night conference between Hugh S. Johnson, NRA administrator, and representatives of steel ended early today with a fair competition code for the industry not yet completed.

The labor advisory committee was called into an extraordinary midnight session to consider labor provisions which Administrator Johnson had been discussing for hours with steel operators.

For five hours Johnson and the spokesmen for the great steel plants had conferred at the administrator's office. Shortly before midnight members of the labor advisory committee, headed by Dr. Leo Wolman and including President William Green of the American Federation of Labor, began to arrive.

Asked specifically by newspapermen whether this indicated that an agreement with operators had been reached and that labor was being asked to approve it, one official nodded assent.

President Leaves Today.

Before he leaves Washington tonight President Roosevelt hopes to promulgate codes for three giant industries of the Nation—oil, steel and coal.

Behind the pressure of governmental authority has been applied the force of other financial and industrial leaders of the country to bring fearful and recalcitrant leaders in these industries into the recovery line.

Brig. Gen. Hugh S. Johnson is gathering behind him the power of some of the most influential industrial and financial leaders of the country.

Although members of the Industrial Advisory Board of the Recovery Administration deprecate any discussion of the subject, board members have discussed their responsibility as advisers and have undertaken to convince some of their erring brethren.

Not Much Progress.

Expressed in the form of industrial codes approved, no great progress was made by the recovery administration yesterday. It had been expected the President would receive and approve a code for the oil industry. Harry F. Sinclair chunked the block under the progress of that code.

Sinclair protested the proposed price-fixing production-controlling provisions of the code would not suffice. He urged control throughout the processes of the industry from looking for oil to selling gasoline by the gallon.

Others followed on Sinclair's heels with suggestions and protests and the upshot of it was that Gen. Johnson did not take the oil code to the President at 4:30 p. m., but at 7:30 p. m., after a conference with concerned oil men. He said there would be no oil code tonight.

Delay Held Victory.

President Roosevelt himself probably will head the price-fixing, production-controlling Federal agency proposed in the code. He will have others from the Bureau of Mines and the Interior Department. It has been suggested that Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes and James F.

NRA Program Goes to Canada And Germany

U. S. Plan Being Watched From Atlanta; Hitlerites Boost Employment.

The NRA idea is spreading to Canada and Germany, it was disclosed last night.

The Canadian Legation, it was learned, is making a careful study of the American recovery movement and forwarding information collected to Ottawa.

Simultaneously, dispatches from the Canadian capital revealed Canadian business associations are planning to send representatives to Washington and other American cities to study the American recovery program with the intention of laying their findings before Premier Bennett upon his return from London.

The organizations include the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, tion and the Hontreal Board of Canadian Manufacturers Association and the Montreal Board of Trade.

Press Predicts Adoption.

The Ottawa Citizen has pointed out editorially that six months hence might find Canada in the midst of a campaign patterned after that in Washington, because Canadian manufacturing interests are casting yearning glances at reports of improvement in the United States.

The Canadian Association of Garment Workers has made overtures in this direction, according to the dispatches, by inviting the cloth manufacturing industry, comprising more than 1,000 concerns, to assist in drawing up an American-styled code.

Premiers S. F. Tolmie of British Columbia and John Bracken of Manitoba, it was learned, have expressed approval of the NRA and proposed its best features be adopted by the Dominion.

New Party Favors Plan.

Farmer and labor members of the Cooperative Commonwealth Federation, a new party which is gaining strength in western provinces, are represented as being enthusiastic over the American recovery program and insisting Canada fall in line.

Canadian political circles are speculating as to what will be the attitude of Premier Bennett, a lifelong Conservative. Those who favor adoption of the American program recall that during a speech at the World Economic Conference he declared failure of the parley would necessitate in Canada a program of drastic economic regulation, possibly with state control.

From Berlin came dispatches relating that Hitlerites have started a campaign to reduce unemployment by instituting a 40-hour week.

Germany Takes Action.

The methods, it was reported, include forcing employers to take on additional employes, to shorten hours and dismiss women and youths in order to give work to men. The boys are being sent to volunteer labor camps similar to the Civilian Conservation Corps camps in the United States.

The head of the Prussian administrative district of Merseburg has ordered employers to increase factory staffs by 15 per cent, it was stated, while the executive of the Federation of Employers and Industry at Harburg and Wilhelmsburg has recommended members establish a 40-hour workweek by the last of August, which would give employment to 1,000 more persons.

If the recommendations do not produce results, it was predicted, official measures to curtail working hours may be expected.

Mad Man Kills Trio and Self

Tennesseean Wounds Two and Terrorizes Many in Shooting Rampage.

Murfreesboro, Tenn., Aug. 18 (AP). A young farmer, believed to have gone suddenly insane, went on a rampage with a shotgun today, killled three men, wounded two others, terrorized the rural community of Link for almost an hour and then committed suicide rather than surrender to officers who had him surrounded in a church yard.

The killer was Clem Wright, 33, and his victims were his father, John Wright, 60, and two neighbors, Will Douglas, 45, and Littleton J. Smotherman, 40. Hes Wright, brother of Clem, and Herman Pope were wounded.

John Wright was shot to death as he emerged from his home onto the back porch to reply to his son's questions about some harness. Clem then started down the road and killed Douglas as the latter was leaving his daughter's home.

Four men passing in a wagon next drew fire from Wright's single-barrel gun. Smotherman was killed and Pope and Hes Wright wounded.

Modified Industrial Agreements Approved

(Associated Press.)

Modified Presidential agreements providing specific wages and hours were approved yesterday for these industries: Glass containers, lighting equipment, lace curtain, smoking pipe, pharmaceutical and biological equipment, American spice, safety razor and blade, dress-snap fasteners, scientific apparatus manufacturers, live stock market agencies and comfort manufactures.

Dates for public hearings on five codes were set:

Transit, August 29; glass-container manufacturing, August 29; building supplies, August 25; textile-machinery manufacturing, August 25; crushed stone, sand and gravel, August 28.

Roosevelt Studying Contractors' Plight

Seeks Fair Deal for Them in View of Rise in Prices.

(Associated Press.)

President Roosevelt is studying the necessity of legislation to prevent injustices under a ruling of Comptroller General McCarl, requiring contractors to fulfill their agreements with the Government regardless of rising prices.

The ruling is now on the President's desk. The power of the Comptroller General is almost unlimited and his decision is final.

Mr. Roosevelt is represented to be not interested in guaranteeing profits to the contractors, but anxious for a fair deal. He himself initiated the price-raising drive, together with the campaign for higher wages. He recognizes that this may cause some injustices. However, it appears impossible to do anything about it without legislation. Congress does not meet until January.

U. S. Revenues $70,000,000 Above July, '32

Beer and Wine Taxes Increase Nearly Three Million in Month.

(Associated Press.)

Aided by $16,444,957 for beer and wine, the Government's tax collections for July rose $70,000,000 above the returns a year ago.

The Internal Revenue Bureau said yesterday the receipts also were larger than for June, except for income taxes, as quarterly payments are made in that month.

The beer and wine total compared with $13,753,793 for June, showing an increase both in the sales levy and license fees.

Collections from all sources for July aggregated $131,115,696, compared with $251,600,997 in June. In the latter month, however, income taxes totaled $146,574,827, while in July they were only $11,963,009.

First Processing Taxes.

The first tax on agricultural processed articles was collected last month and that on wheat products amounted to $383,088.

Stock market activity in July was reflected in collections from transfers of stock which brought in $7,673,345, as compared to $6,199,113 reported in June.

The gasoline tax brought in $15,799,053, as compared with $10,929,739 in June; automobiles and motorcycles paid $3,743,538, compared with $2,014,407; tires and tubes, $3,623,940, compared with $2,219,959; telegraph, telephone and radio taxes, $1,685,306, compared with $1,160,754, and checks, $3,473,443, compared with $3,233,862.

Tobacco Revenue Falls.

Tobacco taxes dropped, however, amounting to $34,861,805, as compared with $44,363,772 in June and $34,498,889 in July a year ago.

The increase in the manufacturers' excise taxes collected in July, as compared with July a year ago, when the first payments under the billion-dollar tax bill were being received, showed the growth in this form of revenue. They amounted to $35,531,583, as compared with $1,394,114 in July, 1932.

Recovery Act Taxes.

Taxes imposed by the national industrial recovery act made their first appearance in the list of collections, the levy on dividends returning $65,417 and capital stock tax, $7,856,008.

The capital stock tax is a levy of $1 for each $1,000 of adjusted declared value of capital stock of domestic corporations.

The dividend tax imposes a tax of 5 per cent on the receipt of dividends by any person other than a domestic corporation, which must be deducted and withheld by the payor corporation.

3 in Machado Party Unguarded at Park

Take Taxi Ride After Receiving Welcome to Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Aug. 18 (AP).—Tension surrounding the exiled Machados from Cuba lessened considerably today. Three members of the family declined police protection for a motor trip through Fairmount Park.

Former Senator and Senora Baldomen Grau, their daughter Nenita, 12, and former Congressman Rafael Sanchez left their police-guarded hotel for a taxicab ride "through the park" after receiving the city's official welcome in a letter from Mayor Moore.

Meantime, Daniel J. Crawford, sr., manager of the hotel at which the eleven members of the Machado family arrived Wednesday, started looking for a home for the group. The family announced through Crawford that it expects the exiled president, Gerardo Machado, to come here and reside permanently in the Philadelphia area.

Georgia's Public Works Cash Release Uncertain

(Associated Press.)

Prospects of immediate release of $10,000,000 in public works highway funds to Georgia were uncertain last night after a suggested plan for a Federally appointed engineer to help supervise their administration brought demands from State authorities for ample safeguard against any Federal "dictatorship."

The Federal engineer suggestion, understood to have been made by the Bureau of Public Roads as a possible solution to the problem arising because of a court controversy over jurisdiction of the present State highway board supplanting one recently ousted by Gov. Talmadge, was forwarded to the governor by Senator George.

Reserve Head Sees Currency Flow Increase

Black Replies to Thomas on Credit Contraction Recovery Charges.

(Associated Press.)

Belief that currency actually in use by the public has increased substantially since March was expressed yesterday by Gov. Eugene R. Black in explaining the Federal Reserve Board's monetary policies.

Mr. Black's analysis of the present credit situation was contained in a letter made public by Senator Thomas (Democrat), Oklahoma, a leading congressional inflationist, who has demanded that the reserve board either expand credit through greater open market purchases of Government securities or that greenbacks be issued.

Mr. Thomas announced later he would continue his fight against what he terms currency and credit contraction by Federal Reserve banks, which he said, threatens to retard or defeat the administration's recovery program.

Mr. Black, pointing to the movement of hoarded money back into the banks since the bank holiday and the return by Federal Reserve banks of funds they had borrowed against expected withdrawals, wrote Mr. Thomas:

"This return flow of currency has greatly strengthened the banking situation and increased the banks' ability to serve commerce, industry and agriculture, the money redeposited by banks in reserve banks being available for these purposes."

"The recent decline in money 'in circulation,' therefore, was not brought about by any attempt or purpose of either the Federal Reserve banks or the Federal Reserve Board to curtail the aggregate amount of currency, and did not reflect a withdrawal of funds from the public by the reserve banks, but the return flow to these banks of currency that had taken flight into hoards.

"On the contrary, it is believed currency actually in use by the public has increased by a substantial amount since March."

Mr. Thomas said he was preparing a reply, in which he would submit data to support his position in insisting upon a freer Federal Reserve money policy.

"The question is," he said, "whether we will continue to let our financial policy be controlled entirely by the Federal Reserve System, and if we do we will continue to have the situation of the last four years. The Federal Reserve wants authority to issue all money and get interest and therefore is opposed to the issuance of United States notes, or greenbacks. The President has to take charge, for the Federal Reserve board won't."

Baruch Denies Red Recognition Task

President's Adviser Will Celebrate His 63d Birthday Today.

Paris, Aug. 18 (AP).—Bernard M. Baruch, one of President Roosevelt's close advisers, said today on the eve of his sixty-third birthday that he is feeling "ten years younger."

With a party of seven friends he will celebrate his birthday in the dining car of a train en route to Vienna tomorrow. From Vienna they are planning to go on a partridge hunting expedition in Czechoslovakia.

"The absurdity of the report that I went to Vichy (a French health resort) to see Litvinoff (Maxim Litvinoff, Russian foreign commissar) regarding American recognition of Russia is apparent to all who know I am one of the stanchest opponents of recognition," said Baruch.

Money Earned Will Be Spent, Roper Asserts

Predicts Free Spending of Increased Pay Rolls Instead of Hoarding.

Providence, R. I., Aug. 18 (AP).—Roosevelt administration leaders now feel that additional money in wages and salaries put into circulation by operation of NRA codes will be spent and will not "go into hiding," as had at first been feared by some authorities, Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper said here today.

He was in this city to speak at Bryant-Stratton College, which conferred upon him the degree of master of business administration.

"Some of us had felt," the Secretary said in an interview, "that a fear would be so general as to prohibit free spending. We now feel, however, that this fear has been removed to a very large extent by confidence in President Roosevelt. The feeling is that we are going to follow Roosevelt; that there is no other way."

Remarking that he could speak only generally, the Secretary said that from reports from the 27 district offices of the Department of Commerce he finds that the recovery plans are "working remarkably well" and that there is "a universal inclination to cooperate." Legalization of 3.2 beer had created a "general reawakening all the way down the line," he said.

Secretary Roper left by motor with Mrs. Roper for Beverly Farms, where he will confer with Col. E. M. House.

Mrs. Costello on Stage; To Get $2,500 Weekly

Boston, Aug. 18 (AP).—Jessie B. Costello, acquitted this week in Salem of the poison death of her husband, today signed a vaudeville contract for 10 weeks, Samuel H. Berger, of New York, announced tonight.

Berger said she would open in a New York theater next Friday at a salary of $2,500 a week in a skit with two men.

Man Mad at the World Cracks Hotel Windows

Los Angeles, Aug. 18 (AP).—Alex P. Clary gave way to his inhibitions.

The windows of a hotel shone before him. He lifted his cane and smashed the glass. Then he strode on. He smashed eight.

"Turn me loose and I'll smash every window in this town," Clary told police. "I'm mad at the world."

Yacht Sold by Senator Metcalf Seized With Liquor Cargo

Ten Men, Two Women, in Smart Nautical Attire, Are Arrested.

New London, Conn., Aug. 18 (AP).—A hunch led to the seizure by the Coast Guard today of the white-hulled Felicia, a $200,000 yacht, once owned by a U. S. senator, as a rum-runner.

A Coast Guardsman's suspicion, aroused because he thought she rode too low in the water to be the pleasure craft indicated by the New York Yacht Club burgee on her mast and the smart uniforms of her crew, resulted in her capture.

The commander of a Coast Guard cutter, cruising through the channel between the mainland and Fishers Island, spied the vessel as she was headed toward New York. He ordered her to heave to and guardsmen went aboard.

$45,000 Liquor Found.

Coast Guard officials said they found 1,600 cases of assorted liquors, valued at $45,000. The crew of 10 men and two women were arrested on charges of smuggling. All wore nautical uniforms and it appeared to be, Coast Guardsmen said, a typical yachting party.

Sold some time ago by U. S. Senator Jesse H. Metcalf of Rhode Island, the yacht was owned by Emanuel Morganlander, New York, Lieut. Commander Henry Coyle, commandant of the New London base, said.

On its bow was painted "New York," although Coyle said it was registered out of Providence, R. I.

Taken to New York.

Because the seizure took place in New York waters, the Felicia sailed tonight under close guard to New York, where she will be surrendered to the U. S. Customs authorities. The cargo remained in her hold while the crew, although under arrest, were at their stations.

Commander Coyle was unable to say who the master of the Felicia was as none aboard would admit being in command. The records list Joseph Jerome as master, Coyle said.

The two women gave their names as Flora Gordon and Kay Sloves, both of New York.

One man under arrest, who said he was Frank Lucas, New York, asserted he was a passenger.

The log of the Felicia disclosed she had sailed as far north as the coast of Maine recently. As a result, officials expressed the opinion the liquor was taken aboard from a supply ship at sea.

Relief Grants Made To Four More States

(Associated Press.)

Federal unemployment relief grants reached $131,394,253 yesterday with the allotment of $2,500,000 to California, $180,444 to Idaho, $171,740 to North Dakota and $172,832 to Mississippi. Each grant was on the basis of one Federal dollar for every three spent by the States during the second quarter of this year.

California has received $5,954,340 out of the Federal relief fund; Idaho $396,814; North Dakota $384,451, and Mississippi $1,164,489.

Mrs. Roosevelt Trudges Hills To Visit Miners

First Lady Astonishes Working Folk in Their Own Homes.

Morgantown, W. Va., Aug. 18 (U.P.).—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt came into the hills of West Virginia to see how the miners live, it was revealed today.

After spending a day trudging around visiting the homes of astonished working folk, she left for Hyde Park, N. Y. The visit was unheralded, and many of the miners refused to believe the tall, smiling visitor was the President's wife.

Mrs. Roosevelt wanted to see what progress has been made in relief and rehabilitation work among the miners' families on Cheat Mountain, 12 miles from here. The American Society of Friends, for years active among the miners in social improvements, invited her and, without so much as a hint to the White House, the First Lady and a woman companion stepped in an automobile and lost themselves to the rest of the world for more than two days.

Spend Night in Hills.

"Case workers" met Mrs. Roosevelt and Lorena Hickok, of Democratic national headquarters, when they drove into the foothills Wednesday night. They guided the visitors up the dirt roads to Arnettsville, where they spent the night with the L. D. Worcks family. Worck is a mine superintendent.

Yesterday Mrs. Roosevelt began her tour, escorted by Worck and a few county and Morgantown officials, and with a big lunch basket packed by Mrs. Worck.

Mrs. Roosevelt appeared to enjoy the tour immensely, friends reported. Once the battered sedan could not go through a woods to Mine Camp. She parked it in a field, and swung cheerfully along with her party for more than a mile to talk to the miners there.

Women Warm to Her.

The President's wife smiled her way into the hearts of the sturdy mountain women. At first they were too gruffly shy to more than mumble when she greeted them. But as she talked of everyday things they understood, they warmed to her, and sat with her in their straight, hard chairs, talking more freely, until she had a clear picture of how they lived.

The city and county officials in her escort were unanimous in their opinion of Mrs. Roosevelt.

"She was a regular guy'," one of them said, and others smiled their approval.

President Expects Three Codes Today

Moffett, who resigned a $100,000 job as vice president of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey to accept appointment as a member of the Industrial Advisory Board, would run the industry.

Declaration of Gen. Johnson that the oil code would not go forward immediately to the President was not taken by observers here as a defeat, but rather as a victory. He had bluntly laid down a code. He had equally as bluntly limited protests. His idea was to force the hands of the dissension-torn industry, they said. He succeeded. A code is expected today. The President is expected to sign it.

Coal Men Meet Today.

Coal men are to meet this morning to go over various sections of that code and report immediately to Gen. Johnson.

The automobile industry shared the spotlight of public attention in the drive to whip into line major industries. That industry, too, like the steel and other antiunion industries, ran into the opposition of organized labor in the public hearing on its proposed code.

Donald Richberg, general counsel of the Recovery Administration and outstanding labor attorney, found many objections to the so-called modifications of the company union provisions of the code. There were fireworks. There is no imminence of agreement between the two sides. The Government will have to decide and organized labor has a big bulge under the wording of the recovery law.

Despite inauguration of the public hearings on the automobile code, Henry Ford, greatest individual manufacturer, remained aloof. Gen. Johnson has said that Mr. Ford could come in or be treated just the same as others who had not come in.

A significant development of the day was the announcement that the President believed the principles of the recovery-administration program should be applied to the railroads.

Settle Shirt Strike.

Everyone is said to be in agreement that the railroads are not to be brought within the jurisdiction of the recovery administration. But representatives of the railroad workers sought and apparently have obtained the consent of the President to a program which will shorten their hours and increase the number of employes the railroads must hire.

Another development of the day was the love-feast celebrating the re-wedding of the leaders of the American Federation of Labor and the outcast organization headed by Sidney Hillman, head of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers. Hillman and T. A. Rickert, of the United Garment Workers, the A. F. of L. affiliate, agreed to end jurisdictional disputes.

The National Labor Board settled the Pottsville shirt strike. Codes for other industries were received. Additional hundreds of complaints were acknowledged. Preparations were made for public hearings on other codes of major importance. Innumerable conferences were held in offices, hotels, capitol buildings, other department buildings and continued into the night.

1,500 Miners Vote Strike in Alabama

Claim Operators Dismissed Men for Their Part in Unionizing Mines.

Jasper, Ala., Aug. 18 (AP).—At odds with their employers over labor differences, 1,500 miners in the Walker County coal fields of north Alabama today decided to go on strike tomorrow.

More than 100 men struck today at the Hull mine of the Debardeleben Coal Corporation, and union officials said the call for the walkout, affecting more than a dozen other mines, was issued after the operators refused to reemploy certain men, said to have been discharged for their part in unionizing the mines.

Debardeleben officials said the men around whom the controversy centered were discharged "for cause" last June.

U. S., Colombia Trade Dicker Opens Tuesday

Wider Markets for Farm and Factory Aim of Tariff Talk.

(Associated Press.)

Expanded markets for farm and factory products will be sought by the United States next week in reciprocal tariff negotiations with Colombia.

Acting Secretary Phillips of the State Department, in announcing yesterday that the discussions will begin here Tuesday, made it clear that these negotiations are to be conducted without disturbing the most-favored nation clause in existing treaties.

Inaugurates Roosevelt Policy.

The Colombian trade talks mark the inauguration of President Roosevelt's tariff trading policy through which he believes greater outlets can be found for American products. Argentina, Brazil, Portugal and Sweden will send representatives here next month.

Jefferson Caffery, Assistant Secretary of State, will represent this country in the opening conversations Tuesday and the Colombian minister, Dr. Don Fabio Lozano, will act for that country. He is to be joined later by Pomponio Guzman, an economic expert now on his way from Colombia.

Hull to Participate.

Secretary Hull, now on a brief vacation, also will join the discussions upon his return. The Colombian minister had a brief conference at the State Department yesterday.

Coffee, bananas and cacao, all of which are tariff free, are the chief exports of Colombia to the United States. This country sends Colombia machinery of various kinds, textiles, lumber, automobiles, furniture, electrical equipment and various fruit products.

Colombia, like other coffee-exporting countries, is eager to have assurance from the United States that no duty will be imposed on that product over a term of years. The Colombian government also is anxious to be assured of free entrance of other tropical products for a fixed period, and is reported to be willing to grant reduced tariffs on American manufactured articles in return.

Portugal probably will be the next country to open tariff discussions in Washington.

Dr. Luther, Berlin Ambassador, Back

Envoy, in New York, Tells of Transformation in Germany.

New York, Aug. 18 (AP).—Dr. Hans Luther, German ambassador to the United States, said on his arrival from Europe today that the objective of the new German government is to "bravely establish itself with its own help instead of giving itself up to further despair."

Dr. Luther said he had spent six weeks in his country making close examination of conditions there and had witnessed a "complete transformation."

He said Chancellor Hitler was carrying through his program for economic and social regeneration with much tthe same leadership and courage which President Roosevelt is displaying here and that he hoped in returning to his post in Washington "to deepen and increase the mutual understanding between these two nations which are so resolutely striving to master their own destiny."

All-American Canal Decision Due Soon

(Associated Press.)

An early decision by the Public Works Administration is expected on whether it will advance funds for construction of the proposed $38,500,000 All-American Canal to irrigate the Imperial and Coachella valleys in California.

The board received extensive arguments yesterday from both proponents and opponents to guide it in passing on merits of the proposal which would construct entirely on American territory an irrigation canal for the two valleys in Southern California to replace the one which now serves only the Imperial Valley and runs partly through Mexico.

Here's Involved Procedure For Formulation of Codes

Inquiry Starts Operation of Most Intricate Machinery.

An average of a thousand strangers are visiting Washington daily. They are from all States of the Union. Their missions are as strange to them as are the streets of the Capital.

They are here to help formulate the codes under which their businesses are to be operated for the next two years. But not one of them, upon his arrival, knows what he is to do or how long he is to stay.

The formulation of the rules which are to govern industry is one of the most involved, intricate and delicate operations ever undertaken by a group of hastily assembled experts. To all but the initiated it is as mysterious as the sacred rites of some secret organization.

A code has its inception in an inquiry addressed to the Control Division of the NRA. This is answered with a form which industry representatives must answer and return to the control office, the contact between industry and the recovery organization.

This form paves the way for the tentative draft code which should be sent to the Control Division in eight copies. One of these is held by the control office, one goes to the Code Division, three to the advisory boards—Labor, Industrial and Consumers, one to the Deputy Administrator, and one to the Research and Planning Division.

Guided By Bureaus.

Preparatory to a conference between the representatives of the industry and a deputy administrator—assisted by advisers sent by each of the three advisory boards and experts from the legal, research and code divisions—the tentative draft code is thoroughly weighed in the various departments to see if it conforms with the spirit and word of the recovery act. Its failings are pointed out, and suggestions are made.

The code is then in form for the conference between recovery officials and representatives of the industry, preferably less than four. An effort is made at this conference to bring the code to a point where Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator, will declare it in shape for a public hearing.

The industrial group makes a written request for a public hearing, and the NRA sets a date and gives notice.

At the hearing any person having an interest—labor, industry or consumer—may speak by notifying the deputy administrator in charge prior to the hearing. The object of the hearing is merely to obtain facts. Arguments and debates are not permitted. The deputy administrator is again assisted by his advisers and technicians.

Reports on Code.

After the deputy administrator obtains knowledge of the facts, he prepares his report on the code, taking into consideration the reports from the legal and research divisions. His report is reviewed by Gen. Johnson and is finally passed to the President, who by his signature makes it the effective rule.

Formulating a permanent code has nothing to do with the filing of modifications to the President's blanket code for the purpose of obtaining the NRA Blue Eagle.

Woodley Road Chasers Take 2 In Purse Thefts

Police Car Wrecked by Pole; Suspects Run Into Motor Truck.

A four-block chase through exclusive Woodley road section yesterday ended with the capture of two alleged purse-snatchers after a police car was wrecked in an attempt to apprehend them.

The suspects, were spotted in a stolen car near the District-Chevy Chase line by Detective Sergeant O. W. Mansfield. The two sped down Wisconsin avenue in an automobile, Sergeant Mansfield turning in an alarm.

At Wisconsin avenue and Macomb street, Sergeant W. P. Barnes of the Eighth Precinct had just received the warning when he saw the approaching car. As he attempted to force the automobile to the curb his own car crashed into a telegraph pole. Speeding down Macomb street, the two suspects crashed into a motor truck.

John Tyner, broker, and J. M. Rickey, a Washington Post reporter, saw the men run from the scene and chased them into a yard on Woodley road. Sergeant Barnes arrived and arrested the suspects.

They said they were Hubert Henry Council, 18, of 1327 Tenth street northwest, and Norman Clyde Rogers, 20, of 3915 Eighth street northwest. Police said the car the two used had been stolen a few hours before the men were arrested.

Child Injured By Auto.

Daniel Wright, 4, of 499 Maine street southwest, was recovering in his home last night from injuries received yesterday when he ran into the side of an auto while playing near his home.

Federal Probe Of Kidnapings To Be Rushed

Government Rips Aside Technicalities for Speedy Trials.

Oklahoma City, Aug. 18 (AP).—Word that a Federal grand jury probably will be called here next week to investigate the Charles Urschel kidnaping was given today by Leslie E. Salter, Assistant Attorney General, who came to Oklahoma City by air under orders from Washington.

Salter and his staff were ripping aside technicalities in an effort to bring to speedy trial Harvey Bailey, held in Dallas; Alfred Bates, held in Denver, and others named in the indictment, which lists three "parties unknown."

Identify Trap Eluders.

Chicago, Aug. 18 (AP).—Detective Chief William Schoemaker tonight said that two notorious former convicts, Charles Connors, 57, and Basil Banghart, 29, of Detroit, had been identified from photographs as the two men who escaped a huge trap set Tuesday for the kidnapers of John Factor.

In addition to seeking Connors and Banghart, the detective chief said he wanted Ludwig Schmist, alias "Dutch Louis," associate of Gerald Chapman, internationally known criminal, who was executed in New York for his crimes several years ago.

Touhy to Stand Trial.

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 18 (AP).—Roger Touhy, Chicago gang chief, and three lieutenants today dropped their fight to avoid a trial in St. Paul, Minn., on charges of kidnaping William Hamm, a wealthy brewer.

After weeks of legal delays, their attorneys admitted his clients were the persons indicted by a Federal grand Jury in St. Paul, and waived a removal hearing. Federal Judge F. A. Geiger ordered them taken to St. Paul tomorrow.

Police, deputy sheriffs and Federal agents armed with sawed-off shotguns and tear gas bombs guarded Touhy, Eddie McFadden, Gus Schafer and Willie Sharkey in their court appearance. Only persons known to officers were admitted.

16 Guilty of Arson; Probe On for Years

London, Aug. 18 (AP).—The longest case in the annals of historic Old Bailey ended today when sixteen men were convicted of fraud in connection with the burning over a period of years of numerous small business places to collect insurance.

The trial, which Judge Humphreys described as reaching the limit of human endurance, lasted seven weeks. The men will be sentenced tomorrow.

The prosecution declared the crimes constituted the greatest conspiracy ever unearthed to defraud insurance companies. The men rented shops in London and Manchester, filled them with cheap goods previously insured and set them afire. Investigation lasted several years.

HonoluluTraps Gun Smugglers

Report Smashing of Ring That Peddles Arms to Filipinos.

Honolulu, Aug. 18 (AP).—Honolulu police said today they believed they had broken up an organization of gun runners that had imported firearms into Hawaii and distributed them to aliens and Filipino plantation laborers.

The officials announced they had completed a six-month investigation and made a dozen arrests. The investigation was climaxed last night with the arrest at Aiea, a plantation town, of three men on information supplied by Mariano Ibous, who is serving six months for illegal possession of arms.

Ibous and four other Filipinos were arrested Saturday night when they called at the Aiea railroad station for an express package containing nine revolvers and automatic pistols and ammunition.

Police also investigated the activities of Thomas King, Chinese merchant of Honolulu, who pleaded guilty recently to a charge of illegal importation and sale of firearms.

Police said King imported a consignment of revolvers last July without registration. The officials added that they believed King sold the weapons to aliens, particularly Filipinos.

Possession of arms by the Filipinos would be dangerous in the event of labor troubles, police said.

Topeka Police Badge Back After 53 Years

Topeka, Kans., Aug. 18 (AP).—Law abiding citizens of Topeka need no longer be worried concerning the prospect of an imposter sporting police badge No. 9 on them.

The shield, missing more than 53 years, has been returned to the department, slightly the worse for rust, but still usable.

Alden Dannevick, Chapman, Kans., found the emblem in his back yard and mailed it to Topeka. Lieut. Perry Brush checked up his records but could not find the name of the original owner.

Boy Who Fired Mother's Home Is Sent to Prison

Oklahoma City, Aug. 18 (AP).—Silvester Powell, 19, who set fire to his mother's home, he said, to obtain money to keep his mother and his bride of ten days from starving, pleaded guilty today to second degree arson and was sentenced to one year in State's prison. Tonight he was en route to the prison, less than 24 hours after his crime.

Prohibition Losses Laid to Dry Laxity

Chautauqua, N. Y., Aug. 18 (AP).—The present trend away from prohibition is a temporary setback, which occurred because the drys believe victory was won when the eighteenth amendment was adopted, Daniel A. Poling, editor of the Christian Herald, declared in an address here today.

"The new generation has been permitted to grow up in ignorance of the suffering and shame which accompanied the saloon and liquor traffic in preprohibition days," he said. "The speakeasy is a child of license. It existed before the eighteenth amendment, which merely uncovered it. As Christian citizens, it is our duty to help release the truth about lawlessness, which accompanies the use of liquor."

Repealists See 5-1 Victory in Missouri Vote

W. C. T. U. Changes Mind; Urges Drys to Make Showing Today.

St. Louis, Aug. 18 (AP).—Missouri voters are ready to face their first opportunity to register direct views on prohibition, with competent observers expressing belief tomorrow's balloting will make the "Show Me" State the twenty-second to embrace national repeal.

Little interest is manifest, despite efforts of repealists to bring out the vote. Delegates to be selected by the voters will meet August 29, at Jefferson City to formally ratify the expression of the electorate.

Dry Leaders Divided.

Dry leaders who until the closing days of the campaign centered their efforts in a futile attempt to prevent the election, are divided in recommendations to their supporters.

P. A. Tate, superintendent of the State Antisaloon League, has told drys to refrain from visiting the polls. He also announced action would be filed in the United States Supreme Court challenging legality of the election.

Mrs. Nellie G. Burger, Springfield, president of the State W. C. T. U., at first joined Tate in his stand, but this week asked that drys make as good a showing as possible. Sample ballots, showing how to vote against repeal, have been distributed.

The W. C. T. U. about-face followed action of the Missouri Supreme Court in refusing to declare the Weeks bill, setting up machinery for the balloting, illegal.

Wet Groups Active.

Wet organizations, led by Joseph T. Davis, St. Louis, head of the United Repeal Council, have canvassed the voters, conducted rallies and distributed literature.

Davis predicted the total vote would run less than 500,000, compared with balloting of nearly 1,500,000 in the general election last November.

He predicted a majority of 5 to 1 for the repeal cause. Some observers believe a wet majority of from 2½ or 3 to 1 will be recorded.

Californian Is Hanged For Slaying Policeman

San Quentin Prison, Calif., Aug. 18 (AP).—Joseph Francis Regan, 26, was hanged here today for the murder of Hugh Crowley, policeman, of Westwood, Los Angles County.

Gov. James Rolph rejected a last-minute appeal for clemency and said he would not interfere with the execution of Jack D. Green, 30, set for September 15. Green was convicted with Regan. The policeman was shot January 11, 1932, in a theater holdup.

Attendance Mark Broken At Century of Progress

Chicago, Aug. 18 (AP).—Century of Progress attendance records crashed today before 250,000 visitors.

Poison Suspect Accuses Police Of Mauling Him

Sheriff Seizes Pictures of Attorney Taken in His Cell.

Little Rock, Ark., Aug. 18 (AP). Photographic negatives of Mark Shank, taken for use as defense evidence in an effort to prove the 41-year-old Akron, Ohio, attorney was beaten by officers into confessing the poison slaying of four persons, were seized late today on orders of Sheriff L. B. Branch.

The Pulaski County sheriff, in whose custody Shank is held, took the action because the photographs were made without permission from him or authorities of Saline County, where murder charges against Shank are pending.

Pictures Taken in Jail.

The pictures were taken of Shank in the county jail here shortly after his wife, pastor and attorney and a friend arrived from Akron and began planning a defense.

Shank broke down at sight of his wife, who, controlling her own emotions with difficulty, sought to comfort him.

"Don't cry, everything is all right," Mrs. Shank said as her husband put his head on her shoulder and sobbed. Striving to maintain a cheerful attitude, she immediately ordered him a large meal. He had eaten little since his arrest.

There followed a conference between them and E. H. Boylan, former Akron common pleas judge, who will assist in the defense; the Rev. Father J. L. Waldhisen, pastor of the Immaculate Conception Church, which Shank attended, and Anthony Rock, an Akron friend of the accused slayer.

Three Start Inquiry.

Later the three men left for Malvern to make a personal investigation.

Shank displayed to the Akron party bruises on his body, which he said Hot Springs officers inflicted in obtaining a confession from him. The officers there have denied the confession was obtained by force.

Shank is said to have confessed poisoning Alvin Colley, formerly of Akron; Mrs. Colley and their two sons, Clyde, 7, and Clement, 11. Shank's motive, he is said to have confessed, was the fear that Colley would implicate him in the theft of State's evidence against a client of Shank's in Ohio.

Hits Insanity Plea.

Although Judge Boylan said a statement would not be issued until later, he indicated Shank would repudiate the confession and enter a plea of insanity.

The four victims of the poisoning, which Shank was quoted as saying he plotted before he left Akron a week ago, were buried at Malvern today.

Bullets May Trace Slayers of 2 Men

Birmingham, Ala., Aug. 18 (U.P.) A Birmingham ballistics expert, George R. Stuart, today began examination of bullets taken from the bodies of two Tuscaloosa County negro lynch victims.

Officials hoped results of his examination would help them apprehend the men who shot to death two Negroes and wounded a third after snatching the trio from officers escorting them from Tuscaloosa to Birmingham for safekeeping Sunday.

The Negroes faced trial on charges of slaying a young white girl.

Slayer of Benefactor Given Death Sentence

Nogales, Ariz., Aug. 18 (AP).—George J. Shaughnessy, 18, of Albany, N. Y., confessed slayer of Lon Blankenship, Tucson automobile dealer, was sentenced to hang by Superior Judge Charles L. Hardy today. The execution was set for October 27.

Broker Linked In Fake Bond Case in Kansas

Cashed Spurious Securities for Accused Official, Investigation Shows.

Topeka, Kans., Aug. 18 (AP).—Disclosure that Ronald Finney, Emporia bond broker, paid currency into the office of Tom B. Boyd, State treasurer, to redeem spurious bonds or interest coupons which had been presented to the treasury for payment, was made today by Fred M. Harris, special counsel for Gov. Alf M. Landon in the $1,000,000 Kansas bond forgery investigation.

Both Boyd and Finney are under arrest in connection with the forgery case.

On one occasion, Harris said, records and statements showed the treasurer's office paid twice for $3,000 matured bonds of the Hutchinson park board—one payment being made to the school fund commission, which held the original, and the other to the Citizens State Bank, North Dakota, which held $50,000 in spurious bonds Finney had sold the institution.

Bond Juggling Alleged.

When the issuing municipality demanded to know why it was charged twice for the bonds, Harris said, Finney paid the treasurer's office $3,000 in currency and took the bonds. A receipt was issued, showing the City of Hutchinson had paid the $3,000 and the municipality was given credit on the bonds.

The counsel said that on May 23, $3,500 was deposited in the National Bank of Topeka to the credit of Miss Helen D. Boyd, daughter of the State treasurer, and that it was checked out within a few days.

Boyd's Son Accused Also.

On July 31, he said, Bob Boyd, son of Boyd and an employe in the department, carried from the State House to the bank $2,500 in $20 bills, which he deposited to the credit of his sister. On the same day the money was checked out to Boyd.

Numerous forged municipal warrants have come to light in the investigation. The forgeries have been of funded warrants presumed to have been destroyed.

Mystery Veils Coast Killing

Woman Figures in Slaying of Doctor-Sportsman, Police Think.

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 18 (AP).—Detectives seeking the slayer of Dr. James I. Gaines made a mystery of their investigation today.

Captain of Detectives James McCarry and Chief of Police Ira Martin joined in issuing the statement, "the Gaines murder will be solved," but neither would reveal what had been uncovered to lead to such a conclusion.

As they neared completion of their examination of Mrs. Harriette Andrew, a close friend of the slain sportsman and drugless physician, the detectives announced also they would not abandon their theory that a woman figured in the slaying. They added, however, that Mrs. Andrew was not connected with the actual shooting.

McCarry said questioning of Mrs. Lily Gaines the widow, who discovered her husband, wounded by three revolver bullets in the driveway of their home shortly after 1:30 a. m. last Tuesday, had revealed nothing important.

Lillian Cunningham who was employed by Dr. Gaines three years ago, also was brought to headquarters for questioning. She was released in an hour.

Dr. Gaines' patient records, most of them detailing the treatment of women, have been studied.

Death's Bride

Woman Who Shot Self Over Former Mate Reweds and Dies.

Chicago, Aug. 18 (AP).—Lying on a hospital bed, gasping with pain, Mrs. Alice Covelli was remarried today to the man over whom she shot herself. Then she died. She had been "insanely jealous," she said, over his attentions to another woman.

Daniel Covelli, an attorney, rushed to the marriage license bureau.

"I want to remarry Alice," he told the chief clerk. "It may save her life. There has never been another woman in my life, but she thinks there was."

Four nurses, three internes and a physician witnessed the exchange of vows. The nurses combed the stricken woman's hair, touched her lips with rouge. One of them brought a small vase of flowers into the chamber. The physician acted as best man.

Father Kelly pronounced the bans. Mrs. Covelli managed a wan smile and murmured:

"I'm happy now. I want to live. I love you, Dan; thanks, Dan."

Covelli tiptoed from the room. A few minutes later word was brought to him that his wife was dead.

Illinois Plea To Extradite Sapiro Denied

New York Governor Rules for Lawyer Named in Racketeering.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 18 (AP).—Gov. Lehman denied the application of the State of Illinois for the extradition of Aaron Sapiro, under indictment there in connection with a laundry-racket investigation.

Lehman said that Grover C. Neimeyer, assistant State attorney of Cook County, had informed him a new indictment would be procured.

Gov. Lehman conducted a three-hour hearing on the Illinois application. Three witnesses for Sapiro, nationally known as an organizer of farm cooperatives, swore that he was in New York City May 30, 1933, the date mentioned in the indictment as the day on which he was engaged in the Chicago laundry racket.

Chicago, Aug. 18 (AP).—Aaron Sapiro, New York lawyer and organizer of farm cooperatives, was reported reindicted today by the Cook County Grand Jury.

Sapiro was indicted recently in connection with an investigation of labor racketeering.

The reported new true bill was altered to make possible a new attempt to extradite him. The date of the offense charged was understood to have been changed to May 18.

Assistant State's Attorney Edwin J. Raber said he had "conclusive evidence" Sapiro was in Chicago on the 18th.

40 Sent to Prisons.

Oldest Fire Apparatus to Vie In Parade on Labor Day

Ancient Pieces Are Coming From Greencastle, Pa., and Annapolis.

What is believed to be the oldest piece of fire apparatus in the United States will be brought to the National Firemen's Labor Day parade from Greencastle, Pa.

Sergt. A. J. Bargagni, parade marshal, yesterday received information about it from the Greencastle Fire Department, which will be represented in the big celebration here by 30 men in addition to the ancient engine.

Although the Greencastle apparatus is described authoritatively as the oldest in the country, Chief Jess Fisher, of Annapolis, claims he has a pumper that is just as old, or older. It too, will be entered in the parade. A prize of $50 is offered for the oldest apparatus.

The Greencastle engine is called "Rescue." It was built to the best of the firefighter's knowledge in 1741. It was purchased secondhand from the City of Baltimore in the early part of the nineteenth century. Records in Baltimore, covering this date have been destroyed, it is said, and accurate information as to its earlier history is not available.

Known as a "Newsham" in design, the ancient engine is thought to have been brought to America from England, where this type of apparatus was built from 1740 to 1744. It is still in good condition and is capable of throwing a stream of water 65 feet.

In 1858, the front part of the engine was repaired by Joseph Martin, of Greencastle, who ran a coach shop. His son, J. McLean Martin, has included an affidavit along with the engine's entry, attesting to the fact that his father repaired "Rescue" when he was a boy.

Fred Sheppard, editorial director of Fire Engineering, in a letter to the Greencastle company, has stated that it is his belief that this is the oldest engine of its type in America.

Air Regulation Expense to U. S. Cut $200,000

Saving Made by Combining Bases and Slashing Traveling Costs.

Savings of $200,000 annually have been effected by the air regulation service of the Department of Commerce, with a decrease of personnel of only 15 per cent it was announced yesterday by Eugene Vidal, chief of the service.

Fourteen of the 49 airplanes owned by the department have been placed in dead storage. The 75 inspectors in the field have been stationed permanently at 45 cities to avoid travel expenses. Two large inspection bases have been combined and the maintenance base at Bolling Field, Washington, has been discontinued. Airline inspection and regulation has been segregated completely from other regulation The personnel has been reduced from 200 to 170 and this decrease includes unfilled vacancies and deaths.

Inspectors Stay Home.

Inspectors, who formerly flew to most of the larger fields to give pilots' tests and inspected new and repaired aircraft, now remain at their base, and pilots come to them. Requirements for student pilots' licenses have been changed to make this possible for all classes of pilots.

Airline inspectors are stationed at Newark, Cleveland, Chicago, Kansas City, Fort Worth, Los Angeles and Oakland, Calif. An airline inspector and a maintenance inspector will be stationed at each of these cities, except Cleveland, where there will be no maintenance inspector. Instead, there will be a maintenance inspector at Atlanta, Ga. These men are concerned with flying operations, competence of flying and repairing personnel and safety factors in airline operation.

Several Jobs Abolished.

Positions in the regulation service which have been abolished are those of chief inspectors, chief of the licensing division, three aeronautical inspectors, one pilot and three clerical positions.

George E. Gardner, formerly a chief inspector, becomes chief of the inspection service. Joseph S. Marriott, formerly a chief inspector, will be supervising inspector at Los Angeles, from where Charles A. Rowe has been transferred to a similar post at Dallas. C. A. Charles, former inspector at Camden, N. J., and R. I. Hazen, former inspector at Dallas, become flying school inspectors. Eight inspectors will be furloughed without pay pending a determination of the savings to be effected in travel and other costs.

The two inspection districts of New York and Philadelphia have been combined at New York.

Forest Camps Will Stay Open 6 Months More

President Will Urge Men to Seek Employment in Industries.

The reforestation army will be continued at its full strength of 300,000 men for another six months, President Roosevelt said yesterday.

All men now enrolled in the Civilian Conservation Corps will be reenrolled if they can not find other jobs. Before these reenlistments start, the President will appeal to all to take places in private industry if they can. The vacancies created will be filled with other young unemployed men.

About 450 camps will be abandoned this winter, the President said. This will mean moving 75,000 to 85,000 men to new locations, now being selected by the Army and the Forest Service.

Half May Reenlist.

It is estimated that about half the men will not be able to find private jobs and will want to reenlist. This means that an additional 150,000 men will be taken from the unemployed ranks by November 15.

The new recruits will be enlisted under the original regulations.

Washington's quota probably will be about 250 men, about half its original allotment.

The President's personal appeal will be that every man in the camps endeavor to get a private job without replacing another worker.

Camp Cost Cut.

Present enlistments in the corps will expire between October 1 and November 15.

The cost of the corps during the first six months will be about $125,000,000, but it can be run for a second six-month period for about $65,000,000.

Johnson Seen In Heroic Role

NRA Leader Compared to Human Engine by Way He Works.

By Westbrook Pegler.

It would be pretty hard to tailor this Gen. Hugh Johnson for his role in history, because he is still growing. It will take some time to correct his measurements. Sometimes a man looks heroic when he is just blown up. So when he shrinks down to normal measurements garments of greatness hang upon his final outlines in grotesque folds, and the public enthusiasm which dressed him up so gaudily does not like to be reminded.

There was Hell-an'-Maria Dawes, for example. It has been only a few years since the underslung pipe and homely expletives so captivated the Washington journalists and citizens in general that you would have thought he was All-time All-America. Then the United States Senate pinned his ears back, and little things happened in the affairs of Gen. Dawes to show him up as just another of those boys with an early burst of speed who failed to make the varsity.

Journalists like him. It is a little startling to find a couple of old malcontents among the corps of Washington correspondents tagging along after Gen. Johnson and hoping for the honor of carrying his coat. It seems that he is a fellow who doesn't give a dam for anybody. Calls people names. Takes a drink if he feels like it.

If the grocer doesn't conform the neighborhood girls can be called upon to buy their butter and eggs somewhere up the block.

Gen. Johnson's great asset is his personality. He works like an engine. His force and magnetism will win many concessions which the law itself could not be expected to command.

"Daughter" Asks Spinster's Estate

Natchez, Miss., Aug. 18 (U.P.).—The will of Jane Surget Merrill, 72-year-old recluse slain here a year ago, was contested today by Mrs. Nellie J. Grist, of Indiana, who claimed to be Miss Merrill's daughter.

The suit was filed in Adams County Chancery Court. It brought a new turn to the celebrated mystery murder case.

Miss Merrill was known as a spinster. She lived alone in her antebellum estate, Glenburney, retaining many of the customs of the early '90's.

Only one person had access to her home. He was Duncan Minor, her boyhood sweetheart, who lived on an adjoining estate, unmarried, and making frequent visits to Miss Merrill. Neighborhood gossip said the two had been secretly married.

In Miss Merrill's will, filed for probate, Minor was named sole heir. Mrs. Grist's suit said Miss Merrill left two wills, both undated, unwitnessed, and consequently, both null and void.

Walter Huston's Son Files Suit for Divorce

Los Angeles, Aug. 18 (AP).—A suit for divorce from Mrs. Dorothy Huston, the former Jeanne Harvey of the stage and screen, was filed in superior court today by John Huston, 28, son of Walter Huston, film actor. Young Huston is a scenario writer.

He charged Mrs. Huston was not a good housekeeper and objected, without reason, to his friends. Huston agreed to pay her $50 weekly alimony for three years. They were married October 17, 1926, and separated last January 10.

Maryland NRA Support Urged By Mrs. Ross

Consumers' Role Stressed by Mint Director in Ocean City Talk.

Ocean City, Md., Aug. 18 (AP).—A plea for support of the President's recovery program was carried into the Maryland Eastern Shore tonight by Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross, director of the mint and vice chairman of the Democratic national committee.

In an address prepared for delivery at a banquet of Eastern Shore business men, Mrs. Ross called upon every man and woman in the United States to join in "one mighty united effort to jolt the country out of the mire in which it is sunk."

The brunt of the burden will fall on the employer, she said.

"But they can not do it alone," she added. "They can not bear the entire burden entailed in the raising of wages, shortening of hours and reemployment of workers. Every man and woman in the country must help. They must bear their share in higher prices and give their full moral support to the plan. * * *

"Self interest has been the actuating motive frankly confessed by many a business executive who has entered this covenant. That is an entirely legitimate and worthy motive. It is the duty of each one to save himself and his dependents from ruin.

"At the same time, there is evidence aplenty that many a fine citizen, unselfish of spirit, with the love of humanity in his heart, has thrown to the winds all thought of selfish advantage, to pool his economic destiny with that of his countrymen, because he believed it would rescue them from distress."

The banquet was held under the auspices of the Lions Clubs of Ocean City, Berlin and Salisbury.

Huge Drop in Europe's Wheat Imports Likely

Rome, Aug. 18 (AP).—A report of the International Institute of Agriculture tonight said the European demand for wheat from Russia and overseas exporters this year likely would drop 3,200,000 metric tons under last year's needs. (The metric ton is 2,204 pounds.)

It was estimated the requirements would not exceed 8,500,000 tons.

The importance of this rests in the fact that Europe absorbs on the average four-fifths of the exports of surplus-producing countries, including the United States, Canada and Argentina.

121st Returns To Camp After Night in Field

Compete in Drills Today; Washington Veterans to Get Medals.

Camp Albert C. Ritchie, Cascade, Md., Aug. 18 (Spl.).—Dripping with perspiration from marching under the midday sun, the 121st Engineers returned to camp today from their overnight maneuvers, after spending last night in a field between Sabillasville and Bantz, Md.

This morning the regiment laid out a defense line to repulse a Red army advancing from the north. The maneuver proved highly successful and received the commendations of inspecting officers. Lieut. Col. Julius S. Oliff, executive officer of the regiment, was in charge of operations, acting for Col. John W. Oehmann, commanding, who was serving with the Twenty-ninth Division staff as engineer officer.

Compete in Drills Today.

The men spent the afternoon preparing for a competitive drill to be held tomorrow. Informal guard mount ended the regimental activities for the day.

The Headquarters Detachment, Twenty-ninth Division of Washingtan, stood field inspection today, receiving a high rating for neatness and efficiency. The detachment is commanded by Lieut. David W. Milne. Inspecting officers were Maj. L. McD. Silvester, Regular Army instructor; Capt. Lee D. Hooper, United States Army, and Lieut. Col. Cheston, United States Army.

Tonight the detachment held its annual party in the company mess hall. Mess Sergt. James Lynch acted as master of ceremonies and introduced the various acts of entertainment. Garrett Rush, barytone, sang a number of solos, accompanied by himself on the guitar, followed by a black face comedian act by Sergt. Lynch. Thomas Penner, the organization cook, proved the surprise of the evening when he rendered a group of piano selections.

Junior Officers Have Tea.

The junior officers of the division staff held a tea this afternoon on the lawn adjacent to the staff tents. Guests included wives and officers of the Engineer regiment and the Twenty-ninth Division special troops.

The condition of First Sergt. William H. Mattoon, Company D, who was removed to the Waynesboro Hospital yesterday suffering from bronchitis, was reported as improving. He probably will return to the camp tomorrow for duty.

The division staff completed the theoretical moving of the troops from Frederick, Md., to Emmittsburg, from which point they were to be sent into the line to stop a red advance from the East over the Susquehanna River.

Tomorrow service medals for faithful duty with the District National Guard will be awarded. Men and officers completing 10, 15, 20 or 25 years as members of the guard will receive the decorations.

Gold Is Discovered On Maryland Farm

Man Who Hunted Metal in West Indies Finds It at Own Home.

A search for gold which took him to the West Indies ended for L. Ron Hubbard, Beallsville, Md., the other day when he reported finding the precious metal right on his wife's farm.

A year ago Hubbard went to the West Indies in search of gold. He hoped to find enough on which to get married. His search was not altogether successful, but he returned recently and married his sweetheart. Shortly after the wedding, they happened to break a fragment of rock picked up on their farm, and in their hands they found flakes of gold.

Hubbard said samples assayed $82 to the ton. He said he had traced the lode a mile or more. He plans to work it with others.

'Home, Sweet Home' in Truth

Philadelphian, 70, and "Same Old Girl" He Wed Years Ago Rejoice as U. S. Makes Their House First Saved From Foreclosure.

Philadelphia, Aug. 18 (AP).—In all his 70 years, John P. Flannagan says, he never got a bigger thrill out of the meaning of "Home, Sweet Home," than he did today.

For, surrounded by city, State and national representatives of the Federal Home Owners Loan Corporation, Flannagan became the first person in the country to receive direct aid of the Federal Government in saving his home from foreclosure.

Standing at his side was Mrs. Margaret Flannagan, "the same old girl" he took to the home in suburban Falls-of-the-Schuylkill many years ago as a bride.

As Jacob H. Mays, State Home Loan manager, handed Flannagan the papers which meant an end to his worries about foreclosure, the white-haired applicant said:

"It's a great day for me, all right. I don't know how I can express my appreciation for the efforts of President Roosevelt in making such aid possible to home owners like myself."

Flannagan proudly asserted he had voted for every Democratic President since Cleveland.

He received a loan of $1,500 on a home assessed for $3,000. Had the Home Loan Corporation not come to his aid, he would have faced eviction next month.

There are about 200,000 other applicants in the State, although the State branches have been functioning only since August 1.

Broken Blood Vessel Is Fatal to Fireman

A broken blood vessel proved fatal to W. W. Thompson, 50, treasurer of the Riverdale Volunteer Fire Department, who died early yesterday while fellow firemen were giving blood to save his life.

The injury occurred as Mr. Thompson was practicing last Tuesday night for the coming field events at Rockville. He was taken to Sibley Hospital.

Dr. J. Martin Keane, his physician, later said a blood transfusion was necessary. Fourteen firemen volunteered their blood. Daniel Herzog, chief of police as well as firemen, was selected.

All Wet

Crews of Italian Subs Doused as Germans Salute Them.

New York, Aug. 18 (AP).—The liner Hamburg arrived today with a story of meeting near Nantucket yesterday two submarines, the crews of which got wet feet when courtesies were exchanged.

Capt. Theodore Koch, master of the Hamburg, saw the submarines dead ahead. He could not make out the flag, but decided the boats were English and ordered the ship's band to be ready to play the British anthem.

A second look indicated they were American and he sent word to the band to play "The Star-Spangled Banner."

The band was all ready when the master saw the submarines were flying the Italian flag. When the Hamburg came abreast the smaller craft the band started the Fascist anthem, and the crew saluted with upraised hands, as did the crews of the submarines on the decks of their craft.

However, the Hamburg was moving much faster than the undersea craft, and the backwash of the steamer caused a swell which swept over the submarines' decks, and every man aboard got wet to the knee.

Ryan Is Fifth Rector of C. U. Named Bishop

Noted as Philosophical Writer; College Gains Under His Rule.

Mgr. James Hugh Ryan, whose appointment as titular Bishop of Modra was announced yesterday, is the fifth of the five rectors of Catholic University to be made a bishop.

The Right Rev. John J. Keane, S. T. D., who served as rector from 1887 to 1896, was made an archbishop upon his resignation. The others were created bishops while still in office at the university. The Right Rev. Thomas F. Conaty, S. T. D., who served at the university from 1896 to 1903, received his appointment as bishop in 1903. His successor, the Right Rev. Denis J. O'Connell, S. T. D., whose rectorship lasted until 1909, was appointed bishop in 1908.

Bishop-elect Ryan's predecessor, the Right Rev. Thomas J. Shahan, S. T. D., who was rector from 1909 to 1927, became a bishop in 1914. Bishop-elect Ryan recently was reappointed to serve a second five-year term as rector.

Under his rectorship the university's enrollment has increased from 892 to 1,450, and the faculty has been increased by 30. The income of the institution has increased nearly 70 per cent, and annual expenditures have come to exceed a million dollars.

Born December 15, 1886, in Indianapolis, Bishop-elect Ryan was ordained priest at 22. Special dispensation was made on account of his youth. He was educated at Duquesne University, Pittsburgh, and at Mount St. Mary's Seminary of the West, Cincinnati. He is well known as a religious and philosophical writer.

The bishop-elect is a member of the Catholic Educational Association, the American Philosophical Association and the executive council of the Medieval Academy of America, having acted also as secretary-treasurer and one of the founders of the American Catholic Philosophical Association and as a delegate to the Sixth International Congress of Philosophy in 1926.

The date of Mgr. Ryan's consecration has not been set.

U. S. Helping Tobacco Firms In Upturn Plan

40-Hour Week in Cigarette Code; Little Increase in Prices Foreseen.

(United Press.)

The Federal Government pushed on two fronts yesterday its campaign to restore prosperity to the tobacco industry without inflicting unreasonable price increases on consumers.

Officials of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration said that when the campaign is completed the price of cigars will be almost unchanged, and cigarettes will be only slightly higer—enough to cover production costs. Cigarettes formerly selling for 15 cents—now down to 12 cents—probably will be restored to former levels, it was said.

The National Recovery Administration, which shares the task of codifying the tobacco industry with the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, already has approved a code for cigarette manufacturers. It calls for a 40-hour week and a minimum wage of 40 cents an hour. The industry will require 16,000 additional employes under the code, NRA officials said.

Other Major Tobacco Codes.

Two other major codes are still in formation:

One is the wholesale and retail code sponsored by the National Association of Tobacco Distributors and the Retail Tobacco Dealers of America, Inc. Informal discussions have been held by William A. Hollingsworth, president of the retail dealers, and NRA officials. Hearings may start in 10 days. The code calls for a minimum wage of $15 a week in large cities and scales down to $12 in towns of fewer than 2,500 population.

Chief point of controversy is a 40-hour-week provision. Retail dealers contend the granting of a 48-hour week to restaurants—responsible for 20 per cent of the retail tobacco business—imposes handicaps on stores dealing exclusively in tobacco products unless they have a 48-hour week.

No price fixing is involved, but these minimum trade discounts are established: On cigarettes 20 per cent, 5 per cent and 2 per cent from the retail price; on cigars and pipe tobacco 25 per cent, 10 per cent and 2 per cent. Retail discounts: Cigarettes 20 per cent; cigars and pipe tobacco 25 per cent.

Cigar Manufacturers' Code.

The second code being worked on is for machine and hand made cigar manufacturers. Their codes are almost identical except for labor provisions. They are expected to compromise on a joint code calling for a 32-cent an hour minimum wage and an average maximum work-week of 40 hours.

The Agricultural Adjustment Administration announced yesterday 75 per cent of the tobacco growers had signed agreements to curtail production. Using their last year's crop as a base, the growers agree to reduce production 50 per cent, and in return receive benefits from the Government along the general lines of the domestic allotment plan.

Arlington NRA Group Meeting Is Postponed

The scheduled meeting of the executive committee of the NRA for Arlington County, set for last night at the courthouse, will be held at 8 p. m. next Wednesday at the same place, Chairman Harry A. Fellows announced last night.

The committee will perfect its organization then. The plan is to appoint two special committees, one to visit all merchants and business firms in the county to urge that they join in the movement, the other to visit every home to obtain the pledge of all consumers to become members.

Rioting Felons Put in 'Solitary'

Leavenworth, Kans., Aug. 18 (AP). Thirteen convicts of the Federal Penitentiary annex were in solitary confinement tonight as the outgrowth of rioting incident to tightening of discipline with the Terry Druggan expose.

Breaking windows and bunks, 600 inmates of wing six created disturbances Wednesday and last night. Guards were stoned from the cellhouse in the first outbreak. Reserves were called to quell the mutiny. The following night the tumult continued.

Extra guards again were summoned to duty. Quiet was restored after segregation of the ringleaders. Fred Zerbst, warden of the main prison, declined to comment on the situation.

An official shakeup at the prison and more strict administration was believed to have caused the mutiny.

Warden Hudspeth recently returned from Washington where he was called in the investigation of unauthorized privileges accorded to Druggan, Chicago beer baron, serving a two and a half year sentence for income tax evasion.

"Mind" Is Lesson-Sermon Subject at Science Churches.

"Mind" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all the Churches of Christ, Scientist, tomorrow. The golden text is from Philippian's ii:13, "It is God which worketh in you both to will and to do of His good pleasure." Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "O the depth of the riches both of the wisdom and knowledge of God! How unsearchable are His judgments and His ways past finding out! For who hath known the mind of the Lord, or who hath been His counselor? Or who hath first given to Him, and it shall be recompensed unto Him again? For of Him, and through Him, and to Him are all things, to whom be glory forever. Amen. (Romans xi:33-36.) The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science Textbook, "Science and Health With Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Reasoning from cause to effect in the science of mind, we begin with mind, which must be understood through the idea which expresses it and can not be learned from its opposite, matter. Thus we arrive at truth, or intelligence, which evolves its own unerring idea and never can be coordinate with human illusions." (Page 467.)

God Gives Son to Hannah

Prayer of Embittered Jewish Woman Is Rewarded in Samuel Whom, as Promised, She Dedicated to Service of Jehovah.

International Sunday School Lesson. "Hannah."

By Wyman Walker.

I Sam., i:9-11,24-28; ii:1,2.
Time: B. C. 1171.
Place: Shiloh and Ramah.
Golden text: Prov. xxxi:30.

This subject concerns the deeply rooted faith in God of a barren Hebrew woman, one of the finest types of womanhood in the Scriptures, who prayed to God for a male child. What a striking contrast in the Hebrew women of old and the modern fashionable women of today.

Hannah was in "great bitterness of soul, and prayed unto the Lord, and wept sore," and made a vow unto Jehovah that if He would give her a male child she would give him unto Jehovah all the days of his life, and devote him to be a Nazarite, a life of separation, wholly separated and acceptable unto God.

What a wonderful example of faith, hope and unselfishness, for when she had "poured out her soul before God" in the temple and discoursed with Eli, she went away with her heart full of gladness and a joyful countenance and ate the feast which she had so often refused on other occasions, with the consciousness and assurance that her prayers had been heard of Jehovah and would certainly be answered.

"Blessed are they that have not seen, and yet have believed." (John 21;29). When we humble ourselves before God unselfishly, as did Hannah, willing for his will to be done, then we may expect God to answer our prayers. "The Lord preserveth the simple: I was brought low, and he helped me." (Ps. 116:6).

So later, after Hannah had returned home from Shiloh, she discovered that God had answered her prayers as she had hoped and they called his name Samuel. That we see Hannah praying again, giving thanks, praising and glorifying God and rejoicing in His salvation.

Her prayer was really a song of praise. She realized that Jehovah had been merciful to her. Prayer is our only medium by which we can communicate with God, and what a wonderful testimony this Hebrew woman has given us in 1 Samuel 2:1-10. Are we as close to God as we can get?—And as she rejoiced in thanksgiving "her horn was exalted in Jehovah" that she could defend her honor and not be looked upon as childless. Her "mouth was enlarged over her enemies," because it was filled with an answer to those who reproached her.

In Hannah's beautiful prophetic prayer in which she prophesied in the eighth verse the first as well as the second coming of our Lord in His glorious future kingdom, and, too, in this beautiful prayer she gives God all the glory and confesses that He is strong and mighty and the only true and living God able to weigh every action in a scale of untarnished justice.

"Trust in Him at all times; ye people, pour out your hearts before Him: God is a refuge for us" (Ps. 62:8). And if we trust in Christ as our Savior and believe, then Christ tells us "Whatsoever ye ask the Father in my name, He will give it you" (John 23:16).

When the time came for little Samuel to be weaned, Hannah did not forget the Lord as we do so often after having been blessed, but Hannah remembered her vow and dedicated him to the Lord, and she was not only blessed with more children but God made Samuel the beginning of a succession of prophets as well as opened into the royalty of David.

God knows our hearts and our needs and if we live the lives of wholly submission and separation of worldly lust to do the will of God, then He will open the windows of heaven and pour out untold blessings.

Standards Fixed In Cleaners' Code

Minimum standards of quality and service have been provided for in the code of the National Association of Dyers and Cleaners, submitted to NRA yesterday.

The clause was included at the request of Dr. Pauline Beery Mack, representing the Home Economics Association. A board has been appointed by the cleaners to draft a provision fixing responsibility for loss and damage to customers' garments and providing for a board of arbitration to decide unsettled customers' claims.

Dr. Ruth O'Brien, of the Bureau of Home Economics, will represent the consumer on this board. Mandatory insurance is a provision of the code.

The code calls for a maximum week of 45 hours, with wages ranging from 33 cents to 20 cents an hour. This represents an approximate increase of 20 per cent in the pay rolls. A recovery executive committee is empowered with "authority to determine, publish and enforce fair minimum prices."

C. C. C. Forest Firemen To Be Given More Food

It takes more power to run a machine 24 hours a day than it does to run it eight hours, even if the machinery is human, so the Civilian Conservation Corps will allow extra food for reforestation workers engaged in fighting forest fires.

Orders were issued yesterday increasing by one-third the ration allowances of men on 24-hour fire-fighting duty. This will bring the daily cost of feeding such workers from about 30 cents to about 40 cents per day. It was pointed out that men working all night eat at least one extra meal every 24 hours.

Tennessee Valley Job Already Employs 500

(United Press.)

Actual construction of the Norris Dam at Muscle Shoals will not begin for three months, but 500 men already are at work on Tennessee Valley projects and 500 more will be at work soon, President Roosevelt was informed yesterday.

Dr. Arthur M. Morgan, chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority, indicated Mr. Roosevelt was pleased with the progress he reported during a White House visit.

Mother Entertains at Lunch

By Mary Brook Lucas

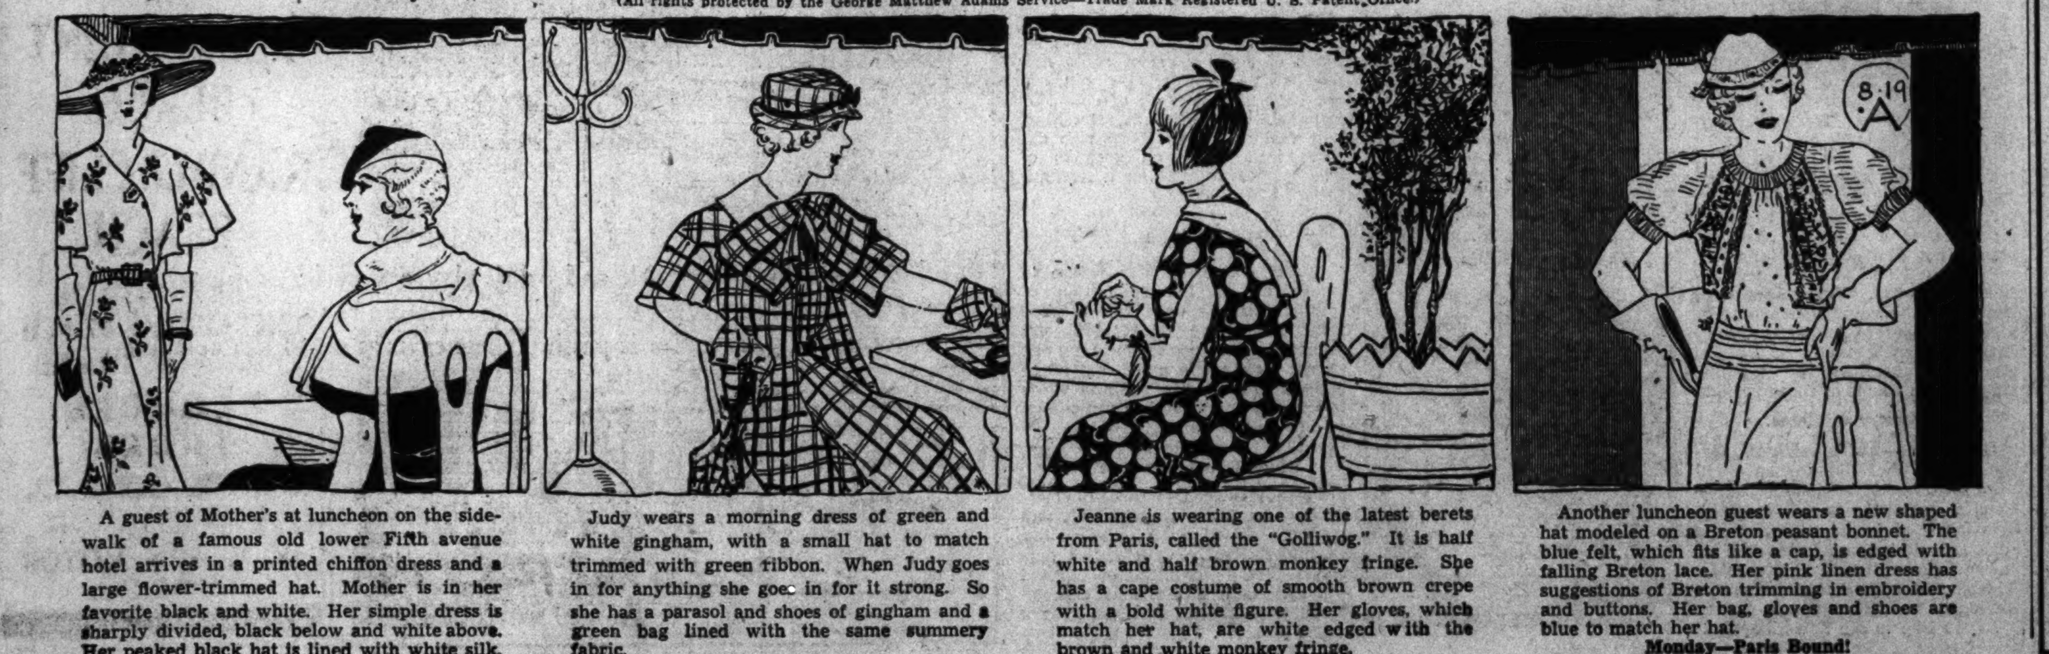
(All rights protected by the George Matthew Adams Service—Trade Mark Registered U. S. Patent Office.)



A guest of Mother's at luncheon on the sidewalk of a famous old lower Fifth avenue hotel arrives in a printed chiffon dress and a large flower-trimmed hat. Mother is in her favorite black and white. Her simple dress is shirred, black and white above. Her peaked black hat is lined with white silk.

Judy wears a morning dress of green and white gingham, with a small hat to match trimmed with green ribbon. When Judy goes in for a swim she doesn't go in for it strong. So she has a parasol and shoes of gingham and a green bag lined with the same summery fabric.

Jeanne is wearing one of the latest berets from Paris, called the "Golliwog." The beret is half white and half brown monkey fringe. She has a cape costume of smooth brown crepe with a bold white figure. Her gloves, which match her hat, are white edged with the brown and white monkey fringe.

Another luncheon guest wears a new shaped hat modeled on a Breton peasant bonnet. The blue felt, which fits like a cap, is edged with falling Breton lace. Her pink linen dress has suggestions of Breton trimming in embroidery and buttons. Her bag, gloves and shoes are blue to match her hat.

Night Driving Has Appeal for Woman Cabbie

Fares Better, Tips More Generous, People Mostly in Holiday Mood.

Erstwhile teacher, who for eight years augmented her school term income with such summertime jobs as office clerk, telephone operator, real estate solicitor, lunch room waitress and children's coach, Elsie Shawen, brown haired, dark eyed Washington miss, goes further to prove her versatility by becoming the Capital's first year-in, year-out woman taxi driver.

And she loves it.

From 4 o'clock in the evening, until 5 or 7 the following morning, she steers her car through downtown traffic, whizzes quietly through drowsing suburbs, transporting and depositing her patrons, netting her $4 to $6 a day.

"If you can't make a living driving a cab, it's because you don't try," is Miss Shawen's frank opinion. "You have to watch the papers. Know what's going on. And you have to keep driving.

"I know I get as much business as any man taxi driver in town, and I never stop at the stands. And I never get tired or sleepy as long as I keep busy."

Back at her wheel last Inauguration Day, after two months' convalescence from an attack of arthritis, Miss Shawen took in $24 in fares as one day's work. But she worked 20 hours to do it, and was without food from 7 a. m. until 10 p. m.

Has Autograph Book.

And it was on Inauguration Day that Miss Shawen started her autograph book, which today preserves the authentic signatures of such notables as Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Vice President and Mrs. John N. Garner, Paul Muni, the actor; Glenda Farrell, Hollywood actress, and a veritable roster of Congressmen, Senators, ballplayers and newspapermen.

The inimitable graciousness which is Mrs. Roosevelt's is nicely illustrated in an anecdote which Miss Shawen tells concerning the First Lady's signing her autograph book.

Mrs. Roosevelt's tall figure was glimpsed by Miss Shawen moving swiftly away from the Pan-American Building one afternoon in May, following a diplomatic gathering. Recognizing the First Lady from pictures seen in newspapers, Miss Shawen brought her car to a halt and hesitantly called to Mrs. Roosevelt.

"Would you do me a favor," the taxi-driving Miss besought her.

"Why, gladly," answered Mrs. Roosevelt.

"Would you sign my autograph book?"

"With pleasure," was the response. And she did.

Declining Miss Shawen's offer of a "lift" on the plea that she was seizing a rare opportunity to walk, Mrs. Roosevelt moved away, but not before she had inquired pleasantly as to how Miss Shawen found business.

Congressmen Good Patrons.

Congressmen constitute Miss Shawen's preferred patrons.

"Congressmen tip you better than Senators. And they're more human. They are always kind and pleasant. Never stiff or snappy."

Girl Taxi Driver.

MISS ELSIE SHAWEN, versatile Virginian and former school teacher, who finds taxi driving in Nation's Capital pleasant and profitable.

Asked whose signatures she most preferred in her autograph book, Miss Shawen replied:

"Congressmen, newspapermen and ball players. They're my best customers."

Miss Shawen finds that younger women, as a rule, adopt a supercilious attitude toward her when she solicits their patronage. They generally decline her services.

Older women, professional women and business women seem to accept her in her taxi-driving capacity much as they would accept a man—without comment—she said. Occasionally they express sympathy with, or admiration for her spirit of enterprise.

These older women, however, are much more apt to indulge in "back seat driving" than men.

"Men just climb in, sink back calmly, and take it easy. But women watch the traffic, call attention to the stop and go signs, suggest better and shorter routes and so on," Miss Shawen illustrated.

While Miss Shawen did not take up night driving entirely from choice—the determining factor being that the man from whom she rents the cab drives it by day himself—she much prefers it to day time driving.

"The jobs are better. They usually extend into the 40c and 60c zones. The people tip better. And then nearly everybody you pick up at night seems to be in a holiday mood," she explained.

Her choice of taxi-driving as a vocation came in November, of 1931, after two months' fruitless search for any kind of job in Washington.

With the sole exception of a younger sister, with whom Miss Shawen now makes her home at 1000 Rittenhouse street, every member of her large family of brothers and sisters, stoutly opposed her final decision to drive a cab.

"They felt I had disgraced them," laughed Miss Shawen, in describing their reaction.

She has several, as yet unrealized, ambitions, among which is the intention to write a book entitled, "My Public," in which she plans to tell the story of her experiences as a taxi-driver, and the desire at some future date to establish a nursery kindergarten.

What Today Means

"Leo."

If August 19 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9 to 10 a. m., from 5:45 to 7 p. m. and from 11 to 11:55 p. m. The danger periods are from 12:40 to 2 p. m. and from 8 to 9:30 p. m.

Influences operating on this date will be of a distracting nature. You will probably find it difficult to concentrate or to keep your mind focused on one subject for any length of time. Schemes evolved on this date will not prove satisfactory in the long run. In personal affairs and relationships be careful of insincerity, particularly in matters where both sexes are involved.

The child born on this August 19, may possibly have a spiteful nature; the spirit of revenge will be apparent in him. He will require a good deal of patient handling and understanding guidance in order that the best that is in him may come to the fore. He will resist discipline.

If August 19 is the date of your birth, you are perhaps among those rare people who really do their own thinking. You are not afraid to express your opinion, and this you do modestly and without any desire of forcing it on another. You are not argumentative but you very often bring forth a refreshing viewpoint on rather commonplace subjects. You are blessed with an astute mind and one that thinks quickly and directly to the point. You are also fortunate in being the possesor of an unusually healthy body. One of your difficulties may be a tendency to worry about your health, or fear the loss of it.

Born on August 19, you probably are fond of work that brings you into the public eye. A career on the stage should appeal strongly to the women, and they are very often endowed with considerable dramatic ability. The men make good political leaders, and as office holders work for the best interests of the community at large. Both sexes are able to "get themselves across" to large groups without personal and individual contacts. Theirs is an excellent platform presence and very often their voices are resonant and clear and they speak simply, directly and sincerely. You are not one who ever forgets his friends and even though you may rise far above your humble beginnings, you will always come back still feeling yourself to be one of the old crowd. You must learn to be more discreet in your relations with those of the opposite sex.

Successful people born on August 19:

Bernard M. Baruch, capitalist.
William C. Langdon, clergyman.
Elsie Ferguson, actress.
Wilson G. Smith, pianist and composer.

Simple Style Of Hair Dress Gains Favor

Hairdressers Attempt to Reveal, Not Conceal, Shape of Head.

It's grand fun to look through the family album for pictures of Grandma or Great Grandmama in a slat bonnet (with whale bones to keep it in shape) with curls and puffs and what have you. But if you haven't a family album perhaps these verbal pictures will help you to see the transition, the evolution in coiffures in the past hundred years.

In the early part of the nineteenth century, what do we see? Curls, hundreds of them and puffs. All sorts of pieces and contraptions to build the hair up and back. Powdered wigs belonged to an earlier day, but the belle of 1833 wore veritable towers of hair on her head, her own and false pieces.

Can you remember some twenty years ago the pompadours and puffs, ribbon bows in the back, the large, grotesque hats? Then hair was permitted to grow as thick and long as nature dictated. To comb a braid five feet long was a hardship indeed. To shampoo it was nothing short of an ordeal.

The girl with straight hair developed an inferior complex but no wave. Or she frizzed her hair and put it up in paper curlers.

We span the century. Here we are in 1933. Thank science for the smartness of our present styles. And for their simplicity. Long or thick hair is no longer an asset. Hairdressing artists suddenly awoke to the fact that a woman's head is a thing of beauty. Its contours are revealed in the latest fashions. Thick hair is thinned out to reveal the shape of the head, not to distort it. And no matter how intricate the swirls and ringlets the effect of utter simplicity is the ideal of every artist today. Salons that number the smartest social leaders of the day make a specialty of thinning the hair, efilating it is called. There's an art to the gradual thinning and shaping, contouring the hair close to the head, sculpture almost. Not a bit of extra weight or worry and smaller, smarter hats, with no huge knot of hair pushing the chapeau out of shape.

Most important contribution of all—the evolution of the permanent wave. Now every daughter of Eve has an equal chance to have soft, natural-looking indulations. In two hours waves are created, waves easy to manage and dress. The permanent has reached perfection and precision. What a revolution of hair styles the past century has seen!

Any questions on how to manage the permanent? Or how to condition the hair before or after? Send for my very complete bulletin on "The Permanent—Long May It Wave." Inclose self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Elsie Pierce will answer any questions on beauty you wish to ask her. Address Miss Pierce, in care of The Washington Post, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Women Attorneys Serve on Bureau

Mrs. Perl Klein and Miss Beatrice Clephane, right, Washington attorneys, discussing cases brought to their attention as volunteer workers on the staff of Washington's Legal Aid Bureau, 1418 I street northwest. Miss Clephane is director of the bureau, which is staffed with six men and six women prominent among Washington's younger lawyers, who serve without pay.

Legal Aid Bureau Prevents Breaking Up of Many Homes

Capital City Women Form Organization Offering Legal Aid to Persons Unable to Pay Regular Attorney Fees; Landlord Case to Be Tried in Fall.

"Though poverty is indisputably a great factor in domestic unhappiness and disaster, young people who really care for each other often need only a few words of understanding advice to adjust them sturdily to present trying conditions—and to keep the marriage going.

"In fully one-third of the domestic relations problems brought to us since we were organized—and domestic relations difficulties are second to the top of our list—we have found that the kindly word of adjustment was all that was needed. The young people were restored to a basis of mutual cooperation and their case never got to court."

The speaker was Miss Beatrice Clephane, director of Washington's Legal Aid Bureau, 1418 I street northwest, organized less than a year ago. Miss Clephane, in company with a dozen outstanding younger lawyers in Washington, is giving time voluntarily and without pay to "afford legal rights and remedies here in the Nation's Capital to those who are unable to pay for the services of an attorney."

The bureau, while similar to those which have functioned in other cities for years—in some cases, as New York, for nearly 30 years—is unique in that, so far as is known, it is the only one in the country whose staff works without pay.

Started Ten Months Ago.

Organized here in October, 1932, it has already handled over 600 cases for needy people, most of these without cost to the client. Where clients demonstrate a willingness or an ability to pay, the case is referred to the bureau's "reference list" of attorneys, 20 to 30 in number—lawyers who pledge themselves to provide the best legal service in their power at a fee commensurate with the client's ability to pay.

"Debts and wage claims head the list of cases handled by the bureau. In times like these, it is not surprising," Miss Clephane remarked. "People become careless about paying small debts, and employes sometimes work for weeks with much of their pay withheld.

"Domestic relations matters, as I have said, come second; and landlord and tenant cases are third on the Legal Aid Bureau's list. Clients include both landlords and tenants.

"We are familiar with the hardships of the tenant who loses his position and with it his ability to provide shelter for his family. But we are likely to overlook the fact that the landlord has his side, too, in supporting his family from rents derived from his property. In many instances, the law would seem to provide him with less protection than it gives his tenant."

To Try Landlord Case.

During the fall term of court, the Legal Aid Bureau will try its first case in the District Court of Appeals, bearing upon the landlord and tenant question.

This case is expected to settle the question of whether or not a tenant holding over after foreclosure sale, is entitled to 30 days' written notice to quit the premises. Such a question has never been passed upon by this court, and the District Bar Association is said to be watching the case with interest.

Miss Clephane will tell you that the bureau was "brought into being by women," and will qualify the statement, smilingly, by adding, "That is, women finally assumed the burden of organizing our volunteer staff, after it became apparent that funds could not be secured for a salaried or self-sustaining bureau."

"Of course," she hastens to add, "we could not have done it without the 100 per cent cooperation of men. That we had from the beginning. Men recognized, and bespoke, the need for such a bureau here for years, but felt it could not be established without funds. So that's where the women stepped in."

Six Women on Staff.

Supported by Miss Edith Coulson, family welfare and recreation secretary of the District Council of Social Agencies, and an ardent advocate of the legal aid bureau type of service, Miss Clephane succeeded in the fall of 1932 in drafting a volunteer organization.

In October, 1932, the bureau was launched, under the auspices of the District Council of Social Agencies, in an office and with equipment provided by the council.

Six women and six men, all practicing attorneys and members of well-known Washington law firms, constitute the staff. Each contributes one hour each week to interviewing applicants for legal aid at the bureau. Thus, two lawyers may be found "on call" at bureau headquarters each week day between 2 and 4 p. m., and on Saturdays from 10 to 12 a. m.

Cases brought to their attention in this way become their respective cases, and are afterward followed up by them and handled in the same manner as their regular practice.

Women attorneys on the staff are Mrs. Elizabeth Cox, Miss Helen Prentiss, Miss Marie McCathran, Mrs. Pearl Klein, Miss Catherine Reaney, and Miss Clephane.

Attorneys James Hogan, Julian L. Latimer, jr., Harryman Dorsey, Allan Fisher, James Ernest and Jack Price complete the list.

Senior members of the legal profession in Washington lend support to the bureau by means of an advisory committee of 16 members—which lists the names of some of the most prominent lawyers in the city—and of which Dean Hill Stanley is chairman.

King Carol, Flu Victim, Stricken by Measles

Bucharest, Aug. 18 (AP).—King Carol, already suffering from an attack of the flu, has contracted the measles, apparently from close contact with his son, the Crown Prince Michael, who has been a measles patient several days.

Physicians issued a bulletin saying that the king's condition was generally good. He was running a temperature of 101 degrees.

Dowager Queen Marie returned today from her northern trip.

Culbertson's Bridge

776.

Partnership Bidding.

PARTNERSHIP bidding is unquestionably one of the most difficult phases of the game of Bridge. It is difficult even when the partnership holds the strong hands, because there is ever the question of finding the best fit and deciding whether to bid for a game or Slam, and it is doubly difficult when the partners hold a bunch of rags and are fighting with all their power to prevent opponents from realizing to the full on the values they jointly hold.

In a recent Rubber game at Crockford's Club, New York, Mr. Oswald Jacoby, who is known throughout the country for his ingenious tactics both as an attacking and defending player, held the South hand below:

East, Dealer.
East and West vulnerable.

North:
♠ 8 5 4
♡ Q 7 6 5 4
◇ K 10 7 6 4

West:
♠ K 7 6 3
♡ 10 2
◇ A Q J 3 2
♣ Q 8

East:
♠ A Q J 10 2
♡ A K J 9
◇ 8 5
♣ A K

South:
♠ 9
♡ 8 3
◇ 9
♣ J 10 9 7 6 5 4 3 2

The bidding: (Figures after bids refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

| East | South | West | North |
|---|---|---|---|
| 2♠ | 3NT(1) | Dbl.(2) | 4♡(3) |
| Dbl. | 5♣(4) | Dbl. | 5◇(5) |
| Pass(6) | Pass(7) | 6♠(8) | Pass |
| Pass | Pass | | |

1—Of course, Mr. Jacoby's escape suit is clubs. If he can be doubled early enough, the saving against a possible Slam contract by his opponents is very considerable.
2—This comes as a matter of course.
3—North should have permitted Mr. Jacoby to work out his own salvation. He must have realized that South must hold a freakish hand with a comparatively safe landing place if undisturbed.
4—Mr. Jacoby now shows his escape.
5—Again North should remain silent.
6—This is a Forcing Pass, requiring West to either bid the Slam or double the diamond contract.
7—Mr. Jacoby gives up.
8—With magnificent spade support and his diamond holding, which includes the Ace, West's Slam bid is quite obvious. It will be noticed that if South had been permitted to play the contract at five clubs, he would have lost a total of six tricks—two hearts, one spade, one diamond and two clubs. The penalty of 700 points thus accepted would have been infinitely preferable to the making of a vulnerable Small Slam by East and West.

Fall Upholstery and Drapery Fabrics Go in for New, Interesting Textures

Directed by Amos Parrish.

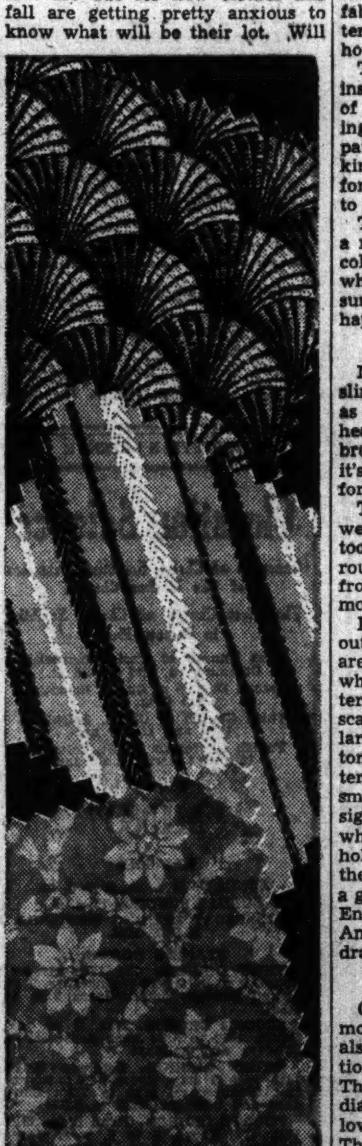
Chairs and sofas and windows that are due for new clothes this fall are getting pretty anxious to know what will be their lot. Will their owners realize how fashionable those interesting textured fabrics are? Will they pick patterns that let visitors see that the house is living in 1933?



Those heavy ribbed effects, for instance. They belong to the family of fabrics that have such interesting textures that they need no other patterns. And they come in all kinds of materials, formal and informal, from silk and rayon repps to sturdy homespuns.

The fabric shown at top right is a ribbed rep in three gradations of color, flecked here and there with white. Lounge pieces or a maple sunroom set would wear that very happily.

Diagonals New.

Maybe a fat chair would like to slim itself with a diagonal rib such as the one at left center. That's heavy linen with diagonals embroidered in several colors. And it's suitable for either formal or informal period furniture.

Then honeycombs and basket weaves make interesting fabrics, too. Herringbones, chevrons and rough tweeds have been borrowed from men's suitings to make still more variety.

Patterns haven't been crowded out, however. For of course there are plenty of decorative schemes which need them. The newer patterns are designed on a smaller scale, as a rule, and spaced regularly. The one at lower left, a cotton damask, illustrates such a pattern, though the sketch shows it smaller than it really is. The design shows the classical influence, which you'll find in many new upholstery fabrics. This material or the one at the lower right would be a good choice for eighteenth century English, French empire or Federal American furniture, or for the draperies in rooms of those periods.

Geometry at Home.

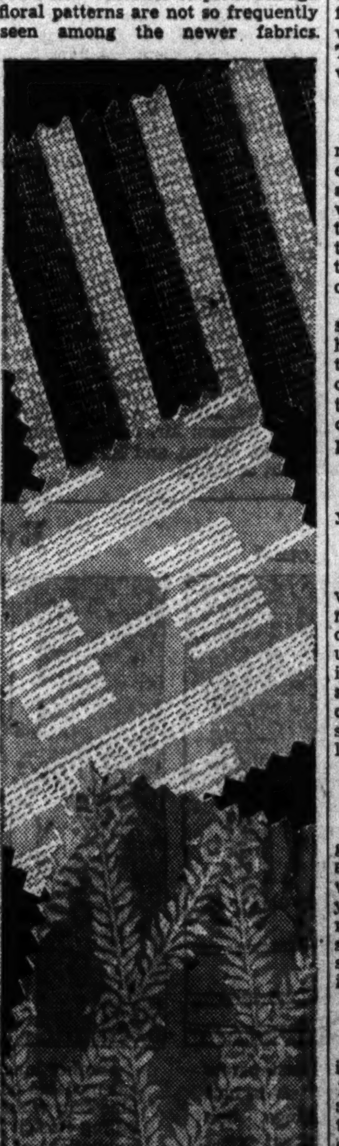
Geometrics—plaids, stripes, diamonds, and shell-like scallops—will also satisfy the fashionable ambitions of many chairs and windows. The fabric at lower right shows a diamond design, and the one at lower left outlines a shell design. Though the top left swatch is more obviously a shell pattern of course. If you like to see flowers sprinkled over your rooms, you'll find some new varieties to pick. Though floral patterns are not so frequently seen among the newer fabrics.



When they do appear, they are apt to be in finely drawn designs and fern-like scrolls. If large, they are widely scattered over the fabric. The smaller ones are interlaced with vines and foliage.

Plenty of Smart Materials.

We've mentioned silk and rayon repps. These, with damasks, printed linens and chintzes, homespuns and tapestries, are still the fabrics which women most like to see in their houses. Though recently they've discovered that corduroys, terry weaves and basket weaves can achieve some slick effects.

Lately, too, mohair has had a showing * * * not just for upholstery, but for thin glass curtains too. The fabric shown at right center is an example of a glass curtain, though of course the drawing cannot show its attractive transparency.

Dieticians Offer Drink.

A refreshing drink, originally developed by hospital dieticians, is made of equal parts of cocoa and decaffeinated coffee. Or you can use chocolate in place of cocoa. It is nourishing as well as refreshing, and will appeal to those who decline iced coffee on grounds of sleeplessness induced, or overstimulation.

Sport Togs Worn.

Sports clothes stoutly refuse to give way to the suggestion of autumn already unfurling in shop windows. One of Washington's young matrons looked charming one recent morning in a red and white striped cotton dress, red and white sports shoes, and with a red ribbon in her yellow hair.

Serve Tomatoes This Way.

Tomatoes sliced in three-quarter-inch disks, seasoned with salt and pepper, dotted with butter and sprinkled lightly with either buttered bread crumbs or grated cheese, make a delicious complement to a grilled steak and French fried potatoes.

Quaint Tavern Near Capital Holds Interest

Downtown Tearoom Serves Sandwich-Salad Plate as New Feature.

By Ruth Anne Davis.

A flagstone path, a tall poplar tree and an old statue of a Normandy fisher boy. A green, sloping lawn, a row of evergreens and a terrace. A low-swung gray stone house, with bright green wooden shutters. And a breeze. And what a breeze! There had been no trace of it in town, only 25 minutes away, but here it was cutting mad capers.

The guest sat at an inside table and looked around the long, high-raftered room. Seventeenth century sconces on either side of cave-like fireplaces threw eerie shadows against the walls. Candles in old French wine bottles, half concealed by wax drippings, softly illuminated the room, and were reflected in the shining copper and brass utensils which adorned the hearth and thoroughly established the provincial atmosphere. Bunches of dried onions, peppers, corn and garlic hung from the huge oaken beams in true peasant fashion. Linen curtains in red, yellow and green plaids draped the windows and fluttered in the ever-pervading breeze. Interesting antiques, a tavern table, well over 300 years old, seventeenth century chairs, cupboards, prints, were scattered around the room, here and there.

Across one of the beams ran a French motto, meaning, "Tell me what you eat and I will tell you what you are." The guest defied it. She ordered cream of tomato soup, which came with crisp toast squares swimming around in it; filet mignon 3 inches thick, French fried onions, corn and lima beans, topped with lime ice. A French salad, of watercress, carrots, cucumbers and radishes. And last but not least, frozen strawberry shortcake.

A little waitress in Norman peasant dress passed hot biscuits, popovers, spiced blueberry preserves, grape jelly and an assortment of relishes. Tom, an aristocratic black cat with a pedigree of sorts, strolled leisurely around the room and picked his favorites from among the assembled guests.

When you can't decide whether you want a salad or sandwich for luncheon, let a downtown tearoom located in the heart of the shopping district settle your problem with a tempting sandwich salad plate. It consists of two slices of bread, quartered and well buttered. On one piece is baked ham and egg, on another lettuce and tomato. The other two hide under liberal helpings of deviled egg and cole slaw. Arranged in decorative fashion between the slices are lettuce leaves, tomatoes and hard-boiled egg. This plate, together with a beverage, is 25 cents. Incidentally, the luncheons vary from day to day. On Friday the sandwich salads include tuna, sardines, &c.

It's very nice to travel and leave the "same old things" behind, but some of us can't do that. $or $ery $xcellent $easons! Frequently budgetish! Then it's up to us to browse around this interesting city of ours and find the places that offer a change of atmosphere, and something different in diet.

The next time you're walking down G street and pass a doorway draped with coarse net striped in many colors, enter then and there. You'll find yourself in a large room with golden walls, high arches, white clothed tables and colorful chair covers.

Upstairs is an Italian village. Stone dwellings, a church, and even a jail line the walls. Several dollish signorines stand on a balcony awaiting the serenader. Sometimes he comes and plays on the piano there by the wall and people dance in the open space which might be called the town square. Each little house is a booth, with square tables and long benches. There in the distance is a scene of Naples, with Vesuvius throwing off a red glare against the deep blue sky. The little village is open for party engagements.

The manager suggests a choice menu consisting of chicken in the Italian hunter's style. Accompanied with spaghetti or ravioli, the meal is continental enough for the veriest cosmopolite.

Spinach is up to queer antics. It's tried in every way to break into smart circles and win what dieticians call a deserved popularity, but, so far, spinach is spinach to most people. However, it's parading in a new guise now. You might give it another try.

Recipe for Spinach Ring.

2¼ cups cooked spinach, chopped; 1 teaspoon salt; dash of pepper; dash of marjoram; 1 teaspoon scraped onion; 2 eggs slightly beaten; 2 tablespoons melted butter.

Cook spinach (½ peck) only until tender. Drain and chop. Add seasonings, eggs, butter, and mix very thoroughly. Turn into a well-greased ring mold. Place in pan of hot water and bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) 30 minutes, or until firm. Turn from mold and serve with mushroom sauce. Individual molds may be used. Serves 4.

Peaches and Cream Blend With Tapioca

Peaches are plentiful and the quality is excellent. They may be served in many ways other than the simple recipe which calls for slicing and serving them with cream and sugar.

Virtually every one is familiar with peach pie, and peach cobbler is no stranger in many homes.

If these recipes for serving peaches become stale from overuse, you may try a tapioca combination, including peaches and whipped cream.

The recipe is:

One-third cup quick cooking tapioca; ½ cup sugar; ¼ teaspoon salt; 1 quart milk, scalded; 1 egg yolk, slightly beaten; 1 teaspoon flavoring; 1 egg white, stiffly beaten.

Add tapioca, sugar and salt to milk, and cook in double boiler 15 minutes, or until tapioca is clear, stirring frequently. Pour small amount of tapioca mixture off egg yolk, stirring vigorously. Return to double boiler and cook until thickened. Remove from fire and add flavoring. Fold in egg white. Chill. Fold whipped cream into tapioca and garnish with sliced peaches.

Tempting Dishes Are Easy To Prepare With Fresh Corn

By Ann Barrett.

From now on, it's going to be a favorite indoor and outdoor sport among most folks to eat their way 'round plump ears of green corn, dripping butter. But corn pancakes, corn pudding, corn fritters will have their innings, too. These dishes have such a hold on Americans that even when they're enjoying foreign food delicacies abroad, they get to yearning for them. I had a letter from authoress Anne Green (now living in Paris) just the other day, praising the glory of corn cakes and maple syrup.

To cook corn on the cob, there are three points. First get it fresh and young. Second, steam it or cook it in boiling water—without salt, for salt toughens it. Third, cook it briefly—12 minutes at the most, and much less if it's very fresh and young. (Long cooking toughens it.)

Corn Cakes.

For corn cakes, use your green corn raw (1 cup of it cut and scraped from cob). To this add 1 egg yolk (well beaten), ¼ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper and 2 tablespoons flour. Then fold in 1 egg white (beaten stiffly). Then melt 2 tablespoons fat in hot skillet. Drop the corn mixture into hot fat from spoon, and brown on both sides. Or bake the mixture on a hot gas or electric griddle as you would griddle cakes.

Corn Pudding Au Gratin.

As for corn pudding, if there's any way of making it better eating than it is, this way is to add a bit of cheese, as in the following recipe.

First melt 2 tablespoons butter in a pan, add 1 tablespoon flour and stir till blended. Then add 1 cup milk, and cook till thickened, stirring constantly. Next, add 1 teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, ½ tablespoon sugar, 2 eggs, well beaten, and 1 cup American cheese cut into thin slivers. Cook just till cheese is melted. Next add 2 cups fresh corn, cut and scraped from cob.

Turn mixture into greased baking dish and cover with ½ cup fine bread crumbs mixed with 3 tablespoons melted butter. Set in pan containing 1 inch hot water, and bake in 350 F. oven till firm. Serve right from the baking dish.

Corn Croquettes.

For corn croquettes (they're a change from corn fritters, and taste simply elegant with Maryland chicken) here's what to do:

Make a sauce as in above recipe, using 3 tablespoons butter, 3 tablespoons flour, 1 can milk and ½ cup thin cream. Add 2 cups corn cut and scraped from cob, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper. Then spread out on a platter to cool. Shape into croquettes. Roll these first in flour, then in beaten egg, then in crumbs. Fry in deep fat hot enough to brown cube of bread in 60 seconds.

Another cooking subject that's in the limelight right now is quick breads made with baking powder or soda. Nut bread, fruit breads, Johnny cake and so on. For my newest bulletin that gives 12 favorite recipes, send 6 cents in loose stamps (with self-addressed envelope and coupon below).

Bad Company Driven Away By Kindness

Undesirable Companions of Son Lose Allure When Invited to Home.

By Alice Clarissa Richmond.

Thomas, of high school age, had picked up in school a group of friends of whom his family disapproved.

From his parents' vantage ground of longer and wider experience of life they could see that the environment and background of these boon companions could not be congenial to Thomas and that continued association with them might in the end result in harm to him.

Criticism of his friends aroused a blind loyalty in the boy that drove him toward them. Orders to stop going about with them only made him play with them in secret. In desperation his parents decided on an extreme move.

They invited the whole "gang" to the house, received them with great cordiality, offered them the kind of refreshments best suited to a boy's tastes and in every way showed them the courtesy and consideration that they would have shown their most favored guests.

The invitation was repeated and Thomas' friends were assured of a welcome at any time.

But the cure worked. The charm of the forbidden was gone, as was also the adventure of secret meetings, and seen in the every-day atmosphere of his own home the heroes of school and street life looked very commonplace and a little shoddy.

Nor did the guests themselves care for a continuance of the parties, which necessarily bored them. The acquaintance so rapidly ripening into friendship soon died from sheer inanition.

In itself the experience was of value to Thomas. His life was broadened by a glimpse of a way of life quite foreign to his own, and by the consciousness of his own ability to meet and cope with it. He went back into his own circle with a new feeling of self-confidence, the lack of which in the first place had been one of the factors that had caused him to pick his undesirable playmates.

To Fit Draw Curtains.

Do you have trouble making your draw curtains fit the dimensions of your doors or windows? A simple and effective way of obtaining the glove-like fit is to first put up the rods. Then hem what is to be the top side of the curtain. Slip it on the top rod. Now, pin the bottom edge of the curtain on the bottom rod, using plenty of pins. Draw the curtain firmly and evenly. The effect will be just right.

Lacquered Hat Is Worn.

The lacquered satin hat has made its debut in Washington. The one seen, on the head of the wife of a diplomat, was plain brown. It was worn, most effectively, with a dress of brown and white in criss-cross design.

Nectarines Among Wide Range of Fruit and Vegetables Awaiting Shoppers; Spinach More Plentiful; Beef Cuts Sell at Low Prices.

A wide variety of inexpensive vegetables, fruits and meats is available for the week-end food shopper.

Squash, tomatoes and peppers are selling at very low prices. Tomatoes generally retail at 5 cents a pound. First quality peppers may be purchased for 1 cent each.

Peaches, cantaloupes and watermelons also are plentiful. Peaches cost more than last year, but the quality is very good. Cantaloupes and watermelons are very inexpensive. Some of the best cantaloupes ever to reach this market sell at less than 10 cents each.

Nectarines, a delightful fruit which combines the qualities of both peaches and plums, are coming in from California now. These are not recommended because of price. Quality is what counts with this fruit.

Grapes More Plentiful.

Thompson seedless grapes from California are more plentiful. Cauliflower from Colorado and Washington State is excellent, but the price is higher than it will be within a few weeks.

The old favorites, corn-on-the-cob and lima beans, continue as inexpensive additions to the menu. Not only are they cheap, but they have a high nutritive value as well.

The relatively cooler weather of the past two weeks has increased the production of spinach. Good quality spinach was very scarce for several weeks. But many stores and shops will be selling this vegetable today. It is advisable to shop early because the supply may not last throughout the day.

Among the best buys in the meat line this week-end are prime ribs of beef and chuck roast of beef. These cuts are selling in many shops at 19 cents and 13 cents a pound, respectively.

Cheaper Cuts More Nourishing.

Although the prime ribs of beef sells for more money, it has less nutritive value per pound than the less expensive meat. This is true in the case of most beef cuts. It is a good thing to remember.

Special sales are being held on bologna in many stores. This usually sells for about 25 cents a pound, but is being quoted for today as low as 19 cents.

Some good hams are available at 15 cents a pound, although the general run of this meat is considerably higher. A few shops are offering genuine country-cured hams at double this price or more. The situation gives the shopper a wide range of ham to choose from.

Chip beef is proving a popular breakfast dish this summer. It is relatively inexpensive. Remember it should not be parboiled before cooking if one is to retain the full flavor of the beef.

Retail Food Prices.

Eggs—Government inspected, 29 to 30 cents; extras, 25 to 27 cents; loose mediums, 23 cents.
Butter—Prints, 29 to 31 cents; tub, 25 to 27 cents.
Poultry—Broilers, 25 to 30 cents; fryers, 25 to 30 cents per lb.; spring baking chickens, 28 to 33 cents per lb.; heavy hens 22 to 25 cents per lb.; medium hens, 23 to 25 cents per lb.; light hens, 19 to 21 cents per lb.
Potatoes, 3½ to 4½ cents per lb.
Peaches, 15 cents per 2½-lb. basket.
Cantaloupes, 5 to 8 cents each.
Corn, 15 cents for six ears.
Peas (California), 8 to 9 cents per lb.

New Recipe for Eggplant Wins Weekly Prize

Miss Viola Krueger Uses Combination of Simple Ingredients to Win.

A pleasing way to vary the usual menus in one's household is by using the less known vegetables such as broccoli, endive, and last but not least, the humble eggplant which abounds in possibilities.

At this season of the year when eggplant is plentiful, a new and tempting way to prepare it should be greeted with joy by housewives.

The Food Editor of The Washington Post takes pleasure in presenting such a recipe this morning as its prize winner.

Miss Viola Krueger, of 9 Cleveland avenue, Takoma Park, D. C., is the winner of the $5 awarded weekly by The Washington Post for the best recipe for the week.

Miss Krueger's recipe is as follow:

Queens Taste Eggplant.

1 large eggplant
1 cup mushrooms
1 cup minced ham
1-3 teaspoon salt
1-3 cup chopped onion
4 tablespoons bacon fat
1-3 cup chopped celery
¼ teaspoon pepper

Wash and cut the eggplant in half lengthwise, scoop out meat to within half an inch of outer skin. Peel and chop the mushrooms, chop the eggplant coarsely. Combine the eggplant, onion, celery and mushrooms and saute in the bacon fat 10 minutes. Then add ham and seasoning, and fill the eggplant shell. Cover top with buttered crumbs and bake in a hot oven until the top is nicely browned.

Moon Madness.

By Katherine W. Smith.

When the moon, pearl-pale and dreaming,
Lies within the night's dark casket,
And diamonds of a lesser gleaming
Cluster near her, do not ask it

Of me to be as purely proud
As she. She does not even veil
Her face, but lets her bold light cloud
The world with madness. When the frail

Shy mists of morning slowly pass
Between the sky's sweet light and me,
And dews of dawn lie on the grass,
I will regain my sanity

Old Ironsides Model To End Visit in City

Old Ironsides will sail out of the White House today on the 121st anniversary of the famous battle with the Guerriere.

The Old Ironsides which will leave the Executive Mansion is a model of the great fighting ship. It was made by Theodore Morales, Chicago wood-carver, who brought it to Washington for President Roosevelt's inspection.

By coincidence it is leaving the White House on the anniversary of the Constitution's capture of the British warship Guerriere in the War of 1812. The model works in all details and will be exhibited to school children of the Nation by its maker.

Students Well on Way On Long Canoe Voyage

Cambridge, Mass., Aug. 18 (AP). Charles L. Knight, jr., and Harold B. Putnam, jr., are intent on getting plenty of canoeing done before they begin scholastic duties next month at Harvard and Massachusetts Institute of Technology, respectively.

They arrived yesterday after a trip in their little craft from Burlington, Vt., and today, in the same canoe, they set out for New York.

Moving Made Easy.

When the moving man arrives with his van, have your furniture crated or bundled anyway you like, but—have each piece tagged with a shipping tag, and each tag inscribed with the exact location in which it is to be placed in your new home. Provide the mover's man with a diagram of your new home, and, in due time, follow him there. One woman tried this plan recently. When she arrived, she found each article of furniture, down to books, pictures and lamps, in the exact room, and in the approximate position, which she desired.

Organdie for Evening.

Designed with a semifitted waist line, a full lower skirt and with a frilled ruche over the shoulders, a white organdie evening gown, embroidered in floral design with black thread, caused many heads to turn in the wake of its black-haired wearer, recently, when she appeared at a social function in Paris.

Corn Belt Relief.

Secretary Wallace announces an ingenious plan to boost the price of hogs for the relief of corn belt farmers. Four million small hogs will be purchased at prices ranging from 6 to 9½ cents a pound, and 1,000,000 sows weighing at the minimum 275 pounds each will be bought at the market rate plus a bonus of $4 each. Purchases will be made on account of processors, who will prepare the pork and deliver it to the Federal Emergency Relief Administration for distribution to the needy. The cost of the operation will be met by levying a processing tax on hogs and hog products which it is estimated will yield $55,000,000. In anticipation of collection of this tax the Secretary of Agriculture may call upon the Treasury for immediate funds, as authorized by the agricultural administration act.

This operation is expected to lift from the market from 600,000,000 to 700,000,000 pounds of live pork, or about 15 or 16 per cent. The reduction of supply is expected to raise hog prices from 25 to 30 per cent. It is hoped to complete the plan by October 1. The prime consideration of the program, according to Secretary Wallace, is "to bolster the purchasing power of the corn belt."

No one can doubt that a cash offer for 5,000,000 hogs at a price above the market rate, together with a liberal bonus, is likely to increase the general price for the time being. The question is whether it will not so encourage hog raisers that they will immediately increase their corn acreage and breed hogs to the limit of their ability, thus creating an enormous surplus next year of both corn and hogs. Secretary Wallace frankly admits that this program can be "really dangerous" unless it can be followed immediately by a program calling for a substantial reduction in corn acreage and a material decrease in hog production next year. "The after-effects otherwise," says Mr. Wallace, "would be disastrous to hog prices during the 1934-35 season and for some time thereafter. An artificial increase in hog prices, unless accompanied by a substantial advance in corn prices, would probably lead to an expansion of the 1934 spring pig crop."

Apparently the Secretary of Agriculture has not worked out his plans for obtaining definite assurances of reduction of next year's corn acreage and pig production. He seems to have decided to apply the emergency remedy without first making sure that the antidote against overstimulation shall be ready. Long-range aid to the corn belt requires that it shall not be given temporary relief, only to be subjected to prostration next year.

The Price of Wheat.

The experience of the Chicago Board of Trade in fixing a minimum price for wheat illustrates once more the difficulties of maintaining artificial prices. The board could prevent sales below the minimum figure, but it could not induce buyers to take wheat for more than they thought it was worth. Of what value is a fixed price if farmers can not dispose of their wheat at that price?

As the time for elimination of the bottom price drew near the wheat market was stagnant. Apparently the fixing of a minimum price had an adverse effect upon the psychology of the buyers. Every one seemed to fear that prices would fall as soon as the restrictions were lifted. Those fears were confirmed on Wednesday. But when the market was free again buyers came in and pushed the price up on Thursday. It appears that the very idea of a minimum price turned the market sluggish.

France is having a much more distressing experience with wheat price fixing. Before Parliament recessed it fixed the price of wheat at 115 francs a quintal (about $1.72 per bushel at the current rate of exchange), with the view of aiding French farmers. But France has a bounteous crop this year, and some of last year's wheat has not been disposed of. Consequently, buyers are not taking wheat in France, except for local needs. There is almost no market for the crop now being harvested, and some of the farmers of the grain sections are in distress. They can not sell their wheat for less than $1.72 per bushel. Hence, they must keep it or dispose of it through barter.

Prices that are out of line with the forces of supply and demand usually have a deadening effect upon the market. The Government or the Board of Trade can fix prices, but they can not make the public buy. Traders were aware of the fact that wheat prices rose about 150 per cent between March 3 and July 17. They realized that in spite of the extremely short crop in the United States this year, this country still has a large carry-over of wheat, and crops in Europe and Asia promise to be considerably larger than normal. Under these circumstances few were anxious to purchase wheat when a minimum price was fixed. The upturn on Thursday, however, does not suggest a collapse in grain prices if the forces of supply and demand are allowed to operate.

Tennessee Valley Program.

The broad scope of the project undertaken by the Tennessee Valley Authority was recently restated in a broadcast by the chairman in charge of the development, Dr. Arthur E. Morgan. Muscle Shoals, the doctor explains, may make possible the carrying out of one of the President's policies—that of providing a publicly owned and operated power system as a yardstick by which to measure the relative economy and efficiency of public and private ownership and operation. Another public interest enumerated is the provision of cheap fertilizer, but Dr. Morgan says that at prevailing prices the cost of fertilizer so nearly balances the increased value of crops that southern agriculture is still in a precarious condition.

The present nitrate plants at Muscle Shoals have never been operated. Dr. Morgan holds them to be obsolete, but his organization is authorized to conduct research in fertilizers and their manufacture in quantity and to modernize the plants. However, while the production of power and fertilizer are prominent in public attention, Dr. Morgan says they are but incidents in the whole plans of the Tennessee Valley Authority, which aims at nothing less than the displacement of haphazard and chance development by a far-reaching program of social and economic planning, covering an area three-fourths as large as England. In this region millions of acres have been so washed and gullied, according to the doctor, that they have been abandoned by agriculture. The control of soil erosion and the development of permanent fertility are considered a vital emergency. Dr. Morgan estimates that the per capita economic wealth of the region is not more than one-tenth of that which could be developed by the virile population and the great natural resources, if these could be developed in accord with long-range social and economic planning. In carrying out such a program in the Tennessee Valley Dr. Morgan hopes that the principles and methods evolved can be applied on an even larger scale elsewhere.

Gold Ore Exports.

The recent ruling of the United States Treasury authorizing the exportation of gold amalgam, concentrates and precipitates is expected to maintain gold production and perhaps to stimulate gold mining, in this country. But it does not affect the thousands of individuals who have turned to placer mining during the last few years as a means of eking out a livelihood. Panned gold is usually free gold and can not be exported. The number of these amateur placer miners working in California alone is said to have reached 15,000. There were 12,000 at work last year and they produced nearly $500,000 worth of gold. This, however, cuts a small figure in the total American gold production of about $45,000,000.

Under the new export regulations it is probable that most of the gold ore from American mines will be sent to Canada. It is reported from Ottawa that United States and Alaskan mining companies are applying to the Department of Finance for permits to ship gold ore and concentrates into Canada for treatment, and a ruling from the Canadian government is expected at an early date. If this should be favorable, as is anticipated, the bulk of the American shipments doubtless would be handled by the smelting plants in northern Ontario and those of the Consolidated Mining & Smelting Co. of Canada. Refining in all probability would be done at the royal mint at Ottawa.

Our Liquor Supply.

It has been disclosed that the medicinal liquor in storage in this country totals only 11,000,000 gallons, and that under the law requiring whisky to be aged four years, not more than 4,500,000 gallons of this supply could be released next year. Due to the increased demand for prescription liquor since the passage of recent legislation removing the limitations on physicians' prescriptions, the Bureau of Industrial Alcohol has granted permits for the additional distillation of 7,000,000 gallons of whisky.

The licensed production of whisky for the last four years has been 2,000,000 gallons annually. The additional authorization of two and one half times the annual amount at this time must be considered as due to greatly enlarged drug store demand.

In view of the fact that the consumption of whisky in the United States reached 17,000,000 gallons in 1918 it would appear that the 4,500,000 gallons of pure stuff which can be taken out of bond next year will be less than a four months' supply. But this, of course, refers only to prescription liquor. Whisky in the purview of the law at present is not a beverage, but medicine, and its purity is guarded by Federal regulations. What the people drank before prohibition was rectified spirits. It will be something of a disillusionment to realize that much of the whisky after Christmas, if repeal predictions come true, will be prepared in the same manner as the best bootleggers prepare it today, by redistilling, cutting and combining; in other words, it will be rectified whisky, against which there will be no interdiction for beverage purposes, as there is now against its sale as prescription liquor.

Catering to the Tourist.

European countries are learning the secret of luring motor tourists within their borders. As a result considerable sums of money are being spent on highway improvements. The American Automobile Association reports that there is keen rivalry among various European countries in the construction of roads to attract American motorists.

People who travel by motor in the United States have become accustomed to good roads. Modern improved highways connect all important cities as a matter of course. In most States the principal arteries of motor travel are hard-surfaced. After being accustomed to these improvements, motorists are chary of rough and dusty highways, whether in this country or Europe.

Vacationing by motor is a favorite sport in the United States. Likewise many tourists who cross the Atlantic prefer to drive their cars in Europe. Countries with poor roads find that they are neglected by these travelers. Hence, a widespread effort is being made to improve highways and hotel accommodations and to eliminate much of the red tape involved in crossing national boundary lines.

The A. A. A. estimates that American motorists spent $50,000,000 in Europe in 1931. The average party spends about four months abroad and covers nearly all of the larger countries. Expenditures of American motorists in Europe are small, however, when compared with the $2,750,000,000 estimated to have been spent by vacation motorists in the United States during 1931.

European countries have a long way to go before their highway facilities equal those of the United States. The Department of Commerce has estimated that all Europe has 2,453,160 miles of highway compared with 3,024,283 miles in this country. A larger percentage of the total road mileage in this country, however, is unimproved. Average expenditures on highway construction in this country in recent years amount to about $1,500,000,000 per annum. Argentina spends only about $6,000,000; Japan, $72,000,000; France, $40,000,000; Germany, $150,000,000; Russia, $75,000,000, and the United Kingdom, $90,000,000. No other country in the world is so responsive to the demands of the tourist as is the United States.

Cuba's Reconstruction.

Having ejected a dictator from the island and vented their fury upon those remaining who were considered his worst instruments of oppression, the Cuban people generally now face the much more tedious and less spectacular task of rehabilitation of the republic. Torn by political strife and suffering acutely from economic ills, largely caused by the extremely low price of sugar, the work of restoring more normal conditions for labor and capital must of necessity be slow.

The action of the leader of the revolt in declining executive honors was highly commendable, and it is to be hoped the same spirit will animate the entire Cuban army. It is natural that in the first enthusiasm there should be some relaxation of discipline, but this must not only be promptly corrected, but large savings must be made in military expenditures if Cuba is to recover a sound financial position.

National reconstruction is difficult under the best of circumstances and with the fullest cooperation between the people and the government. The greatest danger is that victorious patriots will be impatient for immediate results which can only be secured through hard work and the sacrifice of personal ambitions in many cases for the public good.

A prolonged debate in the Senate on the Monroe Doctrine is predicted for next winter. So there is to be no change, either in the Senate or the Doctrine.

Six months more, and the forest army should develop some lumberjack who can lick Carnera.

If wheat farmers will turn to corn, repeal will liquidate the overproduction problem.

A New Hope.

From the Cincinnati Enquirer.

New hope for the thousands of sufferers from cancer is held out as the result of the many notable advances which have been made during the year in cancer research.

The two most notable research advances of the year are:

The use of an anticancer serum for human beings, and the isolation and identification of a pure cancer-producing chemical from gasworks pitch.

Further research on these lines may prove of immense importance in bringing the war against cancer to a successful issue, but it is only possible now to hint at the value of this work.

The work of Dr. Thomas Lumsden, honorable director of the cancer research laboratory, London Hospital, may well rank as a beacon in our struggles against this disease.

For ten years he has been studying the mechanism of cancer resistance in animals and now at last its results have justified the application of an anticancer serum to human patients.

Dr. Lumsden can cure cancer in mice. Can he do the same for man?

Defining the present position, he states:

"Almost any cancer can, in its early stages, be safely removed or destroyed, but recurrence of the disease * * * is unfortunately still more common than cure. The induction of tumor immunity which prevents recurrence in animals is, therefore, what is preeminently desirable in human cases."

Until the present year this is briefly what Dr. Lumsden had discovered. In the blood of animals resistant to cancer there are antibodies poisonous to cancer cells of all sorts. Certain body cells in these animals become trained to produce another substance which damages the cancer so that it falls an easy prey to these antibodies.

After much patient labor an antiserum was found which, when injected into a rat suffering from cancer, destroyed the growth in certain conditions and caused the animal to be immune from any further recurrence of cancer.

Still using the euglobulin fraction of an anticancer serum derived from sheep, Dr. Lumsden has been treating 25 human cancer patients at the London Hospital and elsewhere.

In each case the disease has been so far advanced that neither radium nor surgery would be of any avail, and all the patients had volunteered to undergo the treatment.

The serum was injected either directly into the tumor or into the artery which nourishes it.

THAT MODIFIED BIRD.

("Modified Blue Eagle to be issued to merchants honestly unable to comply with all NRA rules."—News item.)

Sock me full in your swing
On the nose (or the ear);
Dog my trail, if you must, like a beagle;
I can stand anything
But the prospect, old dear,
Of a three-point-two modified eagle!

II.

Make me hew to the line,
Put me right on the spot—
Blow me down with new orders quite wordy;
I'll proclaim it all fine,
But I pray you will not
Put me down for a modified birdie.

III.

Make me do as I'm told,
Guide my brain and my arm—
(As I've danced I will pay for the piper)
On your plan I am sold,
But I'm filled with alarm
At the thought of a bird that's a "striper."

IV.

Make me jump through the hoop
And I'll utter no squawk;
You will find me no sullen dissenter;
But I weep in my soup
Thinking how folks will talk
If my eagle's no Hundred Percenter!

V.

Be as hard as you like—
For no quarter I'll ask;
I'll be loyal as Swope, Schwab or Teagle;
But I ask—love of Mike!—
That you'll spare me the task
Of explaining a bird that's Near-Eagle!

VI.

Be as gruff as you may
And as stern as you will—
Use the spear that they say knows no brother;
Check me up night and day,
But please spare me the pill
Of an Eagle that looks like no other!

VII.

Please consider, I crave,
When you're passing the bird
How you'd feel at a dinner, old chappie,
If the carver just gave
You the neck—oh, my word!—
And expected 'twould make you quite happy!

WHY "AMEN" IS USED.

The word "amen" is probably one of the oldest words in our lexicon, according to the Kansas City Times, harking back even further than the Biblical era to the days when Sanskrit was a spoken language.

Directly, however, we get the word from the Hebrew, which took it bodily from the Sanskrit or the Greek, which derives it from Sanskrit, and with its identical meaning.

Because the word signified "truth" the Hebrews used it at the end of prayers as an affirmation of the truth of what was said.

This usage has prevailed to this very day in prayers of all denominations; but the word "amen" has taken on the added meaning of "So may it be," "So be it."

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Red-Headed Daughter

By Robert Quillen.

MY DEAR LOUISE: Some days ago I saw on your dresser a list of somebody's health rules clipped from a magazine, and I hasten to assure you that such things are poison.

Though regiments of specialists would call it heresy, there is but one sound and sensible rule of health, to-wit: Forget it.

Good health is natural equipment. Given any chance at all, it preserves itself. Just as your heart continues to beat without instruction from you, so your health automatically maintains itself if let alone.

The ordinary health rituals are pure boloney. Brushing your teeth doesn't preserve them. Taking a daily bath doesn't improve your health. Your dentist and your doctor will tell you that people with unbrushed teeth and unwashed hides are as sound as any others.

You brush and wash because you wish to feel clean. That is your reward. And so long as you remain in the pink of health, your teeth and gums and hair and complexion will share your fitness without any doctoring.

You are an animal, and animals stay healthy without tinkering if they get enough food and a normal environment.

They also stay healthy without more exercise than is required to get their living. If you exercise as much as your primitive ancestors did to collect their daily rations, you will have no worries on that score.

I want you to be strong and well all your life, and the one sure way to achieve that end, since you are normal now, is to let nature alone.

People begin each day with a new opportunity to enjoy good health, and then deliberately do one foolish thing after another to injure themselves.

If you don't feel well, it is because you have done something stupid.

If you will do all things in moderation, and eat and drink and sleep as sensibly as the wild creatures do, you will need no other ritual.

Nature and a normal childhood gave you a good foundation. Preserve it by doing nothing silly, keeping your mind free of anxiety and avoiding health fads as you would a pestilence. Love, DAD.

Comment of the Press

Liquor Regulation.

Philadelphia Public Ledger.

The stand taken by the New York Association of Brewers against the return of the old-time saloon and in favor of separating the sale of beer and that of stronger liquors suggests only one of the many new problems of regulation which will confront all the States after National prohibition repeal, now virtually assured by the end of the year.

Private enterprise in the form of a commission financed by John D. Rockefeller, jr., and assigned to investigate the various systems of liquor control in other countries, may supply some of the official deficiencies. Before National prohibition, liquor regulation in most of the States was notoriously inefficient and behind the times. Its reform will be more difficult here than in Canada, Sweden or England because Congress has no authority under the new amendment to establish a National system, and there will be as many separate systems as there are States.

Congress may experiment with the District of Columbia. But if the States continue to ignore their rapidly approaching responsibility they will lay up a heavy store of trouble for themselves.

Financing Education.

Philadelphia Public Ledger.

The convergence of school teachers and college presidents on Washington with plans for Federal help in education as a part of the recovery movement is not surprising. The idea appears to have originated at Columbia, which supplied a number of members of the famous "Brain Trust." With old friends at court, the New Yorkers and their cohorts would naturally expect to receive at least a friendly hearing.

The gist of the plan is that new school buildings and renovation of old ones should be included in the public works program. Its backers point out that such help would lighten the load on the local taxpayers and enable the school boards to spend more of their money on school teachers' salaries. It is highly questionable whether school construction could or should come under the liberal public works designation. The chief point about it is that the educators are reaching out toward the Federal funds going into the recovery program. It is a natural gesture, but it should be recognized for what it is.

Dictator's Discord.

Boston Transcript.

Apparently all the rumbles down in Cuba are not coming from tubas.

Shot in the Arm.

Chicago News.

The United States needs a new stimulant, according to a Canadian economist. Just wait until the prohibition amendment is repealed.

Eagle and Stork.

Boston Herald.

The birth rate is lagging, to be sure, but maybe if the Blue Eagle does his part there'll be a chance for the stork again a little later.

Just Folks.

By Edgar A. Guest.

Lines for Doubters.

I write these lines for doubting men;
Of self-timidity beware.
One never knows the moment when
A flash of pluck will banish care.
Hold fast and give no heed to fear;
Battle the stream until you sink;
Failure is never quite so near
As frightened people seem to think.

If now disaster sweeps away
The little grain you thought to hold,
While still in health and strength you stay,
Your history's only partly told.
There still are new goals to gain;
'Tis only those who cease to strive
For whom no future hopes remain.
Don't die while you are yet alive.

Grieve if you must a little while
O'er what has happened, but return
Head high and brave and with a smile
The lesson of your loss to learn.
Forget the past and face today
With courage and with mind alert.
Who comes a victor from the fray
Remembers not that he was hurt.

Give not your thoughts to bleak despair.
Let failure never hold you down.
Out of the fearful swamps of care
Strong men have struggled to renown.
What if the future dark appears?
Fight to the last and don't give in;
Before you lies another year
And somewhere is your chance to win.

Along the Potomac

With

Carlisle Bargeron

ONE of the bitterest pills of the NRA is the passage of the early morning milkman. Yes, sir; he has gone, that grand old American institution, that grand old man of song and rhyme. At least, so I have been informed upon inquiry as to whether or not I had gone crazy when at last midnight I met him on his rounds.

Bargeron.

To keep within the code, according to my information, the milkman will henceforth make his rounds, not of early mornings, as the sun is coming over the trees and the drunks are falling in, but of midnight along with the theater crowds.

It is too much.

* * * *

ONE by one the attributes of our civilization are being slowly taken from us. The old seagoing hack with the befrocked colored driver high on the front seat and the gay revelers low in back has long since gone the way of improvements of the steady concentration and intensification of our lives. We are undoubtedly to be improved upon until we die—will probably die from improvements, in fact.

The horse drawn fire engine which sent the spirits of men soaring high unto the skies has been supplanted by machines which make a lot of noise and move at turtle's pace, with not a thrill in a conflagration cavalcade of them. Oh, those things which we have had to abandon, those many joys of the days agone, simply make one's heart ache, and to attempt to enumerate them is to get down in the mouth.

And now the fiendishness which underlies the NRA has taken the early morning milkman.

* * * *

IT is to take him, too, at a time when his old associations are returning, when that old expression "I got home last night with the milkman" is on the way back.

We care nothing about the return of the saloon now. Not to go home to the clatter of horses' feet and the clinking of milk bottles as the vendor works a ziz-zag course from house to wagon to house, is to be denied half of the enjoyment of a carouse. Or not to be awakened by the symphony of feet, wheels and bottles after a restless night will leave a void not easily filled.

* * * *

There was something about the early milkman's rounds that gave them a definite place in American life. They symbolized the beginning of a new day, the awakening of industry after a night of darkened idleness. Soon now the stacks would begin to belch black smoke of the factories and then the scene would shift rapidly to the ringing of millions of alarm clocks and the millions of tumblings out of bed.

Somehow the coming of the milkman, with the slow rhythmic tread of his horse, usually trained to the route and the customer stops, was the signal that the world was still on its feet, that it had survived the night, that that end which the Bible describes had not yet come.

He was the inspiration and hope of the night worker, the first to greet him from the land of light. A code that does away with him, my friends, is no code with a heart.

* * * *

HE will become lost now, he will come to have no identity at all, in the movie, the theater and the opera crowds. He will just be a part of the great mob. The grind of the wagon wheels and the squeaks will be absorbed in the hawking of the first editions and against that bellow will not have a chance to be heard.

It is to laugh when we contemplate our dignitaries, our Charles Evans Hughes, our models of sedateness, going home with the milk man, the personage with whom we used to associate the drunks.

My guess is that it is an order that will not long obtain. We are a patient people and most tolerant of the NRA. But wait until Milady in fine opera frock stumbles over the milk bottle at the door.

Moon Rocket Would Be Self-Returning, Says Washington Scientist.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: A Washington man, engaged in scientific work for many years, wishes to reply to "Old Salt," who, in The Post of Monday, declares somebody would have to remain on the moon if Prof. W. A. Conrad's rocket should actually reach its destination.

He tells me that nobody would have to stay on the moon after the trip and that no rocket would need to be touched off for the return journey—that is, assuming that the technique of aerial navigation he would employ is the correct procedure. LINN A. E. GALE.

Correspondent Criticises Nepotism in Congress During NRA Era.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: We read and hear so much about the NRA these days. If one is to live and work according to the rules of the NRA the Federal Government should set the example by employing the unemployed.

This applies to the incoming Congress. Many members employ their wives, sons and daughters as secretaries, making it a family affair, and drawing two or three salaries in one family from the Federal Government.

Hog Reduction Plan Explained By Wallace

His Speech at Chicago Fair Urges Steps to Raise Prices for Swine.

Chicago, Aug. 18 (AP).—In an address today at the Century of Progress Exposition outlining the emergency program for government purchase of 5,000,000 swine, Secretary Wallace said in part:

"Hogs have been selling all summer for about one-half their fair exchange value or less than almost any other commodity. Farmers, packers, and commission men have all agreed to stand behind the following program:

"Buy from farmers enough pigs or light hogs and enough sows due to farrow this fall, so as to remove from the fall and winter markets from six hundred to seven hundred million pounds of live pork. The total reduction in tonnage for the 1933-34 marketing season, as a result of this emergency program, may amount to as much as 1,800,000,000 pounds of hogs live weight.

16 Per Cent of Tonnage.

"That total is about 16 per cent of the hog tonnage normally marketed. If past experience is any guide, a reduction of 15 or 16 per cent in market supplies should increase hog prices for the season by anywhere from 25 to 30 per cent. Prices paid for these pigs and sows will, I believe, be sufficient to warrant the cooperation of hog producers.

"The animals will be processed in the usual manner, but the edible portion will be kept out of the normal channels of trade. That will be available to relief agencies for consumption by families in need, and possibly to some extent for sale in the export market. The inedible portion will be so handled as not to interfere with the market for this type of product.

"To procure funds for the program, it will be necessary to levy a processing tax on hogs and hog products. At present market prices the tax would have to be sufficient to bring in about $55,000,000. A tax of considerably less than a cent a pound would accomplish this purpose, but it is impossible at this moment to state the figure with any exactness * * *.

Purchase From Farmers.

"In order to take this six or seven hundred million pounds off the market, it will be necessary to purchase from farmers about a million sows due to farrow, and about a million pigs or light hogs weighing from 25 to 100 pounds. The sows bought must have a minimum weight of 275 pounds.

"We shall expect to pay, for the sows, a bonus of $4 a head plus the market price of packing sows on the day marketed. For pigs and light hogs under 100 pounds it is intended to pay from 6 to 9½ cents a pound, the price being graduated according to weight, the higher price per pound for the lighter pigs.

"The purchase of these sows and pigs will be made by specified processors for the account of the Department of Agriculture. We shall contract with properly qualified processors for the purchase of an allotted portion of the total tonnage desired at the prices I have listed. The processors will slaughter and process the hogs, subject to examination by Federal inspectors, both before and after slaughter, on the usual cash basis.

Pay for Processors.

"The product will then be held in storage or disposed of for us by the processors as we may direct. Processors will be reimbursed for the cost of processing upon presentation of detailed, itemized statements, and upon the basis of per unit charges agreed upon in advance.

"The inedible products—grease and fertilizer—will be disposed of through the usual channels of trade at the best prices obtainable, and should be distributed in such a manner as not to upset the market.

"The edible products * * * will be disposed of primarily by relief agencies, and perhaps to some extent, in the export market. The Emergency Relief Administration has indicated its desire to dispose of the entire amount of meat resulting from the operation of this emergency program by distributing to needy persons. The meat for this purpose will be purchased at a price sufficient to defray the costs of processing, storage, and freight. It is important to note, furthermore, that meat so distributed by the emergency relief administration will not be permitted to come into competition with meat sold in the regular trade channels.

"There is the emergency program for the corn belt. It is necessary that it go into effect at once; I hope we can announce the inauguration of the program within a very few days. By October 1 the goal should be reached."

Home Loan Bank Staff In Louisiana Is Named

(Associated Press.)

The Federal Home Loan Bank board yesterday announced part of the set-up of the Home Owners Loan Corporation in Louisiana.

Waldo M. Pitkin, New Orleans, was named assistant State manager. J. C. Pierce, district manager for Baton Rouge district; Robert M. Breard, manager for the Monroe district, and Ben F. Roberts, manager of the Shreveport district. Managers for the Alexandria and Lake Charles districts have not yet been selected.

Pacific Fruit Price Accord Plans Drawn

(Associated Press.)

The proposed marketing agreement for tree fruits in the Pacific Northwest provides that minimum prices may be established for the different varieties of fruits on the condition two-thirds of the commodity committee for the industries agree.

Minimum prices, if approved, would be on F. O. B. sales. They would be effective unless disapproved by the Secretary of Agriculture.

Farm officials said yesterday that fruit growers would have adequate representation on the commodity committees to be formed under the terms of the proposed marketing agreement. In choosing these committees not less than one-half their membership will be comprised of producers.

Auction Committee.

Control of the quantity of fruit shipped to the various auction markets would be in the hands of an auction committee to stabilize these sales. In each of the various auction markets a local terminal committee would be expected to regulate the volume offered from day to day in accordance with the demand in each market.

The agreement also would authorize the establishment by the commodity committee of maximum brokerage charges for the various types of service rendered at both shipping points and terminal markets. A board of trustees would have supervision of operations under the agreement. It would decide all disputes, but the parties to the controversy would have the right of appeal to the Secretary of Agriculture.

Limitation of Trustees.

The board of trustees would not include more than one person "who is associated with, employed by, or the agent of any one firm, corporation, or association, including subsidiaries or affiliates of such firms, partnerships or corporation."

The agreement would require each shipper to furnish a complete report of sales and a special report in the case of sales which were not completed in accordance with the original contracts.

A formal hearing will be held at Portland on the agreement, August 23.

Higher Grade Bonds Fail to Prevent Loss

Secondary Liens Blamed for Decline; Sales Rise to $12,042,000.

New York, Aug. 18 (A.P.).—Prime investment issues displayed quiet strength in today's bond market transactions, but secondary liens generally drifted irregularly lower in sympathy with stocks and grains.

The various loan groups churned about in somewhat larger volume than yesterday, sales totaling $12,042,000. The average for 60 domestic corporate maturities was off one-tenth of a point at 80.8.

The inflationary psychology which lifted some of the low-priced favorites in the previous session apparently was not so prominent today and investment buying appeared for several of the so-called "best grade" offerings which recently have languished.

Rail gainers of fractions to about a point included some loans of Santa Fe, Canadian Pacific, Burlington, Chicago & Western Indiana, Great Northern, Hudson & Manhattan, Louisville & Nashville, Pennsylvania, Frisco, St. Louis Southwestern, Southern and Union Pacific. Losses of 1 to around 2 were suffered by some bonds of Baltimore & Ohio, St. Paul, Chicago & Northwestern, New York Central, Nickel Plate and Western Pacific.

Gains of a point or more were held by issues of Armour & Co., American Metal, Goodrich, Paramount Publix and Richfield Oil. Postal Telegraph 5s dropped 2 points and a number of other utilities and industrials sagged fractionally to around a point.

United States Government securities were quiet, but fairly firm. The majority of foreign obligations improved. Gains of 1 to 3 or more points were registered by bonds of Argentina, Denmark, Dutch East Indies, France, Roumania and Switzerland. There was a heavy turnover of British 5½s at a fractional loss.

Selling Defeats Stocks In Efforts to Advance

Profit Taking, Following Rapid Gains of Thursday, Blamed in Average Loss of 1.5 Points; Sales Total 2,086,700 Shares.

New York, Aug. 18 (AP).—A late selling wave of moderate proportions unsettled the stock market today, after a brisk initial jaunt, and the list closed down 1 to 2 or more points.

Trading in the share market, which was active at first, soon tapered off in the tedious manner which characterized most of the week's sessions. Volume amounted to 2,086,700 shares and the Associated Press-Standard Statistics average for 90 selected stocks declined 1.5 points.

Profit-taking obviously dominated the share and commodity markets following yesterday's gay rally. Selling increased as the day wore on, even though trading proceeded at a less active pace. The real setback in stocks came with the reversal in wheat.

Wall street talked a good deal about rumors of inflation, induced by Washington reports that this was the subject of conversation between certain members of Congress—admitted inflationists—and President Roosevelt. But there was no official hint that the administration had come to any new conclusions on the matter. The President's previous statement that he would use his inflationary powers only "when, as and if" needed, still remains the only authoritative pronouncement to guide Wall street discussion.

Business news continued to emphasize the importance of pressure being applied by the Government to expedite the filing of codes. Irrespective of the ultimate effect, the financial community expects that the discreet use of the big stick—in conformity with the recovery act's police powers—is bound to be productive in the near future.

In the share market, stocks showing losses of 1 to 2 or more points included Allied Chemical, American Commercial Alcohol, American Telephone, Bethlehem Steel, J. I. Case, Chesapeake & Ohio, Consolidated Gas, Dome Mining, Du Pont, Illinois Central, Johns Manville, New York Central, North American, Sears Roebuck, U. S. Steel, Union Pacific, Western Union and Woolworth.

Nations to Confer Monday on Wheat

London, Aug. 18 (AP).—The wheat conference of 31 nations, which will open here Monday, is expected to produce some definite conclusion before Prime Minister R. B. Bennett, of Canada, sails for home August 26. Mr. Bennett, representing one of the "Big Four" wheat-producing nations, probably will make the opening statement when the conference assembles.

The principal problem before the conferees concerns the cooperation of wheat-consuming nations. The "Big Four"—the other members of which are the United States, Australia and Argentina—have reached an understanding on methods of handling the normal world carry-over.

It is the contention of the "Big Four" that if exporting nations limit their exports, importing nations must be prepared to stimulate consumption by tariff reductions or other measures.

Production increased from 198,815,000 to 200,983,000 feet. Shipments declined from 207,336,000 to 194,949,000 feet.

Softwood orders were 70 per cent of production and hardwood orders were 9 per cent below production. Southern pine, Douglas fir, Western pine and Northern pine regions showed orders greatly below output, the fir region reporting 66,125,000 feet, or 32 per cent below production. Western pine orders were 35 per cent and Northern pine orders were 47 per cent below their output. Southern pine orders were 21 per cent below production.

Decline of Orders.

Unfilled orders declined to the equivalent of 20 days' average production of reporting mills, compared with 25 days' average output of a month before and 14 days a year ago. Softwood stocks increased slightly, but were 24 per cent below those of corresponding date of 1932.

All three factors of the lumber movement were above those of corresponding week of 1932; total production being 80 per cent above; total shipments, 50 per cent above; total orders, 7 per cent above the record of a year ago. For the first 32 weeks of 1933, production was 18 per cent above; shipments, 15 per cent above, and orders, 23 per cent above those reported for the corresponding period of 1932.

Forest products carloadings at 27,396 cars during the week ended August 5, 1933, were 13,143 cars above those of same week in 1932 and 38 cars above similar week of 1931.

Softwood Mill Output.

Lumber orders reported for the past week by 419 softwood mills totaled 125,823,000 feet, or 30 per cent below the production of the same mills. Shipments as reported for the same week were 169,098,000 feet, or 6 per cent below production. Production was 180,341,000 feet.

Reports from 245 hardwood mills give new business as 18,849,000 feet, or 9 per cent below production. Shipments as reported for the same week were 25,851,000 feet, or 25 per cent above production. Production was 20,642,000 feet.

The 517 identical mills (softwood and hardwood) report unfilled orders as 563,683,000 feet on August 12, 1933, or the equivalent of 20 days' average production, as compared with 410,038,000 feet, or the equivalent of 14 days' average production on similar date a year ago.

Initial Oil Gains On Curb Lost In Late Decline

Final Selling Flurry Results in Losses; Sales Cut to 305,000 Shares.

New York, Aug. 18 (AP).—A late break in grain prices initiated a moderate selling wave in the curb near the close today, but the flurry soon spent itself and the market finished irregularly lower.

Early advancing tendencies in oils were sidetracked and advances of around 2 in Gulf and Humble oil were virtually canceled. Alcohol shares proved vulnerable, easing 1 to 3 before recovering partially. Hiram Walker was off 1⅞ at the finish.

American Gas & Electric lost 2 while other leaders in the power group were resistant. Electric Bond & Share eased a fraction while Columbia Gas & Electric preferred improved as much. General Tire & Rubber lost 5 and Stutz 3, both in light trading. Moving against the trend were Babcock & Wheeler, which gained 6, and Celluloid Corporation, up 4 in nominal trading. Pan-American Airways was somewhat heavy. Transfers approximated 305,000 shares compared with 348,000 for Thursday.

Federal Bank Officials Get Hamilton Jobs

Seven Officers Are Selected for Posts on Staff of Institution.

By Thomas M. Cahill.

The official group of Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co. has been recognized to a notable extent by the organizers of the proposed Hamilton National Bank.

In the selection of ten officials thus far named for the prospective institution, seven to be chosen were from Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co., largest of the eight restricted institutions forming the Hamilton Bank.

Of these, five were vice presidents, one the comptroller and another the trust officer of the Federal-American organization. Wilmer J. Waller, who was vice president and cashier of the company, will be vice president and cashier of the new bank.

Harman to Join Hamilton.

Frank P. Harman, jr., who was a vice president in charge of the Fifteenth and H streets northwest branch of the company, to be abandoned in the Hamilton organization's banking house plan, will become Hamilton's assistant vice president.

L. E. Schreiner, J. L. Sherwood and Ernest Gerstenberg, who were vice presidents in charge of the three other branches of Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co., are to be retained as managers of these branches held to serve the Hamilton institution.

Arthur J. Linn, who was comptroller of the Federal-American Bank, and Erskine Gordon, who was its trust officer, have been announced as respective incumbents of these positions in the official list of the new bank.

Officers Previously Announced.

Other officers thus far announced for Hamilton National Bank are Edwin C. Graham, president National Electrical Supply Co., who will be its president, and Joshua Evans, jr., president and now conservator of District National Bank, named for a vice presidency.

George F. Hoover, first vice president of Northeast Savings Bank, will manage this component of the Hamilton Bank, which will become one of Hamilton's eight branches.

President Graham, of the Hamilton National Bank, also announced recently the retention of 25 of the employed personnel of Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co. for the work of the new institution.

A most commendable showing is revealed by Arlington Trust Co., Inc., Rosslyn, Va., in a statement of its financial condition as at close of business August 10. This progressive nearby institution showed total resources as of that date of $770,769.94.

Trust Company Statement.

These were divided as follows: loan and discounts, $429,446.85; bonds and securities owned, $104,843.36; banking house and lot, $61,163.43; other real estate owned, $38,176.29; furniture and fixtures, $9,100; cash items and exchange for next day's clearance, $336.45; all other items of resource, $432.75; cash and due from banks, $127,270.81.

Liabilities were apportioned as follows: capital stock paid in, $100,000; surplus and undivided profit, $65,420.96; deposits, $605,321.30; dividends unpaid, $27.68; bills payable, none.

Arlington Trust Co., Inc., is the oldest in Arlington County. It was established in 1906. Its officers are listed as John E. Fowler, president; C. T. Merchant, vice president; Alan B. Prosise, treasurer-cashier; Harry R. Thomas, vice president and trust officer; William C. Gloth, attorney.

Bronze Signs Prepared.

Within the week, the new bronze signs prepared for the banks comprising the Hamilton National Bank will be erected, marking the actual materialization of the new bank. These contracts were awarded locally, as have been the orders for stock certificates and stationery.

While announcement was made that the doors of the new Hamilton Bank would not be opened on the exact day the new signs are erected, definite announcement of the opening date will be made very soon after the Hamilton name appears on the bank fronts.

Local business is even now feeling the effects of the Hamilton merger with the bank's first order for stock certificates already let to a local lithographer.

Secretary and Third Assistant Trust Officer Irving Zirpel, Union Trust Co., is back from a vacation in Virginia. George E. Hamilton, vice president, attorney and trust officer of this company, is now on vacation.

Wheat Slumps To 5-Cent Limit Under Selling

Buyers Arrive Too Late to Place Orders; Other Grains Down.

Chicago, Aug. 18 (AP).—In a headlong downward plunge, the wheat market late today hit the bottom-price limit allowed for a single day's fluctuation, 5 cents a bushel. Numerous bidders quickly came into the market at the limit, but had no time to effect intended purchases, including one order of 1,000,000 bushels.

Disclosure of temporary absence of aggressive buying support appeared responsible for the collapse. Considerable selling done on resting orders was looked upon as owing to readjustment of the market position of various speculators, but was not of unusual volume.

Profit-taking on the part of recent buyers of all grains was a contributing element of weakness, with corn losing most of an early gain, which for a while had lifted the corn market to but little short of the maximum permitted in one day and had hoisted other grains.

Wheat Closes Unsettled.

Wheat closed unsettled at the day's lowest level, 5 cents under the average of yesterday's finish; corn ⅝ off to ¼ up; oats 1⅝-3 cents down, and provisions varying from 32 cents decline to a rise of 5 cents.

At first the corn market was the leader and repeated yesterday's performance, making a big jump right at the start, and carrying wheat and other cereals upgrade. Reports of persistent deterioration of the country's corn crop supplied the chief incentive to buy.

Lively profit-taking, especially in corn, developed at this stage, however, and without the bracing influence of further sharp upturns or setbacks all grains throughout nearly the entire remainder of the day acted in a more normal manner than has been the rule for a long while.

Corn Belt Reports.

Despite showers in parts of the corn belt, reports indicated an extremely critical new crop outlook for corn, because of lateness of the plants. At best, only a meager 1933 yield was predicted by corn specialists, who emphasized that big shortage of other grains and in pasturage and forage as well had made inevitable a greatly enlarged use of corn.

A drag on wheat prices was an authoritative estimate that exportable wheat surpluses of export countries totaled 916,000,000 bushels, whereas requirements of importing countries aggregated but 552,000,000 bushels. An advance of 2½ to 3 cents a bushel in wheat at Liverpool was attributed to a sharply higher rate for sterling, and was without effect in Chicago. Oats mainly followed the action of corn.

Provisions took their cue from cereals.

Foreign Markets.

(Associated Press.)

London—The improvement in commodity prices and in the Wall street market helped to register a cheerful tendency on the stock exchange today. Activity was renewed in industrials, wherein rayon, transatlantic, oil and molasses shares were the best. Distillers issues strengthened on hope of a whisky demand from America. Gilt-edged securities steadied and kaffirs were supported by South African buyers. The market closed firm.

Paris—Prices on the bourse advanced generally, especially gold and international shares, the latter following Wall street's recovery. The turnover was moderate and the closing was firm.

Berlin—The friendly tendency continued on the boerse owing to better reports from the automobile market. However, the slight gains recorded were lost at the close which was listless.

U. S. Dollar Sags On Foreign Marts

New York, Aug. 18 (AP).—The American dollar continued to sag today in foreign exchange transactions. Dealers generally attributed the declining tendency principally to a renewal of inflationary psychology.

The British pound sterling was up 4 cents at $4.53 for cables, French francs gained .03½ of a cent at 5.36 cents, Dutch guilders advanced .35 of a cent to 55¼ cents and Swiss francs and Belgian belgas were about .15 of a cent each higher.

German marks, the Scandinavians and Canadian dollar gained about ¼ of a cent each. Far Eastern currencies were firm.

Mercantile Exchange In Chicago to Reopen

Chicago, Aug. 18 (AP).—The Chicago Mercantile Exchange will open for trading tomorrow because of heavy interest in dairy products, especially butter. The exchange has been closed on Saturdays. Trading and prices increased sharply today after Secretary of Agriculture Wallace had spoken on the farm situation at the World's Fair.

Butter shot up 2⅝ cents a pound, later losing ¼ cent under pressure of profit taking. Prospects of production curtailment served as the impetus for the forward movement.

Eggs gained 1 cent a dozen.

Group Plans Exchange Rule To Limit Deals

New York, Aug. 18 (AP).—Wall Street heard reports today that a committee of New York Stock Exchange members would submit to the exchange governors next week a plan for limiting the business of member firms to one of four divisions.

The committee's purpose, it was said, was to gain the exchange's approval of a rule which would compel firms doing a commission business to confine their activities to that branch, and similarly restrict those acting as specialists, as underwriters and as retailers in the investment field.

Under such an arrangement, it was contended members would no longer be able to mix commission operations with underwriting and retail distribution of securities. Also, specialists would be prohibited from engaging in commission or other operations.

Published reports that the exchange governors were already considering the adoption of such a rule were denied by Richard Whitney, president of the exchange. The committee sponsoring the changes, it was said, is an independent group, acting on its own initiative with the view of amplifying the exchange's campaign to bring margin trading under a more rigid control.

Present Prices of Cigarettes Likely to Hold Rest of Year

New York, Aug. 18 (AP).—A brief paragraph inserted in the NRA code recently accepted by the tobacco industry is believed in Wall Street to have ended the threat of drastically higher prices for cigarette smokers at least for the time being.

The good news for the greatest cigarette smoking nation—consuming around 120,000,000,000 "fags" annually—was the pledge by the industry not to increase the wholesale price this year beyond the actual increase in the cost of production brought about by the code or the action of the agricultural adjustment act.

$100,000,000 Revenue Loss.

There have been recurring rumors in recent months that cigarette manufacturers, especially the "big four" of the industry, were considerinfg price rises to offset the reductions effected early in the year. It was estimated that two successive price slashes of 85 and 50 cents a thousand, announced early this year on popular brands to meet the competition of 10-cent packages, cost the manufacturers — Reynolds, Liggett & Myers, American, and Lorillard companies—an aggregate loss in revenue of $100,000,000.

The companies pledged themselves, under the code, to give full weight to probable increases in sales volume and to refrain from profiteering. This was interpreted in Wall street to mean that present prices will be little changed, if any, during the rest of the calendar year.

$104,000,000 in Profits.

The golden era for the tobacco industry, extending over 15 years, with steadily rising profits for the leading companies, was little affected by the depression until last year. Cigarette consumption, which has doubled since 1921, slumped in 1932, and the big four showed profits of around $104,000,000 against approximately $154,000,000 in 1931.

Smokers who were compelled by hard times to watch their pennies cut down on their consumption or turned to the 10-cent brands. It was to meet this situation that the big four cut prices this year.

April saw the curve in cigarette consumption turn upward again and manufacturers are hopeful that the increased volume of purchases will offset to some extent the lower prices they are receiving.

G. M. Export Sales Increase 196 Per Cent

New York, Aug. 18 (Spl.).—Export shipments of cars and trucks from General Motors plants in the United States and Canada during July were 196 per cent greater than in July last year, according to a statement issued by the corporation today.

Despite a lag under 1932 in the early months of the year, the progress made since March has been so rapid that a cumulative excess of 59 per cent over 1932 is in evidence in this regard for the first seven months of the year.

This increase in the shipment abroad of the corporation's American-made product has been accompanied by an equally vigorous increase in the rate of wholesale and retail sale. It has been accompanied also by a substantial increase in the shipments and sales made of the corporation's Vauxhall products in England and Opel products in Germany.

In its total sales volume abroad, General Motors began in March of this year to run ahead of the volume obtained in the corresponding months of 1932. In July, for the first time, the monthly volume surpassed, also, the total sales obtained in the corresponding month of 1931.

Cotton Rallies Trimmed to Final Losses

December Closes at 9.51 as General Market Drops 6 to 13 Points.

New York, Aug. 18 (AP).—An opening advance which carried the price of December cotton up to 9.77 or more than a cent above the low level of Wednesday, was followed by reactions in the market today under a renewal of liquidation and scattered selling promoted by the action of the grain and stock markets.

December sold off to 9.32 or 45 points from the early high level but recovered part of the loss, closing at 9.51 with the general market ending steady at net declines of 6 to 13 points.

Market Influenced by Wheat.

Offerings increased as the weakness in the wheat market developed and there seemed to be reselling by early or recent buyers who were said to have been disappointed by the failure of buyers to become more aggressive on the early advance.

Active months sold 25 to 30 points net lower under the pressure. Offerings then subsided and there were rallies of 16 to 20 points from the lowest in the late trading on covering.

Britons Point To Problem of U.S. Money

Recent Legislation Fails to Make Cohesive System, London Review Says.

London, Aug. 18 (Spl.). — "The main respect in which, to an outside observer, the banking changes have failed to cope with the weakness disclosed lies in the almost total absence of any definite attempt to bring American banking into the shape of a structurally cohesive system," the August Review of the London office of the Midland Bank says today in an analysis of the workings during the last few months of banking legislation, especially the Glass-Steagall act, enacted during the session of Congress.

Commenting further on the Glass-Steagall act, the Review says: "At this early stage it is difficult to foresee the effect of the act on the American banking structure. Some authorities regard it as likely that the deposit guarantee provisions will attract many smaller and weaker non-member banks into the Federal Reserve system, and that some of the more powerful banks may elect to relinquish their National status in order to leave the system."

"Very Solid Advantages."

"On the other hand, membership of the system does present very solid advantages which the leading banks would presumably be loath to forego.

"Incidentally, the business of banking in the United States is fast becoming a profession for lawyers as for bankers pure and simple," the review goes on to say in regard to the multiplicity of Federal and State laws. "The mass of legislation enacted during the past session, together with the steady flow of proclamations, executive orders, Treasury and Federal regulations and interpertations, superimposed upon the huge bulk of already existing bank laws, must have placed bankers in the position of deciding whether what was lawful yesterday is legal today.

"Since the advent of the new administration, no fewer than 30 amendments have been made to the Federal Reserve act alone, and even the Federal Reserve Board itself might be excused if it felt a little doubtful as to what a Federal Reserve bank, or member bank, can or can not do."

Further Currency Changes.

Further excerpts from the review regarding American currency changes and the value of the dollar follow:

The Glass-Steagall act of 1932 broadened for one year, to March, 1933, the powers of member banks of the Federal Reserve system to borrow from the Reserve Banks, and liberalized the provisions regarding the issue of Federal Reserve notes by granting eligibility, within limits, to United States Government securities as authorized note cover. Under this act, the Reserve Banks bought large quantities of securities and provided the basis for a marked increase in member bank cash reserves, though for various reasons the process failed to bring about any proportionate increase in the volume of bank deposits. We mention this act only to record that, in view of its beneficial effect in easing the position of member banks, its provisions were extended last February for a further year.

The Presidential proclamation of March 6, issued under the authority of a war-time act, declared a national bank holiday until March 9 and authorized the Secretary of the Treasury to reopen banks at his discretion. A few reopened for restricted business during this period, but it was found necessary to extend the holiday, and the majority remained closed until March 13, when plans for an orderly resumption of business were put into operation.

Meanwhile, an emergency banking act was quickly passed and became law on March 9. This act reaffirmed the Presidential proclamation, and conferred on the President autocratic powers over the whole banking system.

Quick Action Results.

The machinery of the act was speedily put in motion. The Secretary of the Treasury was empowered to issue licenses to member banks to enable them to reopen, while State banking authorities were requested to cooperate with the Treasury by gradually licensing sound State banks to resume business. Banks throughout the country were rapidly reopened after March 13, the only restrictions on their operations being prohibitions against gold payments, currency withdrawals for hoarding and exchange transactions for irregular purposes.

By the end of March nearly 13,000 banks, out of a total of about 18,000, had received unrestricted licenses, while the rest, mainly State banks and trust companies, were still either closed or working on a restricted basis.

Reopening later proceeded more steadily, and, although full figures for a more recent date are not available, it was authoritatively stated toward the end of June that, out of deposits of $44,000,000,000 in banks closed during the holiday, all but $10,000,000,000 had been released.

It is evident, therefore, that a vast quantity of purchasing power is still immobilized in closed banks. Moreover, it seems likely that a large number of these banks (probably between 3,500 and 4,000 are still without licenses) will never reopen, but will be liquidated with some inevitable losses.

Long-Term Outlook.

Passing now to more permanent measures, designed to prevent a recurrence of banking upheavals, we must endeavor to summarize the main provisions of the Glass-Steagall banking act of 1933, which became law on June 16. This act should not be confused with the earlier Glass-Steagall act.

A main feature of the act was the institution of a system of guaranteeing deposits. A temporary insurance fund is to be formed within the next six months, financed jointly by the Treasury, the Federal Reserve Banks and the participating banks, which will guarantee individual deposits up to $2,500 in all the banks taking part. The fund is to be converted in July, 1934, into a permanent Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, which will guarantee individual deposits at its member banks fully up to $10,000, and in prescribed proportions beyond that figure.

All Federal Reserve member banks must participate, as to contributions and benefits, in both the fund and the corporation. Nonmember banks may join the fund, but may remain within the corporation only if they become Federal Reserve members before July, 1936.

The general trend of these provisions is clearly towards still further central control over the Federal Reserve System and restriction of the liberty of member banks. In two respects, however, the Federal reserve act has been liberalized in favor of national banks. First, the "Glass-Steagall" banking act permits branch banking by national banks in any State where it is permitted by State law, under the same restrictions as apply to the State banks. Secondly, the double liability of stockholders in national banks for all debts to customers was abolished in respect of shares issued after the passage of the act.

Farm Foreclosures in Iowa Now Equal 7 Counties' Area

Ames, Iowa, Aug. 18 (AP).—Corporations, banks, insurance companies and investment companies, which once took mortgages on Iowa farms as security for loans, now own land equal in area to about seven of the State's 99 counties.

That finding has been made by W. G. Murray and R. C. Bentley, agricultural economists of Iowa State College, after a survey of land transfers.

About 2,500,000 acres of Iowa's total arable land—7.2 per cent of the total—thus has passed from the hands of individual owners to absentee owners during the last 10 years.

The two economists, in a survey of 54 counties of the State, found the number of foreclosures on farm property increased each year over the preceding one as agricultural prices slumped, beginning in 1921. The only exception to this trend was in 1929, when prices improved.

A definite relationship was found between the percentage of corporation holdings in a county and land values in the section.

In general, lower-valued land had been overvalued when the mortgage was taken, and the same relationship did not carry into land valued considerably higher.

Thus when the farmer's crop prices began to decline, low-producing but over-valued land was first to be taken over by the mortgage-holder, it was found.

A comparison of the cost to insurance companies of their holdings with land values estimated in the 1930 census also indicated this overvaluation.

This average cost per acre was $78, which when compared with land values of 1930, showed the companies had an average equity of about $46 an acre on their holdings.

Corporate holdings in Iowa have been on the increase since 1921. Ten years ago, less than 100 tracts of land were owned by corporations.

On December, 31, 1932, corporations were found to be holding 4,308 tracts—all but 10 per cent of which have been acquired in the last five years, and more than half of them in the last two years.

Insurance companies foreclosed on more farms during the last half of 1932, the economists found, than in any other comparable period in the history of the State.

Land foreclosed in that period, however, was not included in the totals announced by Murray & Bentley because under Iowa laws the debtor is allowed a year of grace in which to redeem his land.

The insurance companies hold sheriff's certificates on approximately one per cent of the land in the State.

Japanese Silk Leader Hails Prosperity in U. S.

Chicago, Aug. 18 (AP).—Japan is anxious to see America prosper, Gosuke Imai, head of his country's Central Raw Silk Association, said.

Visiting the World's Fair, the Japanese member of the House of Peers, said that Japan raises silk but the "United States uses about three times as much as our people do."

After reacting from early advances of 2 to 3 points to the previous close sugar futures firmed up again on trade buying and closed at net advances of 2 to 4 points. Sales were 27,300 tons.

The sharp break in the wheat market in the early afternoon led to increased liquidation by commission houses. On this price lost the early gains, while the December position even got a point below the previous close, but in the last hour buying increased again and the setback was more than recovered with prices making new highs for the day and closing at the best.

In refined prices were unchanged at 4.70 for fine granulated, but second hands were said to be a little steadier, although still available at around 4.50.

Summer Cut In Trade Seen Less Likely

Dun & Bradstreet's Review Finds Some Handicaps in Code Delays.

New York, Aug. 18 (AP).—Passing of the midsummer season without appreciable slowing of the progress of recovery in business, said the Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., trade review today, makes the possibility of any sizable recession more remote with each passing week.

At the same time, the review pointed out that "the delay in perfecting codes of fair competition is exerting a retardative influence on the rate of activity in a number of industries."

"With each succeeding week," continued the review, "more and more of the small industrial centers throughout the country enter the group showing gains over the 1932 and 1931 figures.

Records Back Upturn.

"The extent of the upward movement since March is disclosed by the cumulative records for the major trades and for employment, which during the brief period of four and a half months revealed gains seven times larger than those set down for the same period of 1932.

Analyses of the industrial indices reveal a larger number of recessions from the midsummer peak than a week ago. The lines on many of the charts that had been rounded off gradually since the latter part of July are now beginning to sag, although the majority of these are above the position occupied in 1932 and 1931, and in a few instances are nearly parallel with the 1930 trend.

"It is not solely the fear of the general advance of the price level of all merchandise, which will become effective on September 1, which has given such a strong spurt to retail buying, but rather the millions in new-found wealth which have been poured into the hands of consumers who have converted these into long deferred essential requirements."

Drugs and Chemicals.

The drugs and chemicals list continued firm, although the sole markup was in quicksilver. The recession in nitrate silver crystals was fractional, but both camphor slabs and Sumatra benzoin were down a full cent.

Leather prices were maintained at last week's strong position, but some weakness appeared in the hide group. While branded cows gave ground by 2c., No. 1 extremes and No. 1 kip were down only ½c.

Chicago city calfskins were marked up 1c and No. 1 buff hides ½c, so that total declines in this group were but one in excess of the number of advances. While interest in hides has continued fairly keen, offerings have become less numerous, and most tanners have deferred purchasing until they can obtain some idea as to what they will be forced to face under the new code. Supplies now coming forward, however, are light, and are being held in strong hands.

Declines In Lead.

For the first time in many weeks, declines outnumbered the advances in the textile division, the weakness being occasioned by the continued downtrend of burlap, hemp, cotton, and Japan silk.

With the exception of hose belting, which rose 1c, cotton goods were unchanged. Although manufacturers are not buying much wool just now, the strength of the price structure has not diminished, as the average of the 25 quotations was 53.0c, the same position occupied a week ago.

Manufacturers now are concerned over the wool code and the cost which likely will prevail under it, with the chief uncertainty at present arising from the proposal of the cotton manufacturers for a compensatory tax on wool of 4.2c per pound to offset their processing tax.

Trading in Rubber.

Though not so broad as in some periods of the recent past, trading in rubber has been of good volume, and the price of standard thick latex rose ½ cent to 8¼ cents, as compared with 4¼ cents, at which it stood a year ago.

The plans for restriction of production again have been postponed, despite the rising output in the Orient. The metals division made the best showing, as all the changes were in an upward direction.

South Cincinnati steel was marked up to $17.75, electrolytic copper rose to 9 cents again, while tin was up ¼ cent to 44¾ cents. Silver rose ¼ cent to 35⅞ cents. Domestic copper buying was slowed down, pending further developments in the NRA situation, as consumers are holding off until codes in their own industries will have been submitted and approved before engaging further shipments of the metal.

Exchange Head Backs Plowing Up Cotton Plan

Growers Urged to Comply With Crop Destruction as Price Aid.

New York, Aug. 18 (Spl.).—President William S. Dowdell, of the New York Cotton Exchange, in a statement issued today, indorsed the statement issued by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, urging the cotton growers of the South to complete immediately the plowing up of acreage covered by agreements with the Government under the acreage reduction program.

President Dowdell stated that complete assurance that the farmers were cooperating with the Government in this way would help to establish prices profitable to the grower, and so restore the buying power of the 2,000,000 cotton planters throughout the South.

"As one who was born and raised in the South and closely associated with cotton growing all my life, I realize the vital importance of restoring the buying-power of the cotton planters," President Dowdell stated.

President's Plan Praised.

"The program of President Roosevelt and the Agricultural Adjustment Administration of raising cotton prices to a remunerative level by bringing supply and demand more nearly to a balance through reduced production holds great possibilities of benefiting not only the South but all other sections of the United States.

"A cash surplus in the hands of the cotton growers, with which they can again buy normal amounts of clothing, household supplies, farm implements and other articles necessary to an American standard of living, would send stimulating impulses through every line of business in the United States and help much to reduce unemployment in industrial centers.

"Hence the cotton planters will be serving not only their own interests but the entire Nation by cooperating with the Government.

Plowing Up Deadline.

"The administration has set Wednesday, August 23, as the 'dead line' for plowing up cotton under contract with the Government. Less than a week remains for completing the acreage-reduction program.

"With the new crop beginning to move in increasing volume, it is vital that the growers cooperate with those who would help them, and in so doing help to accelerate the recovery of business throughout the United States.

"I heartily indorse the statement issued by the Government urging the growers to complete immediately the plowing-up of acreage covered by agreements with the Government, and am confident that they will do so."

West Almost Solid In Indorsing NRA

New York, Aug. 18 (Spl.)—With an aggregate of 240,130 agreements signed to date in thirteen Western States, the entire Far West will soon be under the NRA banner, it is revealed by a survey compiled by the Bank of America, Pacific Coast Branch Banking Institution. The sum of the pledges affects more than 1,000,000 employes.

California leads the Far West in its response to President Roosevelt's national recovery plan with a total of 114,783 agreements signed to date. The bank points out, meanwhile, latest reports from Alaska and Hawaii, with total agreements of 102 and 282, respectively, indicate Uncle Sam's Territories are losing no time in joining up with the Blue Eagle.

The NRA program is going forward on a wave of business improvement as reflected in a 4.2 point rise in the Bank of America index of Western business for July. The preliminary July index of 64.2 marks a 10.3 per cent increase over the all-time low of 53.8 in March, 1933, and more than 2 points above July a year ago. The bank's index is composed of figures derived from carloadings, bank debits and electric power production.

Wool Market.

Boston, Aug. 18 (A.P.) (U. S. Dept. of Agriculture).—Buying in the wool market shows a moderately broadening tendency. Fleeces and Western grown wools of 56s and finer grades are receiving attention and some purchases are being made. Strictly combing 56s, ⅜-blood, Ohio and similar fleeces sell mostly at 36 cents in the grease, with a few odd lots available as low as 35, while other lines are held higher. An occasional sale closing at 37 cents. Demand is fair on eight months Texas wool at 72@74 cents scoured basis.

The Commercial Bulletin will say tomorrow:

Demand for wool has been somewhat slower than a week ago, but the manufacturers are watching the market carefully and some of them are buying fair weights of wool now and again. Medium quality wools are very strong.

The manufacturers are still chiefly concerned over the problem of making price adjustments under the code. They look for an improvement in business after the holiday and when the code problems have been adjusted.

The foreign markets are quiet, as usual in mid-August, but there is reported a good undertone in the markets abroad and good business is expected in the fall.

Mohair is dull but very firm in price.

The Bulletin will publish the following quotations:

Domestic, Ohio and Pennsylvania fleeces: delaine unwashed, 31@33; ½-blood combing, 32@33; ⅜-blood combing, 36@37; ¼-blood combing, 36@37.

Backing Up the Recovery Program

Capital Talent Puts On a Hit At Loew's Fox

Ace Program at the Earle; Kate Smith NRA Helper; Other Gossip.

"THE DEVIL'S IN LOVE."—Fox picturization of a story by Harry Hervey, adapted to the screen by Howard Estabrook, featuring Victor Jory and Loretta Young, with Vivienne Osborne. David Manners, C. Henry Gordon and Herbert Mundin. Directed by Wilhelm Dieterle. "GOING NATIVE," an ALL-WASHINGTON REVUE, with Brooke Johns and ensemble of 50, on the stage. Entire bill reviewed Friday afternoon.

By Nelson B. Bell.

Thirty-five hundred enthusiastic members of the audience at the first performance in Loew's Fox Theater yesterday afternoon reduced 7,000 human hands to so many pieces of aching and swollen pulp by practically continuous applause of "Going Native," the all-Washington revue that sets a new high for nonprofessional entertainment in the National Capital.

While yesterday's first performance was a full hour late in getting under way, due to last-minute rehearsal of important scenes in the revue, and despite the fact that it did not move always with that alacrity that would have added so much to its homogeneous and rounded effect, "Going Native" may well be a source of pride to the city of Washington and congratulation to Gene Ford, who staged it; Ned McGurn, who routined the ensembles; Phil Lampkin, who arranged and conducted the score, and all the others who had a hand in shaping this handsomely costumed, colorfully staged and effectively lighted specimen of modern stagecraft and demonstration of resident versatility.

"Going Native," while of strictly local origin, is by no means an amateur effort. Virtually its entire personnel has had experience before either audiences or microphones, or both, and the poise and surety so acquired reflect themselves advantageously in their present nimble enterprises.

Two Professionals.

Brooke Johns, the master of ceremonies dragged from a rustic retirement for this flamboyant occasion, of course, is an old professional—as he reminds you frequently during his spontaneous ad libbing—and Almira Sessions, the revue's principal comedienne, has been a stage fixture for years with her angular impersonations of off-key prima-donnae. Their individual and joint triumphs are complete and unequivocal.

From the cleverly contrived opening chorus, "Unaccustomed As We Are," executed with fine precision by 18 agile boys and girls, the revue moves on to Mr. Johns' introduction and the "Lost City Mountaineers," a popular radio feature in the hill-billy manner.

Mary Ellers then appears in "Acrobatics Personified" and the Yates Sisters and Frances Rands score in "The Butterfly Ballet," a beautifully spectacular number, that is quickly succeeded by John D. Lippy in a little deft "Delving Into Black Art." "Seeing Washington," a comedy tour of the Capital, written by Eddie Melcher, of the Star, and "personally conducted" by Jimmie Mulroe, tickles the risibilities next.

Come the Show-Stoppers.

Then begin the show-stopping items of the bill, headed by Miss Sessions. Clare Borjes breathes a rich contralto into the microphone in "Lazybones," Henry Nestor, "the singing cop," stops the proceedings cold in their tracks with his admirable tenor ballading and, a little later, Mildred Cherot, doing a "Kate Smith," and the Four Dots, doing a little hot "scatting," tighten the knot into which the show has already been tied.

Interspersing these numbers are others of only slightly less emphatic appeal, contributed by Poppy Callahan and John Lippy in "A Japanese Fantasy;" Marjorie Mitchell and Sock Kennedy, two clever juveniles, in "Get a Friend," a collegiate interval of song and dance with chorus background; Joseph Bernne, radio singer; Jay Kimmel, tap dancing usher; Rita Burns, "Miss Washington of 1933," and Spotty Harvey, acrobatic dancer, masquerading as the "Cuban Ambassador."

A Piano Virtuosa.

But possibly transcending any or all of these is the extraordinary virtuosity of Evelyn Tyner at the piano. Miss Tyner is a brilliant artiste of amazing technique, whose facility at the keyboard embraces both the classics and jazz and whose artistry is consummate. She is assisted from time to time by both Mr. Johns and Mr. Lampkin, who comes up out of the orchestra trench briefly with his trumpet.

A real revue, ladies and gentlemen, worthy of anybody's time and money.

On the screen is a picture of unusual merit in its proper classification. "The Devil's in Love"—another example of flagrantly inept titling, incidentally—is a melodramatic romance of the Riff country in northern Africa, which, with its marooned garrison, false charges of murder, prison escape, etcetera, would sound thoroughly trite in the telling, but, as a matter of fact, possesses numerous qualities of excellence that will commend it to all classes of amusement seekers.

First Stellar Role.

It affords Victor Jory his first approach to stellar opportunity and he acquits himself with high credit as the young surgeon who finally works out his own salvation by a devious route, over which he is assisted by two antithetical young women—one the niece of the priest in charge of the mission at Port Zampa; the other the keeper of a waterfront resort of notorious repute. The one is played charmingly by Loretta Young; the other with not quite enough fire and flash by Vivienne Osborne.

David Manners, J. Carrol Naish, C. Henry Gordon, Emile Chautard and Herbert Mundin render distinguished support.

The newsreel was omitted yesterday afternoon, Mr. Lampkin's "Dance of the Hours" overture, from Ponchielli's "La Gioconda," being the only auxiliary of a bill of unique interest to Washingtonians.

Kate Smith, Chairman.

KATE SMITH, Washington's "songbird of the South," who graduated from precisely such local productions as the "Going Native" revue, current at Loew's Fox, to Broadway musical comedy and headline spots in vaudeville, to become, in time, one of radio's dominant personalities, has been appointed chairman of the NRA Committee of Radio, Screen and Stage, according to announcement made yesterday afternoon.

The committee will be made up of seven stars of the entertainment world, and will function for the purpose of mobilizing talent of the theater, screen, concert and air fields of artistic endeavor in a national cooperative effort to aid the National Recovery Administration.

Kate was notified of her appointment yesterday by L. J. Alber, chief of the speakers' Bureau of the NRA. The other members of the committee are Walter Damrosch, Marion Davies, Otis Skinner, Lawrence Tibbett, Rudy Vallee and Peggy Wood.

The committee will operate under the speakers' division of the NRA, with headquarters in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, New York. Every actor and entertainer in the United States will be asked by the committee to become a part of its organization and be available at any moment for duty at NRA radio broadcasts or mass meetings.

Who remembers—and who can ever forget?—1918 and the days of the Liberty Loan drives, with Elsie Janis, Charlie Chaplin, Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks, Marie Dressler and others of like prominence rendering the same sort of invaluable service?

"The Young Maestro."

Don Bestor and His Orchestra, who haven't appeared in Washington since the early fall of 1925, when they played a week's stage engagement at the Rialto Theater, have been engaged for the famous Warrenton Horse Show dances to be given in the auditorium of the Warrenton High School on the nights of next Wednesday and Thursday, August 23 and 24.

Originally conductor of the famous Benson Orchestro of Chicago, Bestor several years ago organized his own band and drilled it in pianissimo effects and the acme of precision in attack and tempo. He has since played engagements in many of the most exclusive hotels, theaters and amusement places in the country and has become a national favorite on the air.

In addition to his ability as a conductor and arranger, Don is one of the most brilliant of the younger concert pianists devoting their talents to both the popular and classic forms of musical composition. He is worth journeying to Warrenton to hear.

Columbia Players Step Out.

The Columbia Players plan to offer a varied and interesting 1933-34 program of five full-length plays, with the first production tentatively scheduled for October.

The plays chosen by the Players for presentation are "By Candlelight," a translation from the German of Siegfried Geyer; "Icebound," Owen Davis' Pulitzer prize winner; "The Ivory Door," by A. A. Milne; "Second-Act Curtain," a new play by Dorothea Lewis, vice president of the Columbia Players, and a fifth play yet to be selected.

The Players are particularly elated to be able to include in their program a brand new play not only by a local playwright, but by one of their own officer members, who happens, by the way, to be also a member of the reviewing staff of this department of The Post.

This season's is an earlier beginning and a more pretentious program than the Players ever before have attempted, and for the first time in their long history in Washington's theatricals they will offer a subscription season ticket. The subscription ticket will provide special entertainment privileges, such as invitations to strictly guest performances of plays not on the regular box-office ticket program.

The Children of Job.

With the first performance scheduled for 11 o'clock yesterday morning, a double line of patrons stretched a half block in either direction from the boxoffice of Loew's Fox at 10:50, waiting for the ticket sale to open. Owing to the prolonged rehearsal of "Going Native," the theater did not open until 11:45, and the first presentation of the program was not begun until 12 o'clock noon.

By the first evening performance this loss of one full hour of scheduled running time had all been made up but 20 minutes—a miracle of managerial alertness that will seem almost inconceivable to any seasoned showman.

The first performance of "Going Native" consumed 1 hour and 36 minutes; the second, 1 hour and 18 minutes. By now the running time should be down to its intended 68 minutes. That's working fast, my masters.

And I wonder if my thumb would hold out as far as the Century of Progress Exposition out in Chicago?

"SHE HAD TO SAY YES."—First National picture based on the story "Customer's Girl," by John Francis Larkin, featuring Loretta Young, with Lyle Talbot, Winnie Lightner and Regis Toomey. Directed by Busby Berkeley and George Amy. Reviewed Friday afternoon by W. A. Whitney.

If you recall 'way back when Douglas Fairbanks, jr., foisted "The Party Girl" on an unsuspecting public, then you know the story of "She Had to Say Yes."

It is a customer's girl, rather than a party one—but there is no difference between the operations of the two. One can almost surmise the story: the use of the stenographic force to wheedle orders out of traveling salesmen of quite the usual sort.

Loretta Young is the carefully guarded secretary to the sales manager of Sol Glass & Co., clothing manufacturers extraordinary. To clinch a big deal, she goes "on the make" for an order from a big Western coat-and-suit man. She lands it and the man, too. But many misunderstandings arise before the proper time to write "Finis" to the tale. They are, however, all ironed out.

Speedy Action.

"She Had to Say Yes" moves in a rapid, though none too engaging, manner with Miss Young striving valiantly to bolster up the interest in her affairs with Regis Toomey, as the sales manager, and Lyle Talbot, as the buyer. Ferdinand Gottshalk, as the manufacturer with an eye to orders; Hugh Herbert, as another buyer somewhat misunderstood by his spouse (Helen Ware), and Suzanne Kilborn, as an added customer's girl, do well by their assigned roles.

The principal interest in this picture centers in the fact that it serves as a vehicle for bringing Winnie Lightner back to the screen. As Miss Young's closest friend, Miss Lightner has the opportunity to romp through a hand-made, though relatively minor, part in her typical blase manner, with the Lightner quips and wisecracks shining like diamonds in an otherwise not too brilliant setting.

The Stage Bill.

On the stage this week are paraded an array of acts any one of which could headline any show. Notwithstanding the galaxy present, it is Tom Howard who leads all the rest. Appearing in a satirical comedy, "The Hold Up," assisted by his screen partner, George Shelton, abetted by Ruth (Mrs. Tom) Howard, Owen Martin and Don Trent, Mr. Howard brings to the stage the same brand of inimitable humor that makes his short subjects strong contenders for first mention on any motion picture program.

Opening the bill, charmingly announced by Maxine Doyle, is Bob Ripa, whose consummate disregard for such physical things as gravity and unstable equilibrium makes him a strong contender for Serge Flash's title of premier juggler. Joe and Jane McKenna engage in a routine of good-humored slap-stick comedy, climaxing a hilarious (but never crude) outburst with a devastating burlesque adagio dance.

Varied Auxiliaries.

Irene Vermillion, whose toe, tap and acrobatic dances need no introduction to Washington audiences, closes the bill. Assisting her are the Beverly Sisters, their part in the act building up from their singing to their dancing and finally to their violin-cello-piano trio.

For an overture the boys in the pit, directed by Charles Frederick Clark, play a potpourri of Slavic tunes under the title of "Fantasie Russe."

"The 'No' Man," with Hugh O'Connell, Anna Greenway and Esther Hall, reveals what happens when an extravaganza impressario becomes irked by his "yes men." Tuna fishing, and the subsequent canning process, is the theme of "Fisherman's Holiday."

A release of the Universal News rounds out a program which, if not always brilliant, is continuously interesting.

"TUGBOAT ANNIE."—M-G-M's picturization of Norman Reilly Raine's stories in the Saturday Evening Post, adapted by Zelda Sears and Eva Green, starring Marie Dressler and Wallace Beery, supported by Robert Young and Maureen O'Sullivan. Directed by Mervyn Le Roy. Reviewed Friday, second week, by Dorothea Lewis.

That heart-warming, as well as box-office combination, Marie Dressler and Wally Beery, made a second week's anchoring for "Tugboat Annie," a foregone conclusion.

It is, however, not only a natural and to-be-expected holdover, it's a well earned one, for Norman Reilly Raine's Tugboat Annie, imbibing spouse, Terry, and indescribable tugboat Narciss-us provide Marie and Wally with considerable homely, hilarious humor. It is superfluous to say how well they handle it.

Concerned with Annie's devotion to her tugboat, her son and her husband, the picture ranges from quiet waterfront scenes to exciting storms at sea, with plenty of noisy roistering and a little too much sentiment between times.

The humor may not overwork the imagination but it is guaranteed to tickle the ribs.

Marie and Wally play on their tip-toes throughout. And oh, as we said last week, that taxicab scene! No one else in the cast matters much, but each does his or her part adequately.

The subsidiaries include a comedy lyrically entitled "Shakespeare With Tin Ears," a cartoon comedy, "Paleface," and the newsreel.

Air Mail Day at Fair To Honor Dead Fliers

Chicago, Aug. 18 (AP).—September 6 will be "Air Mail Day" at the World's Fair, and President Roosevelt was asked today to proclaim national observance in memory of pilots have have died in the service.

It will not be a stunt show, officials of the fair said. They hope 200 aviators will gather here from every State to fly in tribute to the dead. They said George W. Vest, supervising aeronautical inspector for the Department of Commerce, had signed a blanket permit for the maneuvers.

Early-Rising Farmers Storm Fair Gates at 6

Chicago, Aug. 18 (AP).—Farmers and the sun have been arriving at the World's Fair gates together this week—about 6 a. m.

One entrance is being opened three hours early during Farm Week to accommodate an average of 500 early risers. All have been farmers who set alarm clocks at about 3 a. m., milked, fed their stock and drove from 40 to 150 miles to get here "on time."

Arlington Sewer Plan Tied Up.

Inability of Col. James A. Anderson, engineer to the Recovery Advisory Board for Virginia, to meet with Arlington County officials on the proposed loan of $2,250,000 for the installation of the county-wide sewerage system leaves the contemplated early action by the board at a standstill, County Manager Roy S. Braden said yesterday.

Quantico Rifle Match Is Won By Coast Guard

Team No. 1 Scores 568 of Possible 600; Marines Place Second.

Quantico, Va., Aug. 18 (Spl.). Nine six-man teams today battled for honors in the A. E. F. Roumanian rifle match in the Middle Atlantic rifle and pistol championship tourney, and when firing ceased No. 1 team of the Coast Guard was in first place with a score of 568 out of a possible 600 points.

The No. 3 Marine team placed second with a score of 553 and the No. 2 Marine team turned in 551 points to take third honors.

The match called for teams of six men, 10 shots per man at 200 yards standing and 10 shots per man at 600 yards prone.

Individual Scores.

Two other matches today were the National Rifle Association individual pistol or revolver championship and the .45-caliber service pistol match.

A Baltimore police officer, Sergt. Theodore R. Maxwell, won the pistol and revolver championship with a score of 275 out of a possible 300 points, getting 91 at 50 yards slow fire, 98 at 25 yards timed fire, and 86 at 25 yards rapid fire. E. C. Moore and B. F. Bean, of the Washington police team, took second and third places with scores of 267 and 258, respectively. Ervin Frye, Coast Guard, was fourth, scoring 255, and M. O. Wilson was fifth with the same score, but was outranked by his fellow Coast Guardsman, who had a better rapid-fire score.

Last Day of Matches.

J. Q. Alligood, of the Coast Guard, won the service pistol event by compiling a score of 255 out of a possible 300. The high five were First Sergt. C. Wilck, Marines, 253; Sergt. Maj. Morris Fisher, Marines, 252; Paul Goulden, Coast Guard, 252, and Ervin Frye, Coast Guard, 250. Police Officer E. C. Moore was the high District of Columbia contestant, finishing eighth with 246.

The shooting will close tomorrow with the President's match and a match over the National Rifle team course.

Board Considers Jail Loan.

The Board of Supervisors of Fairfax County will leave for Richmond Tuesday morning to confer with Col. James A. Anderson, engineer to the State Advisory Board, on the proposed loan of $50,000 for construction of a new jail under provisions of the industrial recovery act.

Radio Dial Flashes

By Robert D. Heinl.

CHICAGO never does anything excepting in a big way, so it is quite logical that A Century of Progress should stage the biggest musical radio festival of this or probably any other year. One thousand Negro voices will be heard tonight singing "Joshua Fit de Battle of Jericho." The Choral Guild of Chicago, composed of 250 choirs and numbering 5,000 mixed voices, will next make the air ring with "Unfold Ye Portals."

Following this a massed band, under the direction of Arthur Pryor and Victor Grabel, will play Tschaikowsky's "1812 Overture." This band, according to one notice, will be made up of 100 musicians, but to another 2,000 pieces. It being Chicago, the larger figure must be correct. (WJSV, 9 o'clock.)

If it is not again postponed, the National Women's Singles Tennis Championship Tournament at Forest Hills will be described this afternoon (WJSV and WMAL, 2 o'clock.)

Al Goodman, who conducts his orchestra on a gasoline program with Irvin S. Cobb, ran out of gas on a country road. Fortunately, he was on a hill and coasted to the nearest gas station—but the pumps contained a gasoline other than that sold by his sponsor.

Loyal to the last, he bought 1 gallon, figuring it would take him as far as one of his sponsor's trusty pumps. As the rather irritated attendant was removing the hose from the gas tank, a car came whizzing by on the road and a voice roared out, "Goodman, yo' all are a traitah!" Al looked up in time to see the great tan hat and inevitable cigar of Cobb protruding from the window of the speeding car.

A NEW radio series of rollicking fun and light music, the "Saturday Night Jamboree," will bring to the air the trials and tribulations of the Hoofinghams, a third-rate vaudeville team, with Murray Forbes and Helen Page as Al and Lizzie Hoofingham, respectively.

The series, over WMAL at 9:30 p. m., also will include Harold Stokes' Orchestra, the famous King's Jesters, the Morin Sisters, Mary Steele, contralto, and Edward Davies, barytone.

"AN EXPLANATION of the New Navy Program" will be given by Rear Admiral William H. Standley (WJSV, 10 p. m.). . . . The National Capital Cadet Orchestra, sponsored by the Parents Club, is to again be heard over the air (WRC, 10:30 a. m.). . . . Senator Pat McCarran, of Nevada, goes to bat for "The National Recovrey Program" (WRC, 11:15 a. m.). . . . A group of nationally known scientists gathered in Chicago in a round table discussion of meteorites will include Dr. F. C. Leonard, of the University of California; Dr. Phillips Fox, director of Adler Planetarium in Chicago, and Steven C. Sims, head of the Field Museum (WMAL, 4 p. m.). . . . "Samuel" will be the Sunday school text of Terrelle B. Crum, of Providence Bible Institute (WMAL, 5 p. m.). . . . The Saturday night dancing party will have a high flier as a guest—Amelia Earhart (WRC, 9 p. m.). . . . Millicent Russell, Canadian soprano, will be the headliner in "Singing Strings," the exchange presentation from Montreal (WJSV, 9:30 p. m.).

Champion voices of rural America will be demonstrated this afternoon in the husband and hog-calling contest, as in Farm Week at A Century of Progress in Chicago. ("To avoid any possible confusion," comes a suggestion from Chicago, "it should be pointed out here that hogs and husbands are not the same thing, and are not called in the same way. This is really two separate contests.")

Male larynxes, trained to summon porkers from the scrub oak on the back 40 acres, and feminine vocal cords, capable of calling farmers a quarter of a mile away, will vie for honors.

Inasmuch as there are several schools of pig-calling, ranging from pooey, through sooey and into hooey, the contest will be on a free-for-all, best-two-out-of-three-falls basis. Ben Bernie will be the judge. Yow-sah!

Kate Smith, late of Washington, sang that song, "Any Rags, Any Bones, Any Bottles?" the other night. That was the song you remember, for which she made a request on the air when she couldnt locate a copy of it in any music publishing house.

Well, as this is written, the count on copies received is 385. They came from all over the country and the first one came from Kate's grandfather, Benjamin Franklin Hanby, of Riverdale, Md. He sent it registered, special delivery, and it cost him 65 cents.

"PARTNERS," an original radio play dealing with domestic trials and tribulations, will be presented over WJZ at 7:30 o'clock tonight. It is built around a modern "partnership" marriage, that of Edward and Susan Potter, which inside of a year has developed to the stage where Edward not only runs his business but does his best to run the home as well.

Getting fed up on this, the wife descends on the office during a conference, bent on running affairs there while hubby attends to the household duties.

Howard Barlow will make his debut with the Philadelphia Summer Concerts Orchestra at 7:30 p. m. over WJSV. The engagement marks Barlow's first important appearance with any of the larger concert orchestras since the disbandment of his own American National Orchestra.

Lee Sims who is heard with his wife, Ilomay Bailey, used to manage a station in Chicago and his favorite tale deals with a sponsor who insisted on a certain song for his program. "It's risque!" said Sims. Said the sponsor, "Sing it in English, then!"

Texan Chosen Compromise Envoy to Chile

Hal Sevier Picked to End Deadlock Between New York and Career Men.

(Associated Press.)

Hal Sevier, of Corpus Christi, Tex., will succeed William S. Culbertson as Ambassador to Chile.

After this was made known authoritatively yesterday, informed observers characterized the selection as a compromise to end a deadlock that had arisen between supporters of Spruille Braden, of New York, and George T. Summerlin, American Minister to Venezuela.

New York Democrats, they said, had urged Braden, whose wife is a Chilean and whose family name is prominent in the Chilean copper industry. Career men of the State Department, they added, were supporting Summerlin.

Observers believe Postmaster General Farley, Democratic patronage dispenser, followed a recommendation from Vice President Garner for the Texan.

Sevier has not been in the diplomatic service. Both his family and that of his wife, who was Miss Clara Driscoll, are among the most prominent in Texas and trace their ancestry back into pioneer stock. Mrs. Sevier is a writer and a national Democratic committeewoman from Texas.

Nats Beat Chicago, 6-4, for 10th in Row; Ruth Hurt as Yanks Win

This Morning

With Shirley L. Povich.

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 18.

OUT here in Chicago, where they gave up all pennant hopes for the White Sox on April 18, and where they are now seriously beginning to doubt a happy fate for the Cubs, press and public alike are tumbling over each other in their admiration of the Nats and Joe Cronin.

Cronin's pictures are spread all over the papers in on-and-off the field scenes. He is hailed as the new wonderman of baseball, the miraculous boy manager, mastermind, master psychologist and the greatest shortstop of his era. Chicago is conceding the pennant to the Nats and you can name your own figure as to the margin.

Of course, the manner in which Cronin and his club went about winning these four straight games from the Sox who had just been showing signs of lifting themselves into third place, had very much to do with the present high regard of the Washington team. But there are other reasons.

Hustle Is The Word.

Some people call it ambition. Others call it inspiration. Still others may describe it as leadership. But the correct word is hustle. That's what Cronin has imparted to his ball club and his ball players are almost perfect counterparts of the dashing young leader, who is a highly-concentrated bundle of energy out there in the field.

The Nats have been showing Chicago plenty of inside baseball. Today they worked a double steal and scored a man for the second time of the series. Today Cronin started two double plays that appeared impossible. They have been putting on the hit and run with regularity and with success. They bunted the first ball game out from under Sam Jones.

Despite the tragic hitting slump of Fred Schulte when his average slumped from the .330's to the .290's, Cronin never lost faith in his fifth-place hitter. Never once did he lift him in the pinch and impair Schulte's confidence. And in this Chicago series, Schulte has rewarded him with a sustained display of slugging in and out of the pinches.

Good Time To Talk.

The manner in which the Nats recoiled from the discouraging double defeat in Yankee Stadium that whittled their lead to one game is indicative of the kind of leadership that Cronin is giving the club.

Cronin did not hold one of his frequent meetings of the players before that double-header. But after those two defeats, he called them together for the third game.

And for the first time this season, in that meeting in their dressing room in New York, Cronin mentioned the word "pennant" to his team. It was the psychological moment. And he went on to tell them how, as kids, they had all dreamed of being on a pennant-winning team some day. That speech of Cronin's was a classic, as it is relayed to me.

And what happened? Nothing, except that the Nats have gone out and won 10 straight ball games.

Runs, Hits and Errors.

The Nats shuffled off to St. Louis tonight for a three-game series... Walter Stewart is to pitch the single game tomorrow... with Crowder and Whitehill due to work the synthetic double-header on Sunday... Yankee spies are living at the Nats' hotel in Chicago... Where Mrs. Lefty Gomez, the former June O'Dea, and Miss Julia Ruth, daughter of the Babe, are staying... Scouting the Nats for next year, I guess.

Federal Jury Indicts 10 In Doping

Bond for Each $5,000; Well-Known Horses on Narcotic List.

CHICAGO, Aug. 18 (AP).—A Federal grand jury today struck a stunning blow in the Nationwide race track "doping" scandal, accusing ten men of giving narcotics to race horses.

Five indictments were returned, each naming one to three persons and charging violations of the Harrison antinarcotic law and the internal revenue laws by possession of narcotics unlawfully procured.

Headley Is Included.

Outstanding among the defendants were Hal Price Headley, Lexington, Ky., turfman; A. A. Baroni, Reno, Nev., a widely known horse owner; Bennett Creech, Lexington, Ky., manager of the stable owned by his wife, Mrs. Creech; Jack Howard, also of Lexington, who also manages his wife's stables; Ivan H. Parke, former noted jockey and now a trainer, and Dr. Nelson Edward Southard, a veterinarian, of Louisville, Ky.

Baroni was named in the indictments with James Hexhin, an exercise boy; Howard, with Charles Mitchell, an exercise boy; Headley, with Marvin Hardin, an exercise boy, and Creech with Parke and William Paine, also an exercise boy.

Bond for each of the defendants was set at $5,000.

250 Horses Involved.

Two hundred and fifty race horses were given narcotics at tracks in Chicago and through the South and East, the indictments charged, but only a few were mentioned. Some were among the best-known thoroughbreds on the American turf. They included Marmion, Ebony Lady, Spud, Adelaide A., Liqueur, Portcodine, Dr. Parris, Threat, Louie Dear, Islam, Technique, Big Beau, Street Singer, Ytfin and Snaplock.

Three others seized in the Arlington Park race already have been sentenced to Leavenworth Penitentiary on charges of possession of narcotics. They were Chauncey Berger, for three years; Jack Pride, for two years, and William Cooney, for one year. They were stable hands.

Vines Beaten By Shields In 3 Sets

New York Star Jolts U. S. Champion in Newport Upset.

Ragged Work at Net Is Factor in His Defeat; Allison Winner.

By Bill King.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 18 (AP). The tennis throne of Ellsworth Vines rocked violently under the terrific strokes of Frank X. Shields today when that powerful New Yorker gained a surprising straight set victory over the national champion in the semifinal round of the Newport Casino Tournament by a 6—2, 6—4, 6—4 margin.

Shields rudely checked Vines' attempt to rescale to tennis peaks and erase the memory of his Davis Cup collapse with a blistering service that kept the titlist struggling along defensive lines from start to finish. The upset placed Shields, who has made a spectacular record in the recent Eastern grass fixture, in the final round with Wilmer Allison, the Texan who shared the Davis Cup singles assignments with Vines.

Allison Finally Wins.

Allison, after a wobbly start, managed to overtake and then outwear Clifford Sutter, of New Orleans, for a 3—6, 6—4, 6—2, 9—11, 6—2 victory, which passed him into his third Casino finals in four years. He was Vines' runner-up here last year and in 1930 he finished second to Bill Tilden when the latter christened the current one of the series of Casino Bowls.

Vines was far from being at his best in the action against Shields, but his Davis Cup teammates agreed he played much better than he did against Fred Perry and Bunny Austin in the interzone finals with England.

Vines' forecourt failures and his ragged work at the net doomed him against Shields, who refused to permit him to employ his favorite baselines tactics and kept the match a driving exchange.

Vines was charged with 85 errors, including 54 nets, during the 28 games. Shields held his miscues down to 55 and had 14 earned points, seven less than Vines' total.

Vines Makes Lone Flash.

The champion, who won the last two Casino titles, made only one of his famous flashes. While serving the ninth game in the deciding set Shields was at match point three times, only to have Vines check him with a sizzling placement and finally hold after being thrice deuced.

Shields opened the final game with a terrific smash and then forced Vines to toss away the match by driving three balls into the net just as the first of a long series of hard showers broke.

Playing conditions were decidedly unfavorable for Shields and Vines and much worse for Allison and Sutter. The latter pair were in their third set when the rain drove them off the court and they resumed play after a three-hour intermission, only to run into other showers, which they ignored.

Harder Bests Rhodes, Tribe Beats Sox, 2-1

Cleveland, Ohio, Aug. 18 (AP).—Mel Harder outpitched Gordon Rhodes in a heated slab duel today and the Cleveland Indians won a 2-to-1 victory over the Boston Red Sox in the first of a five-game series.

Harder held the Sox to 5 hits while his Mates were nicking Rhodes for 7.

Joins Nats Today

SAM GRAY.

St Louis, Aug. 18 (AP).—Sam Gray, veteran right-hander, who was released on waivers to the Washington Nationals by the St Louis Browns Thursday, will join the American League pace-setters here tomorrow.

Gray was first ordered to report to the Nats in Chicago today, but when the hurler informed the Washington management it would be useless to report immediately, as he had a sore arm, Clark Griffith, president of the Nats, said the deal was off.

Informed by long-distance telephone, however, that Gray's arm was only temporarily lame, Griffith reconsidered, and told the ex-Brownie to await his new teammates here.

Used mostly in relief work this season, Gray's record includes six victories and three defeats.

Dorothy Round Helen Jacobs Net Victors

Defeat Sarah Palfrey and Miss Cruickshank in Thrilling Matches.

FOREST HILLS N Y., Aug 18 (AP).—The quarter-final round of the women's national tennis championships broke up in a thundershower today after Helen Jacobs, of Berkeley, Calif., the defending champion, and Dorothy Round, England's best bet, had turned in stirring victories to qualify for the final four.

Miss Jacobs, putting up a dramatic defense of her title, had triumphed over Josephine Cruickshank, of Santa Ana, Calif., 11—9, 6—4, in a match that lasted an hour and a half, and Miss Round had won a stubbornly contested victory over Sarah Palfrey, of Boston, by scores of 6—4, 9—7, when the rain swept the stadium courts.

Postponed for a Day.

After a few minutes wait, when it became evident the weather gods really meant business, it was decided to postpone the remaining matches between Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, of this country, and Mary Heeley, of Great Britain, and Betty Nuthall, of England, and Alice Marble, of San Francisco, until tomorrow. The semifinal between the Misses Round and Jacobs also might be played tomorrow, as well as the quarter-final round of doubles.

As a result of the rains of Monday and today, the tournament fast was developing into a sort of catch-as-catch-can affair. Nobody around the officials' marquee seemed to know just when the finals might be reached either in singles or doubles, if ever. The fact that Miss Round, a minister's daughter, does not compete on Sunday serves to complicate matters further, since she may reach the finals in both divisions.

Are Evenly Matched.

Miss Jacobs and her opponent were so evenly matched the outcome virtually depended upon which of them won the final point.

Miss Cruickshank led most of the way, at 5—4, 7—6, 8—7 and 9—8. Once, in the tenth game, she was at set point, but she couldn't put it over. After squaring the score finally at 9-all, the champion crashed through Miss Cruickshank's tiring service in a long, deuced game, and then held her own to finish the marathon. Both were dog-tired in the second set, but after it reached 4-all in games Miss Jacobs summoned just a little more reserve than her rival to win.

The Round-Palfrey squabble lacked very little of equaling the opening fray, both in length and breadth. Miss Palfrey, easily the most improved player in the tournament, put up a magnificent battle before she finally succumbed to the British ace. Both were very much "on" their games and they provided beautiful tennis.

Carnera Draws 4,000.

Erie, Pa., Aug. 18 (AP).—Primo Carnera drew a crowd of 4,000 fight fans tonight to his exhibition bouts with Jack Renault, former Canadian heavyweight champion contender, and Harold Mays at Erie stadium.

The world's champion easily shaded the 225-pound Renault and 200-pound Mays, boxing two rounds with each. His weight was announced as 268 pounds.

Bluege's Hit Downs Sox In Tenth

Single With Bases Filled Wins Final Game of Series, 6 to 4.

Miller Again Pounded Out as Nats Retain 7½-Game Lead.

less lot against Joe Heving and Whitlow Wyatt for six innings, getting only one hit and no runs, until they piled into Wyatt in the tenth.

A walk to Thomas started the big fuss in the third Manush singled and Cronin forced him. Harris walked to fill the bases and then Fred Schulte stepped into the hero's role with a single that scored two runners, Kuhel scored another with a rifle shot to right, and then Schulte scored the fourth run of the inning on the front end of a double steal.

The Sox immediately got a pair of runs back following a walk to Berry and singles by Heving and Swanson. They reduced the gap to 4-3 in the fifth after Swanson and Haas singled. Swanson scored while Cronin was throwing out Kress. Haas had previously died stealing second.

Pinch Hitter Billy Sullivan started the Sox on their way to tying the score in the seventh with a single through the box and Cronin had seen enough of Thomas. Jack Russell came in and Swanson greeted him with a single that put Sullivan on third. He scored while Cronin was converting Haas' grounded into a double play.

Another double play started by Cronin on a ball deflected by Russell, kept the Sox away from the plate in the eighth, and in the tenth when Swanson drew a walk to open the inning. Buddy Myer took Haas' grounded, touched Swanson on the line and threw to Kuhel for the third double play of the game.

But the Nats could do nothing with Heving after the third and Wyatt put them out in order in the eighth and ninth. One was out when Cronin walked to start the tenth, and Goslin sent him to second with a single to left. Schulte bashed a single off Wyatt's glove to fill the bases, but the jig appeared to be up when Kuhel popped a foul to Dykes

There was still Bluege to contend with, however, and the Sox weren't long in learning the result. He smashed the first pitch on a low line into center and that's how we came to win the game.

Cubs Beat Braves As Nelson Stars

Boston, Aug. 13 (AP).—Lynn Nelson, young Chicago right-hander, pitched some fine relief ball in the last seven frames today to give the Cubs a 4-to-3 victory in the last game of the Braves' series.

Nelson relieved Charley Root with none out and one run home in the last half of the third, and preserved the Cubs' slim lead, giving only four hits and letting only one runnner reach second. Babe Herman's error was responsible for that.

Manager Bill McKechnie, of Boston, protested Umpire Powell's ruling on Cuyler's run, claiming Spohrer had blocked him off at the plate, and after a warm argument was put out of the game.

Giants Trounce Reds, 4 to 1; Advance

Fitzsimmons Blanks Foe Until 9th When Lucas Singles in Rice.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18 (AP).—The Giants added another comforting half game to their National League lead today, but missed their twenty-first shutout, defeating the Cincinnati Reds for the third straight time, 4 to 1. As Pittsburgh was idle, the victory gave the Giants a five-game lead over the second-place club.

Fred Fitzsimmons blanked the Reds until two were out in the ninth. Then his rival flinger, Red Lucas, came through with a single that drove in Harry Rice from second. Fitz gave ten hits, but three double plays helped him out of the tight spots.

All New York Runs Made In Fourth

Van Atta Grants 8 Hits in His 10th Victory; Score Is 8 to 3.

Hebert Is Pounded Out; Babe's Leg Injury Is Not Serious.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 18 (AP).—The New York Yankees acted like the team which won the world championship last fall again today, fell on Wally Hebert and Hank McDonald in a victorious fourth-inning attack and scored enough runs to beat the Browns, 8 to 3, and get an even break for the series. The victory still left them 7½ games behind the Washington Nationals, who continued winning at Chicago.

The Yanks had a bad scare in the midst of their big rally when Babe Ruth, at the plate for the second time in the stanza, was struck over the right ankle by one of McDonald's pitches and was bruised badly enough to make him leave the game.

Only a Painful Bruise.

The Babe dropped to the ground when hit and for a moment the Yanks and the fans feared a broken leg. Examination revealed, however, that the injury was nothing more than a painful bruise, and Ruth is expected to return to action tomorrow or within a few days.

Russ Van Atta pitched a well-earned victory for the Yanks. He gave eight hits, well scattered, and fanned eight Browns. It was his tenth triumph of the season.

Hebert gave the Yankees only one hit in the first three innings, but he weakened suddenly, and before the fourth ended New York had gathered in eight hits and two passes. Jack Knott, the third pitcher, was effective the rest of the way.

Admiral Grayson's Band Wagon and Hope To Do Run One, Two at Hawthorne

Third Money Annexed by Rehoboth

Leading 2-Year-Olds to Clash Today in Juvenile Stakes.

Burch's Tambour Winner in Outstanding Test at Saratoga.

CHICAGO, Aug. 18 (AP).—Band Wagon and his stable mate, Hope to Do, racing in the colors of Admiral Cary T. Grayson, of Washington, D. C., ran one, two in the feature at Hawthorne today. Jockey Kacala took Band Wagon to the front soon after the barrier was released in the 1 1-16-mile feature and made every post a winning one. Hope to Do, in close pursuit, was beaten one length and a quarter. Rehoboth nosed out Dusky Devil for the show. The race was run in 1:47 and the Grayson entry paid $6.88 in the $2 straight mutuels.

America's leading 2-year-olds compete for honors here tomorrow in the $5,000 added Hawthorne Juvenile Handicap at three-quarters.

Mata Hari, winner of the Lassie Stakes from the Dixiana Stable, owned by Charles T. Fisher, of Detroit, may go postward the favorite. Ten fillies and colts were named in the overnight entries, including Lady Higloss, which won her last five starts and recently was purchased by Victor Emanuel, of New York.

Tambour Is Winner.

Saratoga Race Track, N. Y., Aug. 18 (AP).—Preston M. Burch's classy mare Tambour, recently a galloping winner in an allowance event, came back with another easy score in the Delaware Handicap before a good-sized crowd here this afternoon. Johnny Gilbert rang up a triple by piloting the bay daughter of General Thatcher home first by three lengths. Mrs. Dodge Sloan's Helianthus was second, four spans in advance of W. W. Vaughan's Canron. Tambour, held at 4 to 5, ran the mile in 1:38 2-5, and earned $3,270 for her 8-furlong gallop around the track.

Coney Island, Aug. 18 (AP).—Little in the way of a feature was offered here this afternoon, each of the seven events being given over to platers and juveniles. In the absence of a headline attraction, the fifth dash attracted principal interest and the result proved somewhat of a surprise when C. V. Moore's inconsistent Essential drove home the winner over the Greentree Stable's Moppet and F. C. McAtee's Billie's Orphan.

THIS 2000-YEAR-OLD SACRED BO-TREE IN ANURADHAPURA WAS ONCE WATERED WITH MILK TO SAVE ITS LIFE!
McNaught Syndicate, Inc., N. Y. 8-19-33

THE ancient sacred bo-tree of Anuradhapura in Ceylon, described as the oldest historic tree in the world, was planted there in 288 B. C. It is said to have grown from a branch of the bo-tree under which Buddha sat when he received revelation. Throughout the centuries the famous Anuradhapura tree was cared for by a company of monks—and during a drought when water for it could not be spared, the monks watered their sacred tree with milk. * * * *

One of the strangest bits of testimony ever given in an American court of law was heard a few weeks ago when an aged Indian mother was called to the stand in the Federal court of Idaho to testify concerning the death of her daughter. Testifying through an interpreter, the witness said that the first news of her daughter's death was brought to her by an owl. "Owl said, 'Anny missing, dead,'" the witness said, repeating the sounds made by the owl—sounds which, in the language of the Bannock Indian, mean just those words.

The testimony was accepted by the court—for Anny was, in fact, dead when the owl brought its message to the mother. The case involved the death of 13-year-old Mabel Sawyer, for which Doty Lewis was on trial charged with murder. The mother's name is Mrs. Anna Drink McGill.

The strange incident of the "message" was explained by younger Bannock Indians in this manner: The Bannock language is based on familiar sounds of birds and animals—and the peculiar call of the owl might be interpreted with little or no stretch of the imagniation as "Anny, missing, dead."

At the Post . . .

with Bill Bennings.

Dear Al: Hawthorne, August 18.

This Bennings person is thorough. Either he is very, very good or he is terrible. Today it was worse than that. Felt a tough afternoon coming on when My Boss was forced to take second money in the opener. After that, Mike and I tried all means to change our luck, Mike ending up by standing on his head in the infield during the running of the eighth race, but even the great Westrope couldn't get Dark Mist closer than the place hole. However, I'm informed from a usually reliable source that tomorrow is another day. So we bought a bag of peanuts and dragged out the books tonight. And what a going over we gave them! Here's our findings. Let the best horse win.

BILL.

First race—Cooley is asked to carry top weight in this dash and seems capable of the assignment. Breaks from the inside and has the speed necessary to take advantage of that position. Luna Bright is the talk of the clockers. Legal Gamble for the show end.

Second race—Brown Wisdom, my honey, walked home by seven lengths over a field of this kind here yesterday. There will be explaining to do if he doesn't take this field in camp. However, there will be little in the way of a mutuel. Lucky Carter won his first race of the year here on the same card. Prose and Poetry to take the rest.

Third race—Rowdy Boy drops a big chunk of weight in this and will appreciate the longer route. I'm looking no further for the winner. Elizabeth Fox is well suited and will be in the battle. King Pin for the minor award.

Fourth race—To my way of thinking, this is a mighty tough race. Most of the field has won lately. I'll take Volta Maid for the top position and let Cold Check and Burning Up do the chief chasing.

Fifth race—Advising Anna appears the solid guess here. She is consistent as horses come and is there or thereabouts each time at the post. Mr. Sponge appears to be the one to beat. Sharp right now. Polydorous for the No. 3 running.

Sixth race—I'm going to string along with the "chalk" in the feature race. I mean Mati Hari. Seems fit to carry the weight assigned and there is no doubt about her courage. Trey and Signal Man to complete the money picture.

Seventh race—Tela, at any price, looks like the good thing in this. At tops and ready for a contest of this sort. Unencumbered, my old friend, can not be dismissed with a glance at the entries. Mighty tough at the price he's likely to be tomorrow. Mad Wind to take care of the others.

Eighth race—Once in a while we find one oiled and greased and ready for a killing. I have reason to believe that Renewed is the baby. And it looks like 10 to 1. Ask no questions. Crap Shooter and Barry to battle it out for the remainder.

Ninth race — Royal Purchase didn't run a bad race here the other day. Gets in with a feather and may be the big-dividend payer of the day. Street Singer and Uncle Henry will be ready if the top one falters.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—TRANSCALL, $18.10, $8.78, $4.16; MY BOSS, $3.80, $2.94; CHAGRIN, $4.06.

TRANSCALL bettered her position fast when racing wide in first quarter, was steadied on stretch turn and, after easily wearing down CHAGRIN, held MY BOSS safe. Latter lost ground early, but saved some ground on stretch turn and held on well under strong riding, but did not threaten winner. CHAGRIN was under strong urging from the start and much used racing with KISSIE, had speed from the start but faltered in late stages. PEEDEQUE began slowly, raced wide and could not get up. INDIAN RED broke slow. GAY FOLLIES was in close quarters much of the trip. CHICA quit.

SECOND RACE—Six and one-half furlongs (out of chute). Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:43½. Off at 2:45½. Winner, L. D. Oldham's br. f. (3), by Wise Counsellor—Anaprisa. Trained by A. J. Plack. Value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 0:24, 0:48 3-5, 1:13 3-5, 1:20 3-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—MRS. LET, $34.82, $8.44, $4.24; STROLL ALONG, $3.44, $2.82; ONDOTT, $4.50.

MRS. LET, never far back and forced to lose ground throughout, responded to mild pressure after reaching final quarter and slowly wore down STROLL ALONG in final eighth. Latter forced the early pace under light restraint, took a short lead without need of strong pressure and held on well under weak riding. ONDOTT lacked early room and, coming to outside instretch, closed with a rush. HOUR ZEV had no mishap and held on gamely in a good effort. ALPERS showed the most speed under hustling tactics and weakened in last three-sixteenths. THREAT raced wide. WHIRLING dropped out of it on stretch turn.

THIRD RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $800; claiming. For maiden 3-year-olds and upward. Start good for all but Luchon. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:09½. Off at 3:09½. Two-dollar mutuels paid—GLOVE, $9.16, $4.08, $3.70; MR. SWIFT, $4.02, $3.34; BELLE WEIDEL, $26.86.

GLOVE, beginning fast and given a well-judged ride, was rated along to the stretch turn where she came away slowly and, holding on with determination, stalled off MR. SWIFT. Latter, well in hand for three-quarters, squeezed through on inside of LEO M. in stretch, then came out and was slowly getting to winner. BELLE WEIDEL lost ground and closed strongest of all. LEO M. weakened in the drive. FLYING PILGRIM had early speed. SWEET MATHILDE was pulled up.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—LAMPORTE, $43.02, $10.98, $7.08; BITTY BIT, $3.66, $2.76; LE MISERABLE, $3.96.

LAMPORTE, racing improved and having the most speed from the start, came away in stretch and won without need of strong urging. BITTY BIT, under hustling tactics after a quarter, held on gamely. LE MISERABLE lost ground throughout and also stood pressure gamely. JENSSON closed fast. MUMSIE weakened. PLAYFUL MARTHA faltered in the closing stages. LIBERTY OAK was through early. PRINCE DRAKE was never a strong factor.

†Cary T. Grayson entry.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BAND WAGON (Cary T. Grayson entry), $6.88, $6.22, $4.06; HOPE TO DO (Cary T. Grayson entry), $6.22, $4.06; REHOBOTH, $6.82.

BAND WAGON, frequently shaken up when making the early pace, held on in improved fashion, but had little left. HOPE TO DO, under steadying restraint for three-quarters, continued well under light urging thereafter. REHOBOTH, well up from the start, fell back as if through on stretch turn, but came again and was going resolutely in the closing stages. PARI MUTUEL, away poorly, made up ground gradually and showed a fine performance. TED CLARK was never a threat.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:24. Off at 4:24. Winner, T. C. Two-dollar mutuels paid—SERGEANT D., $4.80, $3.26, $2.84; TWISTED THREADS, $5.40, $4.20; BATTLING ON, $12.92.

SERGEANT D. a strong contender from the start and taken out when leaving the back stretch, came up slowly when under strong hand riding in the final quarter and, wearing down TWISTED THREADS, appeared ready to draw out. Latter, given a badly judged ride and rushed to the lead on the turn, held on surprisingly well. BATTLING ON, well rated, saved ground throughout and, while unable to withstand the leaders, held on stubbornly. ANNIMESSIC closed fastest of all. PHARAHEAD had no mishap. SISTER ZOE began fast, but was taken under restraint after a quarter and failed to rally when urged hard.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:49. Off at 4:53½. Winner, J. Lowenstein's b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BARNEY SEXTON, $5.62, $3.76, $2.66; SWEET CHARIOT, $9.68, $4.98; CAIUS, $3.12.

BARNEY SEXTON went over sharply approaching the first turn, disposed of PLUCKY GIRL before reaching the stretch, bore out when entering the final eighth where he was headed by SWEET CHARIOT, but outgamed the latter in the closing strides. SWEET CHARIOT, under strong restraint for five-eighths, was forced wide when working his way to the front and weakened in the final strides. CAIUS, strongly restrained for three-quarters, closed well while racing wide. TRANSBIRD came with a rush in the stretch. CATHERINE FOX stumbled at the start and raced wide in late stages. REVERBERATE, crowded back on the first turn, saved much ground thereafter, but could not get up. PLUCKY GIRL bore over on the first turn and had speed for three-quarters.

EIGHTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 5:18. Off at 5:18½. Winner Eugene Drillon's blk. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BLACK FOOL, $6.96, $3.32, $3.10; DARK MIST, $3.30, $2.72; ST. NAZAIRE, $27.56.

BLACK FOOL, confidently handled and beginning fast, raced under stout restraint until straightened up in the stretch, where he took command gradually, winning drawing out. DARK MIST lost ground throughout and held on gamely. ST. NAZAIRE saved ground to the stretch, where after coming around BUD CHARLTON, held on creditably. The latter weakened in the stretch. REPLEVIN, forced back on the first turn, could not get up. PIGEON HOLE was outrun. SAND BOOT almost fell when he struck TRYANDAGAIN'S heels on the first turn.

Caddies Offer Code And Then Go on Strike

Ashland, Wis., Aug. 18 (AP).—It's the CRA now (caddies' recovery act, to you).

Believing the NRA had overlooked caddies, Chequamegon Country Club golf bag toters formed their own brain trust and came up with the CRA and a strike.

They demand 30 cents for a round or 60 cents for two rounds. The present scale is 25 cents and 40 cents.

Houghton Shoots 73 to Trail Leader by 6-Stroke Margin in Canadian Open

Alston's 142 Sets Pace For Field

Ottawa Pro Shoots His Second 71; Cooper Drops to 144.

Sarazen, Smith, Farrell and Von Elm Among U. S. Qualifiers.

ROYAL YORK GOLF COURSE, Toronto, Ont., Aug. 18 (U.P.)—Robert Alston, a 24-year-old professional from Ottawa, today led a field of internationally known golfers at the halfway mark in the annual 72-hole medal play Canadian open golf tournament.

Alston again toured the course in 71, one under par, for a 36-hole aggregate of 142. He went out in 34, one under par, and came back in par 37.

The brilliant playing of the comparatively unknown Ottawa golfer forced Joe Kirkwood, Chicago trick shot artist, into the runner-up position after he had held the lead most of the day.

Kirkwood Shoots 72.

Kirkwood carded a par 72, which, together with his 71 of yesterday, gave him a total score of 143.

Washington, D. C., has a representative only six strokes behind the leader. He is Al Houghton, who shot a 73 today. His total is 148.

Those with 144's were Harry Cooper, of Chicago, the defending champion who led the field yesterday with a 71, and Leo Diegel, Agua Caliente, Mexico. A total of 89 golfers, 26 of them from the United States, out of the starting fielding of 140, qualified for the final 36-holes tomorrow. All who were within 20 strokes of the leader survived.

Among the qualifiers were such well known United States stars as Horton Smith, 145; Gene Sarazen, 147; Johnny Farrell, 146; Tom Kerrigan, 146; George Von Elm, 150; Ralph Guldahl, 148; Felix Serofin, 149, and Mortie Dutra, 150.

Somerville Qualifies.

C. Ross Somerville, 1932 U. S. amateur champion from London, Ontario, with a 149, and Willie Lamb, of Toronto, with 147, were among the Canadians who qualified for the final play. The Canadian golfer, with the exception of Alston, who held the best card at the halfway mark was Wally Smithers, of Ottawa, with 145.

Houghton played steady golf from start to finish, shooting a 36 for the opening nine.

Another District pro, Walter Cunningham, showed a reversal of form over his opening day's play by pounding out a 77. He now has a 161 total.

Russell First Grid Casualty of Season

Alan Russell, former Georgetown University and New York Giant football player, is the first casualty of the 1933 grid season. Russell dislocated his shoulder yesterday at Griffith Stadium while practicing with the Washington Passers, a recently organized professional team.

A squad of 35 players, including many former college men, went through their paces yesterday. The Passers will play Wednesday games at Griffith Stadium. Chicago Bears, national pro champs, are scheduled to open the season here on October 11.

Out-of-Town Talent In Meet at Glen Echo

Representatives from the Baltimore Y. M. C. A., Bay Shore and Meadowbrook clubs will represent the Oriole City in the swim meet at Glen Echo's Crystal Pool Monday. To date, entries have been received from four local teams, the Shoreham, Ambassador, Y. M. C. A. and Washington Canoe Club. The Penn Athletic Club of Philadelphia is also expected to enter several contestants, probably in the 220 free style D. C. A. A. U. Championship events for men and women.

West Indians Beaten.

Blackpool, England, Aug. 18 (AP).—Sir Lindsay Parkinson's eleven today administered another defeat to the touring West Indies cricket team in a three-day match, winning by seven wickets.

Scores were: West Indies, 163 and 152; Sir Lindsay's eleven, 116 and 203, for three.

Orioles Are Fined As Rum Smugglers

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Aug. 18 (AP).—The Niagara Falls Gazette says today thaat members of the Baltimore baseball team of the International Baseball League were fined a total of $160 by customs inspectors in this city when 32 quarts of Canadian liquor were found secreted in the team's bat box when the team came over the Lower Arch Bridge in a railroad train, bound from Toronto, Ont., to Buffalo last Monday night. The story of the team's misfortune did not leak out until after it had left Buffalo for Rochester.

Customs inspectors here verified the story today, but said it was not an unusual circumstance.

"That was all in the day's work," said one of the customs inspectors in discussing the incident today. Records for publication of liquor smuggling cases are not kept unless the smuggler is formally arraigned before a United States commissioner on a regular smuggling charge.

Oliver, A's, Forsakes This Name for Old One

Detroit, Aug. 18 (AP).—It caused no little puzzlement this afternoon when the megaphone wielder at Navin Field announced that Dick Barrett would succeed Mahaffey on the mound for the Philadelphia Athletics, and Dick Oliver strode forth.

Then it all came out.

Barrrett wasn't doing so well with Elmira, a St. Louis Cardinal "farm," early this season and he bought his release—at the same time changing his name. Then he signed with the Athletics.

Chatlen Takes Playground Net Title

Senior Crown to Corcoran Boy; Georgetown Wins in Girls' Doubles.

SEVENTEEN-YEAR-OLD Louis Chatlen, of the Corcoran Playground, was crowned District Senior Playground tennis champion after a three-set match with Ed Pinkham, of the Burroughs yesterday. Pinkham looked like a sure winner in the first set, in which he won all but one of the seven games played, but became very erratic from then on. Seventeen foot faults contributed materially to his ultimate downfall by a score of 1—6, 6—1, 8—6.

Melvin Dower, a diminutive 16-year-old representative of the Takoma Playground, whom Tony Latona considers one of the District's brightest tennis prospects, defeated Morris Stolar 6—8, 6—2, 6—2 for the junior title.

The team of Emily Beach and Madeline Ballard, Georgetown Playground, defeated Doris Moon and Alice Morgan of the Burroughs for the girls' doubles championship.

Tigers' Uphill Fight Noses Out A's, 7-6

Detroit, Aug. 18 (AP).—Detroit won an uphill battle from Philadelphia in a series opener here today, 7 to 6, batting around in the sixth inning to score four runs, then putting over what proved to be the winning run in the seventh without the benefit of a single hit.

The Tigers' sixth inning attack wiped out an early lead the A's had amassed largely due to a homer by Cochrane in the fourth with none on, and Jimmy Foxx' thirty-sixth circuit blow of the season, which came in the sixth after Cochrane had singled.

'I'll Show Y'u One,' Kirkwood Boasts; Drive Bounces Out

Toronto, Aug. 18 (AP).—Joe Kirkwood, the Chicago trick shot artist, has been "calling his shots" on various golf courses for a long time, but he surprised even himself today during the second round of the Canadian open.

"Guess it's a long time since you've seen a hole-in-one," Kirkwood told the gallery as he addressed the ball on the 245-yard thirteenth hole. "Well, just watch this one."

He lashed out with his club. The ball sailed true to the green, rolled up to the cup—and bounced out, coming to rest 6 inches away.

"I must be getting old," Joe said, shaking his head as his companions shook his hand.

Steele Opposes Zaharias on Thursday

Pair Signed by Joe Turner to Headline Card at Griffith Stadium.

GEORGE ZAHARIAS, who lifts 'em up and lays 'em down as skillfully and noisily as a tap-dancing team, will exercise his wrestling knowledge on the body and person of Ray Steele Thursday night at Griffith Stadium. The pair headline the card through the graces of Joe Turner, who arranges the dance cards for the boys.

Zaharias did nobly last Thursday, back-dropping Gino Garibaldi into defeat in less than half an hour, the new working time for mat artists under the NRA. Against Steele he promises to be even better.

Recognized as the crown prince and heir-apparent to champion Jim Londos' crown, Steele is loath to be tossed around by the lesser lights of the game, including Zaharias. Steele has never given the fans a poor performance. He disposes of opponents as quickly as possible, and is at his best when wrestling a capable man. Zaharias will give him as much as he argues for.

Cumberland Legion Junior Team Winner

Allentown, Pa., Aug. 18 (Spl.).—Scoring nine times in a big sixth inning, the Cumberland American Legion, Post 13, junior baseball team, standard bearers for the State of Maryland in the regional ten championship series, today won its way into the regional finals by defeating West Virginia, 10 to 1, in this city.

As a result of its victory the Maryland team will meet the Pennsylvania team tomorrow in the finals for the right to compete in the Eastern sectional final at Springfield, Ill., next Tuesday.

Richard S. Tennyson, assistant supervisor of playgrounds, will conduct the affair.

Twenty-two messengers will vie for the honor of representing Postal. They are Clifton Lord, Leo Divver, James Davis, Glenn Saxe, Hilton Koerner, John Murray, Philip Koerner, Russell Hall, William Eaton, Charles Parker, R. Valentine, Russell Swain, W. Porter, stellar Mount Vernon infielder, played in 12 games, was at bat 48 times, scored 14 runs and made 22 hits to carry off the batting championship with a .458 average. Hot in pursuit was Maupin, who finished with a .446 average.

Although failing to win the title, Mount Vernon led the teams in batting with a .343 average.

Dor-A Battles Griffiths in League

Game at Riverdale Park; Stantons Face Barbers Tomorrow.

GRIFFITH-BLUE COAL'S game with Dor-A tomorrow in the Capital City League has been shifted from Magruder Park to the Riverdale field. The change was made at the request of the Dor-A management. The Riverdale grounds are more spacious than Magruder Park.

Certified Barbers' tilt with Stanton Cleaners features the league schedule. Led by robust Tony Burruto, the sage of E street, the Barbers are making a determined bid for second-half honors. By a queer turn of fate, Tony's crew defeated both the Stantons and Millers in the first half, only to have the pair meet in the final game of the schedule for the first-half flag. The Millers won.

Federal vs. Miller.

A revamped Federal A. C. nine tangles with the Millers tomorrow, bent on avenging a defeat suffered earlier in the season. The first-half champs have bowed twice in the second-half race and are out of the running, while the Federals are very much in the fight.

Old rivals clash when St. Joseph's and Congress Heights square off. The Griff-Dor-A fray rounds out the unlimited schedule.

Goodacre's and Clarendon A. C. will decide the city and Capital City League junior championship today when they get together at 1 o'clock on the South Ellipse field. Goodacre's won the first game, but the Virginians came back to take the second, and both clubs are primed for the finale.

Washington Maid, first-half champs in the midget division, will seek its third consecutive victory in the second half against the Versis A. C. Potomac Fish Co.'s tilt with Corbett A. C. and Savoy's game with Montrose complete the card.

Business Men Play.

Buck Trundle will lead his Georgia Avenue Business Men to Lorton, Va., tomorrow for a game with the Lorton Blues. The players will meet at Fourteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue at noon. Austin Pohl is requetsed to call Trundle at Shepherd 1918 today.

30-Round Card Is Offered at Twin City

Von Reedon Meets Genaro in Feature of Program Next Tuesday.

THIRTY rounds of boxing, with Charley von Reedon pitted against Mickey Genaro in the feature 8-rounder, will be offered patrons of Twin City Arena next Tuesday night as a substitute for the Knight-Godwin fight, postponed one week because of injuries to Knight.

Carey Wright, protege of Harry Groves and the most promising lightweight to come to the front locally in the last decade, has signed to meet Charley Gomer, of Baltimore, in the 8-round semifinal. Gomer is a hard puncher with years of experience, and should make it an interesting evening for his rival.

Irving Faces Smith.

Another bout certain to meet with the approval of fans is a six-rounder involving Henry Irving and Big Boy Smith. Irving snapped K. O. Broide's string of knockout victories last week, sending the Baltimore youngster down for the count in the first round. Smith lost the decision to Roy Bailey three weeks ago when he made his debut before a local audience.

Harry Kid Groves, of Baltimore, tangles with Doug Swetnam in a four, and Earl Phillips will meet a lad from Goldie Ahearn's stable in another four.

Hand Is Puffed.

Joe Knight, accompanied by Cornell and Patsy Donovan, visited the Post Sports Department yesterday afternoon, injuries and all. Joe's left hand is puffed up, and a hard look at his injured eye would reopen the wound.

Knight dropped in merely to spike charges of some that he was running out on the fight. He'll be ready, and in good condition, when the gong clangs week after next.

Walt Mason, Himself

Buy in Time.

SOON the prices will be soaring on the goods we have to use, on the milk we shall be pouring, on the hats and overshoes. We're emerging from depression, say the prophets, looking wise; and we'll now enjoy a session with the high-priced merchandise. Times are better, is the chorus, times are better, people sing; and the proof is right before us in the prices' upward swing. Since the prices will be popping in their long and dizzy climb, let us do our Christmas shopping in the good old summer time. Let us buy our winter stovewood, to defeat the snow and rain; any wise and prudent cove would, as conditions now obtain. Let us fill the empty larder with provisions fresh and canned; let us blow with cheerful ardor any coin we have on hand. Let us buy a patent mower and a half-pint fountain pen, for the prices now are lower than they'll ever be again. Let us look around the shanty and discover what we need; pillow slips are rather scanty, and the blankets gone to seed; and the rugs are pretty seedy, they've been used so many years, the piano's sounding reedy, painful to artistic ears. Many things are sorely wanted in the parlor and the hall; but by this sad thought we're haunted: "Where's the coin to buy them all?"

New Yorker Today

By Mark Barron.

New York—Herewith are observations fo rno reason at all except, perchance, berserk ones.

A silly phenomena of the weather occurred the other night, on Eighth avenue. On the east side of the street rain was pouring. On the west side not a single drop was falling. Very disturbing, indeed.

Explorers are doing a bit of excavating, of all places, in Brooklyn. The scene resembles the digging for King Tut's tomb in Egypt. They are trying to unearth the old stone house of Gowanus, built in 1699. It is a historic manse and figured prominently in the Revolutionary War.

When they began leveling off the hills of Brooklyn a century ago, it was discovered that the most expedient move would be to bury Gowanus house as it sat at the foot of a hill. Now they want to bring it into the open again.

Penny Into Fortune.

A banker, trying to preach the theory of thrift, confronts me with these statistics: "If one cent were deposited 1,900 years ago, kept at 3 per cent interest and compounded only once a year, it would now amount to 24 sextillion dollars." Guess that'll hold you.

In Times Square is a gigantic electric clock advertising a certain brewery. Before the 3.2 law was passed the clock sounded chimes every quarter hour which played "How Dry I Am." Now they play that refrain "Three o'Clock in the Morning."

That orchidaceous critic, Abner Glib, drops a note chiding this department for saying that "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here" is a hit song from Gilbert and Sullivan's operetta, "The Pirates of Penzance."

"I don't mean to quibble," he writes, "but 'Hail, Hail,' is not the hit song. The melody of the chorus, 'Truce to Navigation,' which is sung in the second act—a melody used long before, incidentally, as a hymn —has been employed for 'Hail, Hail,' &c., but the latter song is in no wise a part of 'The Pirates.'"

Tsk, tsk.

Locals Only.

Delving around in these tattered notes, I come upon the notation that there is a night club in Forty-eighth street that has a telephone on every table. One may, with a gesture of nonchalance, make any local call at the expense of the management.

Should you be so whimsical, however, as to attempt a long distance call to Las Vegas or Minneapolis you'll find a waiter awaiting to slam your wrist with a meat cleaver.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. W. A. Evans.

Assuming that a person's dietary contains ample calories for both energy and repair he will keep in good condition for a matter of weeks, or maybe months, but in spite of the supply of these materials he will eventually go stale unless he is also getting a proper supply of minerals and vitamins.

Dr. I. N. Kugelmass rates some foods according to their content of certain minerals. For calcium content he gives cheese, soy beans, almonds, molasses, cress, dried figs, chard, dried beans, boiled yellow of egg, brown bread, cauliflower, olives, milk, endives, walnuts, peanuts, eggs, turnips, carrots and prunes.

In this list there is an enormous spread between cheese at the head and prunes at the foot, or between the first and the last seven items. Cheese, the first item, contains three times as much as soy beans, the second. Some of the standing, as determined by calcium content, is dependent upon the amount of moisture in the food as analyzed. Cheese is made from milk and contains no more calcium than is found in the original source. But milk contains much water, whereas cheese is quite dry. Probably the various salads and greens compare with cress, chard and cauliflower, and butter ranks somewhat near the other milk products.

Very closely related to calcium in all of its uses by the body is the element phosphorus. Various foods rate as follows, from the standpoint of phosphorus:

Cheese, egg yolk, dried beans, almonds, whole wheat, peanuts, oatmeal, walnuts, lean beef, eggs, dried prunes, polished rice, milk, white flour, potatoes, carrots, turnips, beets, bananas and oranges.

About the first one-third of this list are foods that should be considered rich in phosphorus, the next are fairly so, and the last third are relatively poor in it.

Certain foods rank in iron content about as follows:

Kidney, spleen, romaine, liver, egg yolk, molasses, dried beans, dried peas, brains, whole wheat, beef heart, hazel nuts, almonds, oatmeal, spinach, whole eggs, lean beef, dried prunes, brown bread and dates.

The amount of iron in a pound of kidney is more than six times that found in an equal weight of dates.

Foods rate in iodine content as follows:

Shrimp, lobster, salmon, oysters, eel, peas, beans, banana, asparagus, grapes, strawberries, tomatoes and carrots.

As sources the meats from the sea rank very much above the vegetables from the land. In addition, it is well to know that there is a great difference in the iodine content of vegetables, dependent upon the soil from which they come..

French Army Mopping Up in Morocco Wilds

Desperate Berbers Make Last Stand Against 25,000 Troops.

Rabat, Morocco, Aug. 18 (AP). Sniped at continually by desperate Berber tribesmen, 25,000 French native troops and foreign legionaires methodically mopped up today around Djebel Badou, last stronghold of the wild tribesmen.

Heavy fighting with severe losses on both sides was reported in latest dispatches as the French, determined to clean up the Atlas region before winter, pressed on against the Berber dissidents.

Djebel Badou was surrounded and the surrender of the last rebels there was expected shortly. Meanwhile, the mountain peak, Koucher, was slipping from the rebels' grip. The noted Cherif Moulay Absselmen, a dissident against French rule since 1912, surrendered with his followers.

Fighting Hardest in Years.

Although only the cornered remnants of six die-hard tribes were still fighting, recent battles have been the severest in France's 25-year campaign to pacify Morocco. About 250 French troops were reported killed in the last week. Four converging columns of French troops from Marrakech, Ta Dla, Meknes and Eastern Morocco, encircled the last of the dissidents on the slopes and in the ravines of the high Atlas chain, 175 miles southeast of Rabat.

Britain Takes Hand in Iraq.

Bagdad, Iraq, Aug. 18 (AP).—Great Britain, although it gave up mandatory powers over Iraq this year, again has taken a hand in affairs of this state in an attempt to bring peace between Assyrian Christians and Iraq troops.

The killing of more than 600 Assyrians in conflicts with their traditional foes, the Kurds, and the Iraq forces has brought the affair to a crisis.

British Blame Assyrians.

About 315 bodies were found in Simel and 300 more in the vicinity of Doguk, following Kurdish raids on the Assyrians. Iraq officials contend the Assyrians were killed in a battle after 1,300 of them crossed the Tigris two weeks ago and wiped out a force of Iraq troops. They denied charges that the Kurds massacred the Assyrian communities.

The British government offered an asylum in Cyprus to the Assyrian leader, Mar Shimun, and his father and brother, who were ordered deported by the Iraq government. Sir Francis Humphrys, British Ambassador to Iraq, is leaving London tomorrow for Bagdad. He cut his vacation short to return.

2 in Canoe Begin Trip Around Horn

Laguna Beach, Calif., Aug. 18 (AP). Dana Lamb, 32, and his wife, Virginia, 20, set out from here today in a 16-foot canoe for New York City by way of Cape Horn.

They said they would take three years, if necessary, for the trip, and plan to write a book about their adventures. Lamb is a former chief life guard at Laguna Beach.

The frail canoe is equipped with a cat rig and centerboard, home built, and carries a main sail and jib, with a total of 100 square feet of canvas. The only navigation instruments are a watch and a hand compass.

Their luggage, including tent and cameras, weighs about 600 pounds.

"We will follow the coast down," said Lamb, "and go ashore every night. We plan to hunt and fish as we go."

Four patients showed marked improvement after being in a critical condition. Two new victims were reported.

A permanent metropolitan health council has been organized to facilitate control of the epidemic, whose cause is unknown to medical science.

To "Anonymous Annie."

Your notes are mysterious;
Your wit is sublime.
So, do come up t'see us,
Annie (*), just any old time.

Really, your humor is too brilliant to hide under a waste basket. Let's see if the Federal Diary readers agree with us. Incidentally, we suggested "a couplet or two," and here you send in a whole jug full of stanzas.

Deal—Zeal—Heal—Repeal.

(This goes on the wet side.)

An integral part of F. D. R.'s New Deal
Is the speedy attainment of outright repeal.
To this end the Wets work with zest and zeal,
And they are headed for victory.

The Drys issue warnings. They screech and they squeal
That the advent of liquor will cause us to reel,
And we'll land with a bump in the lap of Belial.
That's pure impecility.

So help the Wet cause, add your push to the wheel.
Crush the Eighteenth Amendment right under your heel,
And restore to our country its old even keel.
Well, here's to the Wets. Whoopee!
A. A.

"Annie's" note follows:

"I do feel thrilled to find that I am a poette.

"I couldn't possibly let the inclosed epic appear in your column under my proper name because my Aunty Ermyntrude is a rabid Dry. I know that's true because, only yesterday, I heard her say to the bootlegger when he called to tell her that she would have to pay higher prices in the future."

Decapitation Party.

Temporarily reuniting the scientific staff of the erstwhile Office of Vegetable and Forage Diseases (now merged with the Division of Fruit and Vegetable Crops and Diseases), Agriculture, 12 of the Government's scientists gathered at the Chinese Lantern recently in a "decapitation party" for W. A. Whitney, who involuntarily resigns from Federal service effective August 31.

Dr. Howard A. Edson, former chief examiner of the United States Civil Service Commission and one-time head of the late office, was the ranking member present. Others attending were Dr. L. L. Harter, Dr. J. I. Lauritzen, Dr. S. P. Doolittle, Dr. Charles Drechsler, Dr. Philip Brierley, Dr. F. L. Wellman, Dr. Freeman Weiss, W. W. Gilbert, L. E. Barrett and E. L. Evinger (*).

Inasmuch as neither reporters nor Government officials were present, no reports as to what transpired is available, but when good—and old—friends get together, even on such an occasion, your guess is as good as mine. And we're probably both right!

NRA Success Up to Women, They Are Told

Cooperation From Opinion and Conscience Will Be Weapons.

The only instruments that will be used by District women NRA workers in the summer offensive against unemployment will be the cooperation that comes from opinion and conscience, Miss Etta L. Taggart, lieutenant general of the campaign, said in a talk last night over station WMAL.

"But we shall use them," she added, "to the limit to protect the willing from the laggard and to make the plan succeed.

"The women of the District of Columbia will sacrifice in order to stand squarely behind the President. They must stand behind him by coming to the front. The key to the solution of this big problem is in the hands of the women."

Thomas P. Littlepage, general of the campaign, and James G. Yaden, colonel in charge of the canvassing unit, addressed more than 50 women workers at a meeting yesterday afternoon at which women captains were appointed.

Much Smoke But Little Blaze in Brewery Fire

Fire caused by an oil leak filled Heurich's brewery yesterday with black clouds of smoke. Three alarms were sounded, but the blaze was quickly extinguished when an engineer dashed through a smoke cloud and stopped the leak. Damage amounted to only a few dollars.

Engineer's Act Averts Serious Brewery Blaze

Braves Flames to Turn Off Oil Causing Fire; 3 Alarms Sounded.

A daring engineer who dashed into a blazing boiler room to stop a fuel oil leak, which was feeding the blaze, was credited with averting a serious fire at the Christian Heurich Brewery, Twenty-sixth and Water streets, yesterday.

Even with the leak stopped, three alarms were sounded before firemen killed the blaze with a special foam type of equipment which had been bought for oil fires. Yesterday was only the second time the foam wagon has been used since it was bought eight years ago.

The fire was discovered by Thomas Perone, a stoker. A pipe leading from the fuel oil storage tank to engines which operates the refrigerating machinery was leaking.

Leaking oil spread across the floor and ran into the ash pits under two boilers which were not being fired. A workman had been using an acetylene torch on these boilers and it is thought that a piece of hot metal dropped into the pool of oil, igniting it.

Perone reported the fire to Claude Price, chief engineer. Price, seeing that the leaking pipe was feeding the fire, ran into the boiler room and tightened a faulty joint, stopping the flow of oil. Aware of the 60,000-gallon storage tank nearby, firemen sounded additional alarms as soon as they arrived.

The foam-type equipment is carried on a special truck which is called out for all oil fires. A gray powder, which forms foam when added to water, is injected into the hose fighting the fire. It forms foam to the volume of eight times the amount of water, and floats on the surface of the oil, smothering the fire.

Throwsters, Inc., Hurling at Code

Officials of the Mayflower probably were thinking of a ball game or a horseshoe pitching tournament when they ran for the dictionary yesterday after learning that the Throwsters Research Institute, Inc., would be holding a meeting in the hotel Tuesday.

They learned that a throwster, among other things, may also be one adept in the art of throwing or spinning silk.

They were relieved further when they learned from the Recovery Administration that the Throwsters Research Institute, Inc., representing 90 per cent of the "throwing industry," would be meeting in the hotel for the purpose of getting together on a code.

Leisure

Parks Head Tells How to Pass the Time in Open Spaces.

Washingtonians who have leisure under the NRA are invted to enjoy the wide open spaces of Rock Creek and East Potomac Parks.

The invitation was issued by F. T. Gartside, superintendent of the National Capital Parks. Not only did he call attention to the many playgrounds operated by the District government, but listed facilities for adult recreation.

These include 32 baseball diamonds, 10 golf courses, 6 archery greens, 2 fields for sports, 2 swimming pools, a cricket field, 10 croquet courses, 3 field hockey grounds, 2 polo fields, 34 tennis courts, 8 horse show courts, 41 miles of bridle and hiking paths, and boating and fishing in the Potomac and Tidal Basin.

Headquarters of the park system has a schedule telling how to pass two weeks in the parks for $10, and reports there have been many calls for the list.

New Armory Site Is Sought

Location Away From Mall Is Believed Favored Because of Cost.

The District Commissioners yesterday instructed Maj. P. A. Hodgson, Assistant Engineer Commissioner, and Harold W. Baker, director of construction, to confer with National Guard officers regarding the selection of a site for the proposed $2,500,000 armory.

The action was taken because the subcommittee of the Public Works Administration appeared especially interested in this project at the hearing Wednesday. The commissioners are understood to prefer a site removed from the Federal Triangle and Mall areas because they believe a downtown location would require too expensive a building.

Maj. Gen. Anton Stephan, commanding general of the District Guard, now at the Cascade, Md., encampment, telegraphed yesterday to the Fine Arts Commission, the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, and to the director of Public Parks, Buildings, and reservations, asking them to recommend an armory site on public property.

A petition signed by nearly 400 residents of the Petworth section yesterday was filed with Maj. Hodgson asking that he urge the Public Works Administration to consider the projects in their community, namely, a Petworth branch library, construction of seven additional rooms at the Roosevelt High School, and school repairs and ground improvements.

Zoological Police Chief Will Be Buried Today

Funeral services for Sergt. Richard T. Sebastian, commander of the Zoological Park Police Force, will be held at 2 p. m. today from the residence, 2306 H street northwest. Interment will be at Prospect View Cemetery.

Chinese Found In River May Disrupt Peace

Autopsy Ordered on Well-Dressed Victim of Possible Foul Play.

The body of a well-dressed Chinese found floating in the Potomac near the Highway Bridge yesterday was regarded as a disturbing note in the tong war peace effected in New York City Wednesday.

Although an autopsy on the body, which was identified as Chin You Jung, 22, of Boston, indicated death by drowning, Deputy Coroner C. J. Murphy stated that an analysis of two samples of the dead man's blood will be made.

Chin was recovered from the river by Harbor Police, and identified from immigration service papers found on his person. The dead man's father is Hock Lung, of Boston.

Police and local Chinese merchants were at loss to explain the stranger's presence in Washington. Fear was expressed that the recently terminated hostilities between On Leong and Hip Sing tong members might begin anew, if it found that the Chinese was a victim of foul play.

The peace treaty, signed by the leading members of the two Chinese tongs, pledged all members to maintain peace and quiet and engage in no acts of violence. The treaty was attributed to the spirit of the National Recovery Act.

No official word has been received by the local tongs from the organizations in New York in regard to the peace declarations.

Capital Girl, First of Her Sex, Wins Scholarship to M. I. T.

Margaret S. Vinson May Study Electrical Engineering.

The first girl ever to win a scholarship to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology is Miss Margaret Sara Vinson, 18-year-old graduate of McKinley High School, in the class of February, 1933. The institution announced the award yesterday. Her scholastic record was the highest of any made by an applicant for the District of Columbia M. I. T. Alumni Regional Scholarship.

Miss Vinson will enter the institute when it opens September 25 as a freshman, one of the few girls enrolled there. She is undecided just what phase of engineering she will study. She is particularly interested in electrical or chemico-electrical engineering now, but does not have to make up her mind until her second year.

McKinley High School cannot have full claim on Miss Vinson's educational groundwork, for she spent only a year and a half there. She began her secondary school career at Maury High School in Norfolk, Va., and also attended school in Los Angeles before coming to Washington.

With her mother, Mrs. S. L. Vinson, Miss Vinson has lived here at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Emma B. Morris, 1209 Jefferson street northwest. She attended Commonwealth College at Mena, Ark., for a semester after finishing at McKinley.

Interested primarily in her studies, Margaret took no part in activities at McKinley, but at Commonwealth she was a member of the campus council, student governing body.

At present she is at a resort camp near Syracuse, N. Y. She is fond of outdoor life, swims and plays tennis and basketball.

Aside from these activities, Miss Vinson is an accomplished musician, having studied piano at the Norfolk Conservatory of Music. In school she interested herself especially with sciences, mathematics and languages.

Relief Leaders Seek $60,000 For Transients

Will Ask Federal Money for Those Ineligible to Regular Aid.

The District Emergency Relief committee yesterday decided to ask the Federal Relief Administration for $60,000 to care for transients in accordance with a recommendation of the Council of Social Agencies.

A separate unit of the unemployment relief division headed by Leroy A. Halbert will be established to administer this fund as soon as it is obtained, and the Travelers' Aid Society and the Salvation Army will be relieved of the burden of caring for the destitute who have not lived in Washington a year and consequently are not eligible for aid from the regular emergency relief fund.

Not Charged to District.

The $60,000 will not be charged to the District under the plan of matching State expenditures with grants a third as large, but will come from the $15,000,000 which the Federal Relief Administration has available for special disbursements.

This $60,000 is expected to last at least until the end of the calendar year and to care for approximately 16,000 persons. The Salvation Army will continue to provide food and shelter for the wandering homeless, but the cost will be borne from this transient fund.

Consolidation Discussed.

The committee yesterday also discussed further plans for consolidating unemployment relief work under the board of public welfare through absorption of the executive staff of the District Committee on Employment, now financed by the Community Chest. This will be effected about September 1.

Four or five substations are scheduled to be opened within the next week to relieve the congestion at the present headquarters, the old Metropolitan Methodist Church. The committee expects to establish all except one of these in public buildings in scattered sections of the city. The other will be on rented property.

3 Guard Policeman Following Threats

Phone Warning Believed From Friends of Man Seized as Robber.

A detective and two uniformed men were assigned to guard Patrolman George M. Nicholson last night following receipt of threats on the officer's life.

The detail was assigned to patrol Nicholson's beat in the area of Washington street northwest, between Fourth and Fifth streets, when the patrolman told his superiors at No. 1 Precinct that an anonymous telephone caller got him out of bed the other morning to warn him, "Stay away if you value your life."

Nicholson believes it may have been friends of four men he arrested for robbery in the area recently.

Judge Perkins Rites Will Be Held Today

Judge Perkins died Wednesday at Lake Mohonk, N. Y. He had a wide circle of acquaintance in this city, for many years being a prominent member of the Chevy Chase Club. He is survived by his daughter, Mrs. Anna Perkins Stewart, and a son, Gilbert B. Perkins.

White House "Squatter" Gets Two Months' Term

An irresistible desire to live near the White House will cause John Harris, a jobless itinerant, to spend the next two months in jail.

Warned two months ago by Policeman R. Howell, of the Third Precinct, to leave the District, he was tried yesterday in Police Court and given a sentence of 60 days.

Who Brings Back Topsy, A Cat, Will Receive $25

Beauty Captures Devoted Insect

The Japanese praying mantis caught by Miss Harriette Eriksen, 2009 I street northwest, must have lost more than one minute of devotion as it posed unwillingly for the above photo. The insects, introduced in this country about eight years ago to help the farmers in their fight against insect pests, have increased in number and are quite common in and around Washington.

On Guard

Police Watch Calvert Span as Groups Study New Design.

While the District Commissioners and the Fine Arts Commission try to reach a decision on the architecture of the new Calvert Street Bridge, the police will try to keep the old span from falling.

Replying to a resolution submitted by the Federation of Citizens Associations, the Commissioners yesterday wrote that police had been instructed to "keep a close watch as to the loads crossing the structure," and that the Public Utilities Commission had been asked to notify the street railway to permit only two cars on the bridge at one time.

The Commissioners expressed the opinion, however, that the "regular inspections of the engineer of bridges are sufficiently guarding the condition of the bridge."

Schrodt Death Story Attacked

Questioning of Mulligan Halted to Let Him Go to Bier, Guarded.

Changes in the story told by John C. Mulligan, charged with murdering his common-law wife, Mrs. Ella M. Schrodt, were charged by Prince Georges County police last night.

According to Policeman Claude Reese, descrepancies have appeared in Mulligan's accounts of what happened the night of the former actress' death. Mulligan admitted his mind was "not clear" Monday evening.

Questioning of Mulligan was interrupted yesterday to allow him to attend Mrs. Schrodt's funeral at Hyattsville. Under police guard, he was taken to the funeral chapel.

Accompanied by three friends, Mulligan approached the bier after the services and knelt with bowed head. He then was returned to his cell. Mrs. Schrodt was buried in Fort Lincoln Cemetery.

Investigation of Mrs. Schrodt's death probably will be concluded today, Police Lieut. Fiehley said.

Police Closing Net on Gang of Safe-Crackers

Bond Coupons Pledged for Bank Loan Give Clews in Several Cases.

The police are closing in on a "professional" gang of safe-crackers, it was revealed last night after officials of a local bank discovered a bundle of Liberty bond coupons recently stolen from a safe of the Bliss Electrical School in Takoma Park.

The coupons, it was learned, were deposited at the bank as collateral for a $150 loan. Banking officials told Inspector Frank S. W. Burke, chief of detectives, that they were valued at $175.

Since the Bliss School robbery several weeks ago, Burke declared, members of his force have tried in vain to track the thieves. The bond discovery is their first tangible clew, he said.

A definite "tie-up" with a number of recent safe robberies throughout the city has been established, Burke revealed.

Banks and business houses were warned by police last night to be on the alert for additional bonds taken from the Bliss School safe. A complete list was furnished.

Kellner was charged with transportation, illegal possession, having no tail light and failing to change his address on his license. He was released on $1,200 bond.

An outstanding feature of the regatta this year will be the Presidents' Cup banquet, to be conducted September 30, when the cup will be awarded. This will be one of a number of social affairs in connection with the races.

Race and entertainment committees will have headquarters at the Willard Hotel.
